FOREWORD AND ANNOUNCEMENT.

WITHIN the enclosed pages will be found some of the Views of Old Pittsburgh, which the compiler has been collecting for the past five years. Many familiar pictures do not appear, some of which undoubtedly deserve a place. One box of plates mislaid in storage was found too late for placing in this work in the short time in which the work was rearranged after having been cut down from a larger paged book.

An effort was made to obtain official recognition for the book from the authorities in charge of the celebration, but the committee having the matter in hand, in the few minutes they were in session, were unanimously in favor of "the other fellow." It is apparent that the Pittsburgh of our fathers and even of our youth, even the Pittsburgh of a score of years ago, is not the Pittsburgh of to-day. The designer and compiler hereof desires to show this generation and posterity what old Pittsburgh looked like. Many scenes will recall bright and sunny days in the erstwhile "Smoky City"—PITTSBURGH THE FAMOUS.

To-day the I beams of the Bessemer age pierce the sky where once lay in dense masses those clouds of smoke which were our trademark and our pride. With a single exception, historical landmarks here are extinct. We can preserve only what has been left in picture form. Commerce is without sentiment and Progress turns its back on history.

Surely this small collection will appeal to Pittsburghers wherever they may be. The price of it hardly covers the cost of printing and paper. It is put forth now in these sesqui-centennial times as an advertisement for a beautiful and much larger edition of "Flem's Views of Old Pittsburgh," for the library table, a subscription work now in preparation at $10.00 per volume, which will probably be ready within the next twelve months. Correspondence and interviews are requested with any interested in such a publication, both as to matter and patronage.

The compiler desires to thank the Historical Society of Pennsylvania for the use of the copyright picture of Wm. Penn, the original painting having come to them from the Penn family. Mr. David Homer Bates has also very kindly permitted the use of the Carnegie boys' portraits. Mr. Wm. G. Johnston and others have been drawn on and are worthy of mention for their kindness.

In conclusion the undersigned hopes for a cordial and remunerative reception by Pittsburgh people for what is distinctively a Pittsburgh book.

FRIDAY MORNING, APRIL 18, 1845.

ON THE TENTH OF APRIL, 1845.

This awful calamity, from its immense and appalling magnitude, is very difficult to grasp in all its details, without a long and minute examination. The more the mind dwells upon it the greater does it appear. As when one ascends a mountain the higher he progresses the wider the view which opens to him, so the more we contemplate this transcendent disaster, the more we are impressed with its magnitude. To see such an amount of wealth struck out of existence—annihilated in the brief space of eight hours, is something to be mused about and treasured up in men's minds as a powerfully significant commentary upon the instability of all things earthly. The whole tremendous tragedy, with all its lights and shades, its effects at the moment and permanently, upon the minds and fortunes of men, is exuberantly fruitful in food for philosophical reflection. The elasticity of Mind under so heavy a blow is something too, to be carefully noted, and verily, until we saw for ourselves that men could bear so much we would not have believed it.

But we do not wish by the force of mere language to impress the reader, either, that we are not injured very seriously, or, on the other hand, that we are ruined. The truth lies exactly between those extremes. We need and look for aid from abroad and from a parental State government—and we have sufficient confidence in human nature to believe we shall receive it. But are we to sit down and say we can do nothing? Far from it; we shall use all the means we have and thankfully receive all the aid we can get, and between the two overcome all the evil.

For the information of our readers abroad who did not see our paper of Friday, we will again briefly sketch the origin and progress of the fire.

