LIBRARY WANTS BOOKS FOR ARMY AND NAVY

Public Is Asked to Give Books
For the Use of Soldiers and Sailors

AUG. 13-18 IS GIFT WEEK

To the People of Conshohocken:

Your personal assistance is now needed in the immediate collection of books and magazines for the men in the training camps. The American Library Association has been asked by the War Department to assume the responsibility for providing adequate library facilities in all cantonments and training camps.

We have, or will have, 32 regular cantonments and several large camps and thousands of books are needed at once to meet the needs of the men.

The work of securing and promptly and properly distributing these books is in the hands of a committee of librarians, and every town in the United States will be asked to do its "bit." The movement is nation-wide, and every soldier is to have the chance of a book to read and the books will be in charge of trained workers. The need is urgent, the morale—as well as the morale-of the boys must be kept up. Good books are a recreation, a help, and an incentive.

The week of August 13-18 will be War Library week in Conshohocken. Every body is asked to give a book for the soldiers. The Free Library will receive, have packed and shipped, all books and magazines.

The following is suggested as the kind of books wanted:

Books of good stories are wanted most, books of adventure, sea stories, historical novels and collections of short stories, especially funny ones. Such authors as Kipling, Doyle, McCutcheon, O'Henry, Stockton, Blindness, Hopkinson Smith, Oppenheim are popular with men. Good poetry, especially Service, Kipling, Masfield, Noyes.

Foreign language study books, especially French grammar and dictionaries—in one camp one-fifth of the men are studying French.

Technical books on aviation, wireless telegraphy, submarines, automobiles, first aid and hygiene, drawing and lettering. Books of travel and history, especially of the countries at war.

Lives of heroes. Thical books on patriotism, courage, why America is at war, with direct simple non-sectarian devotional books.

Good books for boys. All grades of men must be reached by these books. Some have not the reading habit. Don't be too "high brow" in your gifts.

Fresh, attractive magazines are desired—none over two years old should be sent.

If you like, write your name and address in each book—the soldier who reads it will know some one in Conshohocken is his friend.

If you prefer to give money instead of books do it, stating whether it is to be spent to buy new books, subscribe to new magazines, or to defray expenses.

Send books and magazines at any time during the week of August 13-18 to the Free Library, corner Fayette street and Third avenue. If you can't send them let the librarian know and they will be sent for.

Conshohocken has been splendidly generous and fine in its contribution of men and money. We have surely placed our town on the map of the heart of our country by our response to its call and needs. Now our boys may not get books from our town, but some boys will, and ours will get books from some town. This call has come, let us all pull together and once more do more than our bit. Send all the books you can spare and would like some boy away-from-home to have.

SALLY M. AKIN, Librarian.

OLD ESTATE SOLD

Adolph Talone, of Ardmore and a brother of Nicholas and Anthony Talone, of this borough, has purchased of the Annie E. Penfield estate, the property bounded by Forrest street, Hector street, Robinson's alley and First avenue. The improvements consist of two three-story, brick dwellings on Forrest street, and a small frame dwelling on Hector street. The purchase price was $5000.

NAVY MAN ADVISES YOUNG MEN TO ENLIST

Lawrence G. Meyers, Son of George Meyers, Who Has Served in Both Army and Navy Will Reenlist in Latter.

George Meyers, Tenth avenue and Fayette street, has received a letter from his son, Lawrence G. Meyers, who is a petty officer on a United States war ship which is stationed on the Pacific coast. In 1910, he enlisted in the cavalry and served three years. At the expiration of his enlistment, he immediately enlisted in the navy and his enlistment expires September 8.

In his letter dated at San Francisco July 30, he writes: "I have 39 days to serve from today, then, I will be paid off, but the next day I will reenlist for four years. If I did not reenlist, it would look bad on my part in the way of being patriotic which counts a good bit nowadays."

"I will get 20 or 30 days leave and come home as I am anxious to see all the folks. I must be in uniform as we are forbidden to wear civilian clothes at all since the war."

"You will be surprised how I have advanced in the past 8 months. I am a first class petty officer, which is almost impossible to make in less than four years, and when I 'ship' over 39 days from now, my pay will be $72.50 per month—not so bad either—that's better than $125 as a civilian."

"You had better tell Ferd and Carroll (his brothers) to get into the navy instead of being drafted into the army, as there are better chances for advancement in the navy."