It commenced on Thursday exactly five minutes past 12 M. by the clock in our office, in the Ice House of Col. Diell, Ferry street, near the corner of Front st. It is believed to have originated by a woman building a fire in a yard adjoining it, for the purpose of washing. Be the cause what it may, the fire commenced with a building of no value. For more than two weeks previous, the weather had been parching dry—high winds prevailed every day; and between the weather, wind and dust, the city was excessively unpleasant. It was in this state of things that the Tower sounded—the infallible warning which is never given but when there is a cause for it—the Bell of the Third Presbyterian Church was struck. To every one who looked at the state of the weather, the wind, &c., it was alarming, and it was but a very few minutes until sufficient cause was seen that the fear was well-founded. The fire originated in the corner of a nest of wooden buildings, and fed by the breeze, crawled, leaped, and fairly licked the dry wood. After enveloping the frames, it took across the street in different directions; but the most serious course was to the Globe Cotton Factory opposite. By looking carefully at the annexed the reader can trace its course. It commenced on the corner of Ferry and Second; crossed to the opposite side of Ferry st., where part of a square was burnt, as is shown by the black space; (the burnt district is shown by the black part of the diagram, the unburnt by the light part) about the same time, as observed above, it crossed over to the Globe Factory, and threatened the 3rd Presbyterian Church, which was saved by extraordinary exertions, and by it, at the least calculation, a dozen more squares.

DIAGRAM OF THE CITY OF PITTSBURGH,

It then progressed diagonally across the square bounded by Ferry, Third Market and Second streets, and about equally as fast up the entire square bounded by Ferry, Second, Market and Front streets. After crossing Market st. it extended on the one side down to Water street, and the other across from Third to Fourth, just behind our office. It was then four and a half squares broad, and to the end swept every thing up to Grant's Hill and the Canal. The latter is the white space just above Horse street, but not named in the diagram. Here it skipped over a number of frame and other buildings, as is shown in the cut, and re-commenced, devouring everything clear up to the top of Kensington—in the Diagram, this latter place is named "Pipe town."

Nothing was spared—very little was saved. The progress of the fire as it danced and leaped with its forked tongue, from house to house, from block to block, and from square to square, was awfully magnificent. The Monongahela House did not stand more than half an hour, and the Monongahela bridge only ten minutes. The configuration stopped for want of food finally. We have said so much in other parts of this paper we need not add more here.

"Well," said we to one of our Merchant friends on Saturday, who is a heavy town, "what do you intend to do?" "Break out in a fresh place," said he. Thought we, you are the man to get along—may they all break out in the same way.

"During the great fire in New York, Mr. ARTHUR TAPPAN made a contract for re-building his store before it was burnt to the ground." His energy we think, will be imitated by some of our what is peculiarly gratifying, the entire Congressional delegation is thoroughly exultant, and instead of being misrepresented in the National Legislature by four Locofocos, Connecticut will send into that body four good Whigs—thus making a change of eight votes in the United States House of Representatives. This is a change that may have a very important bearing on the interests of the whole country, and at any rate furnishes very gratifying evidence of the stern conservatism of old "Steady Habits."

The following are the returns of the vote for Governor so far as they have reached us—

TOWN MEETING.

SATURDAY April 12.

Pursuant to public notice a very large meeting of the citizens of the city of Pittsburgh and vicinity assembled in the Diamond.

The meeting was organized by calling his Honor the Mayor to the Chair, and appointing, J. W. Jackson, Hon. W. Porter, Col. Wm. Robinson, Vice Presidents.

John Wynne, John Whitten, Secretaries. The Chairman then stated the object of the meeting. Col. Robinson then read the following letter which was adopted by the meeting.

"Pittsburgh, April 12, 1845.

His Excellency

FRANCIS R. SAKNE.

Dear Sir:

We implore you in behalf of a ruined city, in behalf of thousands of helpless women and children, in the name of the Most High, and for the sake of every humane and benevolent emotion of the heart of man, to extend by the interposition of an authority vested in the Executive, the session of the Legislature, now drawing to a close, in order that the condition of this suffering and prostrate people may be laid before the general assembly for the purpose of considering such suggestions for their relief as we confidently trust will receive the prompt and willing assent of the constituted authorities of the State."

On motion of Col. Robinson the chairman appointed the following persons a committee to memorialize the legislature, and to take into consideration all other measures calculated to benefit the sufferers:

Hon. Wm. Porter, Hon. Richard Biddle, Thos. Howe, Esq., Hon. Benj. Patton, Col. Wm. Robinson, Thos. Bakewell, Esq., Hon. R. C. Grier, H. S. Magraw, Esq., George Miltenberger, Thos. Williams, Esq.