"Out here, we do not know anything of the war conditions. Everything is done under sealed orders."

Mr. Meyers has made good in the navy and believes it a good life for a young and ambitious man to enter. He expects to arrive home September 15 and spend a vacation here previous to again being placed on active duty.

WEST SIDE POLANDER KILLED IN THE WEST

Wife Was On Way to Join Him When Death Message Was Received.

As she was on her way from her home, 35 Front street, West Conshohocken, to the Pennsylvania railroad station in this borough, yesterday afternoon, to purchase a ticket to go to Wyandotte, Mich., to join her husband, Mrs. Jahn Mowycz received a telegram to the effect that he had been killed on Sunday while at his work as a laborer in that city.

Mowycz had been a resident of West Conshohocken since he was a child. As soon as he was old enough he secured employment as a laborer at the Alan Wood Iron & Steel Company and worked for the firm at the Schuylkill Iron Works and the Ivy Rock Steel plant until two weeks ago. The day he quit the local firm he left for Wyandotte, Michigan, to accept a position waiting for him. He was induced to go West on account of the high wages. He was receiving $3.20 per day.

He liked the place as well as his work and wrote home last week for his wife to join him and she immediately made preparations to go to the Michigan town. She had left her home and was on her way to the railroad station when she received the message. Instead of returning she continued on her way and expects to reach her destination tonight. It is not known whether she will bring the body to West Conshohocken for burial.

Mowycz was an industrious worker and saved money. It was stated this morning that he has a considerable amount of money deposited in a local bank. He was twenty-seven years of age.

Beside his wife he is survived by one son, thirteen months old.

Candidates for Town Council.

Former Councilman John A. Harrold has acceded to the wishes of his many friends in both parties, in the First ward, and has decided to become a candidate for the Republican nomination for Town Council from that ward. M. J. O'Brien, a member of the present Council, will be a candidate for the Democratic nomination, in the First.

There are two Councilmen to be elected from the First ward and both parties have been experiencing difficulty in securing strong candidates.

Both men have served in Council and have given honest and efficient service to the taxpayers.

LABOR TROUBLE A MISUNDERSTANDING

Employees of the Wood Manufacturing Plant Adjust Their Trouble and Go To Work

UNION DELEGATE HERE

The labor trouble which caused the gas welders working on the 12 to 8 o'clock shift at the plant of the John Wood Manufacturing Company to quit their work and leave the mill last Friday morning has been satisfactorily adjusted to both employer and employee and the men resumed their work as usual yesterday morning.

The Company and the Union entered into a six-months' agreement which does not expire until next month and according to the agreement neither side can make a change without a written notice of thirty days. The company created three new positions and placed three of the regular welders in the positions and advanced them from fifty to fifty five cents an hour. Other workmen, not understanding that the company was doing what it should, claimed that all the welders were entitled to the increase and believed the company was breaking its agreement with the union. Instead of taking their grievance to the Union through the department committee the men simply walked out and tied up the plant.

Representative Scott of the Gas Welder's Union, came from Philadelphia on Sunday afternoon and attended a meeting of the Local Union at the headquarters in the Washington Hose House and went over the situation and found that the men were wrong in their action; that it was the employees and not the firm who had violated the agreement.

He claimed that the firm was justified in its action and after the matter was properly explained to the men they agreed to return to their work. Mr. Scott was at the plant yesterday morning to see all of the men reported at the proper time. Some of them balked for a while but the representative was determined in his stand and after seeing his persistency every man went into the works.

When asked for a statement, Mr. Scott said: "The entire trouble was a misunderstanding, and everything has been adjusted in a manner satisfactory to both the men and the firm." He returned to Philadelphia on the noon train.

POSSIBLE CHANGE IN WEST SIDE SCHOOLS

Departmental Work to be Instituted.

Schools will be Overcrowded.

The August meeting of the West Conshohocken School Board was held last evening and the work for the coming term was discussed. It has long been the desire of Supervising Principal T. J. Steltz to introduce departmental work and the Board last evening after a long discussion of the advantages to be gained granted permission for him to arrange his schedule of departmental work.

The schools were overcrowded last year from present indications the condition this year will be worse.