Thos. Williams Esq., read a draft of a memorial to the Legislature which was unanimously adopted.

On motion, Resolved that the Farmers, Millers, and Agriculturists of the surrounding country, be requested to send to the Mayor of Pittsburgh, such donations of provisions or money as they may feel disposed to give towards the alleviation of the sufferers.

On motion, Resolved that the above committee be enabled to appoint sub-committees to visit them to put into execution such measures as may be adopted to carry out the object of the meeting.

The old Court House was then fixed upon as a depot at which the Mayor should receive the donations of our fellow-citizens from the country.

Our Great Fire—Notices of the Press.

The Philadelphia U. S. Gazette, introducing the account of our great calamity, uses the following language:

"It is with deep commiseration for the individual sufferers, and sympathy with the community, that we, this morning, record a most extensive and destructive fire in the city of Pittsburgh. We give such particulars as we have now; they are not satisfactory to thousands who are asking after individual sufferings, but they are sufficient to show that the Western Emporium of Pennsylvania has experienced a visitation of most awful moment. Most heartily do we grieve for our friends there; and we share with every Philadelphian that we have seen in this grief. For a great amount of property destroyed, there can be no compensation, but in patient resignation, and renewed industry. The talents, and the natural means that made Pittsburgh what she was on Thursday morning, can restore to her all the wealth she has lost. But there are individuals that must be prostrate. There are some families, perhaps—nay, there may be many, for we are not acquainted with the localities—who are made destitute, while the liberal hands towards which they would confidently and satisfactorily have looked in ordinary calamities, are now made empty by the same calamity that produced their own destitution. If such is the case, we feel no hesitancy in saying that Philadelphia is ready to help, aid, and assist—that she will contribute with all her accustomed liberality, to mitigate those immediate wants that press thus heavily."

The same paper, in another place, has the remarks following. We thank brother CHANDLER, on the behalf of our citizens, for his kind suggestions:

PITTSBURGH FIRE.

We give in another part of this morning's paper, all the particulars that we could gather from

THE GREAT FIRE.—It is very seldom, perhaps never before in this country, been the duty of the public journal to chronicle such an awful calamity as has lately befallen the citizens of Pittsburgh. The losses, although severe to the citizens of the city, are not confined to them; there is hardly a business town in the West, if in the United States, that will not feel it directly or indirectly. Aid should be rendered this suffering people. The distress must be beyond imagination.

The Baltimore Sun shows its sympathy in the following remarks. No doubt Baltimore will be among the foremost to extend relief to our unfortunate city:

THE PITTSBURGH CALAMITY.—RELIEF.—On our first page will be found an account of a most disastrous conflagration, which has converted a large portion of the flourishing city of Pittsburgh into a heap of smouldering ruins. Since the great conflagration in the city of New York, familiarly known as "the great fire," nothing of the kind has occurred in this country, to equal this in the extent of its destructiveness; in fact, this is comparatively, or rather actually, by far the greater calamity of the two. New York could bear that damage, which Pittsburgh could not; and in this case we believe the actual loss of property is as great as that of the former city on the disastrous occasion referred to. We may not be exactly right in our comparative estimate, for want of the data which memory fails to furnish; but we cannot be wrong in calling the attention of the public to this recent calamity, with a view to excite general sympathy, and bring relief to the sufferers.

To this end it would seem unnecessary to make any labored argument in favor of the cause of humanity. The simple facts of the case constitute an appeal of irresistible eloquence, which we trust will be responded to by every city in the Union, and every section in the country. That it will not be made in vain here we feel assured, not only because of the proverbially generous character of this community, but because also of the exceedingly deep impression which the awful occurrence has already produced. From the promulgation of the first rumor relative to it, anxiety grew and increased so much that we deemed it necessary and proper to give to the public, in an extra sheet, such information as had reached us, and from the evidences of sympathy with the sufferers, exhibited by the numbers who thronged our office, it seemed not difficult to infer action in accordance with the spirit made manifest. It is therefore to be promptly taken here, and perhaps it would be as well to suggest at once the recommendation by the Mayor, of a general meeting of the citizens, at which ward committees of appeal and collection could be appointed, and any other measures adopted that might be deemed proper.

We should be glad to see Baltimore take the initiative in this matter, and set a good example to her sister cities. Indeed her intimate business relations with the afflicted, the ruined city, have in them sufficient motives, apart from the just claims of suffering humanity, to induce prompt action in the way of relief. And the same may be said of nearly all our principal cities, and of large sections of the country.

THE PRESBYTERY OF OHIO.

The following preamble and resolutions were adopted by the Presbytery of Ohio at its session just closed. They breathe a proper spirit, and will meet with a response in every pious heart.

Whereas, in the adorable Providence of God the city of Pittsburgh, in the heart of this community, of which we constitute a part, has, during the last week, been visited by one of the most desolating conflagrations known to the history of our country; and whereas, it becomes us to regard this occurrence with special attention, as it has fallen out at our own doors and most deeply concerns us, and those with whom as fellow-citizens and fellow-Christians we are most intimately connected; and whereas, our meeting at this time affords a suitable opportunity to give an expression of our views and feelings in reference to this most distressing visitation; therefore,

1. Resolved, That this Presbytery regard with deep sensibility the solemn and afflicting Providence by which so much of the wealth and many of the homes and comforts of their fellow-citizens have been swept away, and some valuable lives lost, and they desire hereby to express their most affectionate sympathy with the suffering community on the occasion.

2. Resolved, That it becomes all, and especial

RELIANCE PORTABLE BOAT COMPANY

Line of Iron Boats.

For the Transportation of Goods between Philadelphia & Pittsburgh.

This improvement secures to Merchants important advantages, as goods placed in the Boats at one point, are never removed until they reach the warehouse at the other. Thus disposing with the risk and delay of transshipment at three different points on the route. Careful and experienced Captains and crews are employed, who accompany the boats the whole distance.

The Boats are built in sections, which are separated on their arrival at the Portage and Columbia Rail Roads, transferred from the water upon Cars to the road, and continue their course by the agency of steam power.

Owing to the peculiar construction of the Boats, the risk of damage to goods is but trifling, as it is impossible to injure more than one section at any one time; and their light draught enables them to perform their trips in from three to four days less than by any other mode.

The company solicit a continuance of the increasing patronage they have experienced for the past two years, and their friends may depend upon their business being done upon as fair and liberal terms as by any other line.

Goods consigned to either of the following houses will be despatched without delay, and all freights and charges paid when required.

For the relief of sick and wounded Soldiers.

"This extraordinary War in which we are engaged falls heavily upon all classes of people, but the most heavily upon the Soldier. For it has been said, all that a man hath will he give for his life; and while all contribute of their substance, the Soldier puts his life at stake, and often yields it up in his Country's cause. The highest merit, then, is due to the Soldier."

Cash for Wool.

The subscriber will pay half cash for clean wool, delivered at his works in Fair field tp, Westmoreland co —or he will exchange his make of goods at wholesale price for wool.

He has on hands an excellent assortment of goods, consisting in part of groceries, tinware,

HARDWARE; QUEENSWARE;

Shoes, Hats, Bonnets, &c.

All which he will dispose of on as good terms as they can be had elsewhere. Fish, salt, Nails and many other heavy articles sold at a trifling advance over cost and carriage.

Persons wishing to have their wool manufactured, can have it done in the best manner, as he is prepared with an additional set of machinery for working fine wool. He has reduced his prices, below what work of the same kind is done for at any other establishment in the west. This he is enabled to do in consequence of the good quality and increase of his machinery.— He has in his employ the best workmen, and warrants all work to be well done.

He will make Satinetts for prompt pay at 40 cents per yard. Cloth, Blankets, flannels, &c. at corresponding prices.— Wool carded for cash at 4 cents per lb.

Any quantity of Hard soap and lard taken in payment for work or Goods.