Tax Collector Philip Eckart, submitted the 1915 duplicate for settlement. Exonerations were asked for in the amount of $58.75 apportioned the different wards as follows: First Ward—$16.95. Second Ward—$27.20. Third Ward—$14.60. The exonerations were granted.

Liens in the amount of $126.91 were asked to be entered against properties. The owners in each instance will be notified to make settlement within a certain time or the liens will be entered and the properties sold.

A communication was received from the State Department notifying the Board of the passage of the Act fixing the minimum teachers' salary and further stating that the law goes into effect immediately, but that the State will not begin to reimburse the district until the close of the school year in July, 1918.

The Building Committee reported that repairs are being made to the building and the same will be completed before the opening of the schools on Monday, August 27.

DUTIES FOR HOME GUARD

Home Guards Will Enforce Silence Warning to Aliens A new duty has been added to be taken care of by the Home Defense Police. It will be to enforce the warning given aliens by the United States Attorney General to "Obey the law and keep your mouth shut." The signature of Governor Brumbaugh on July 18 to the act creating this auxiliary police force gave the necessary legal authority and plans for complete enrollment have already been formulated by Major John C. Groome. Cumberland county is carrying out the plan of organization, under Captain D. E. Brindle, it was announced Wednesday at the headquarters of the Public Safety Committee. The system followed in Cumberland county will be followed in all counties. Instructions will be sent out in the near future, to all local committees outlining the methods of organization and directing a speedy and adequate enrollment. The adopted plan provides that the Home Defense Police of each county shall consist of a headquarters and patrol system, the platoons being strategically located for rapid concentration of the various units. In cities of the first class, chiefs of police will have command, while in townships of the first class township commissioner will have charge. Authorized officials will command elsewhere. The system now being put into effect applies only to counties. A variation of this system will be made effective in larger cities. Primarily the duties of the force will be to assist local authorities in the preservation of order in the vicinity of their home and to protect life and property from the destruction attending internal disorders in war time. Men between the ages of 21 and 60 years, ineligible by reason of age or dependents for serving in the military or naval forces, may enroll, provided they are civilians and residents of the county, in good health and of good habits. Equipment will consist of a special badge bearing the county name and member's number; a blue and white arm band, showing the State coat of arms, for display on the left arm, while the wearer is on active duty; a whistle and a police "billie". The badge is to be worn visibly on the left breast during the service call, but at other times is to be worn under the coat. Competent drill masters will give military instruction and will drill the units in riot, are and other police duties.

GULF MILLS

John Echingsham is able to be about following a spell of illness. An electric bolt struck the wires on the overhead bridge at Port Kennedy and broke all the small light globes. Michael Burns, of West Conshohocken, has obtained a position as watchman at the Montgomery Woolen Mill. Blackberries of the wild variety are very plentiful in this vicinity this season and large quantities of them are being gathered and prepared in different ways for winter use. Mrs. Margaret Wilkinson, of Easton, Pa., is spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. William McDowell, at this place. Mrs. Samuel Floyd Platt and daughter Nancy, of St. Louis, are visiting Mrs. J. Arthur McFarland, of Gulf Mills. Miss Bessie Maguire who is at her home here recuperating from an attack of appendicitis, continues to improve. She expects to resume her duties as bookkeeper for Mehl & Latta, lumber and coal firm of the Main Line, in the near future. The Port Kennedy Band received a check for $50 from Jesse Welker, of Meadowbrook Farm, Chester valley, said amount being donated toward the new band hall along school road. Robert and Raymond Graham, Benjamin and Miles Fisher, and Clarence Shafer, of Gulf Mills, were on an automobile trip through the Schuylkill Valley as far as Reading on Sunday. They report many fields of oats still unharvested in that part of the State. The cellar work on the new bungalow to be erected on the former Millington property by Percy Varian has been completed, and the other work is likely to be started this week. It is understood that the dwelling will be occupied by John F. Morton, a Philadelphia business man, who has resided at Gulf Mills for a time, and who formerly resided in Norristown. While a gasoline engine drawing a threshing machine was descending a hill near Port Kennedy the driver lost control, and the two machines plunged over a 25-foot embankment into a field below. Seeing imminent danger, the driver jumped in time to escape injury. After considerable difficulty the engine and thresher were righted on the roadway. Not much damage resulted. W. W. Walker, of King-of-Prussia, who is engaged in the threshing business has started to thresh the 1917 crops of grain for farmers throughout this section of the country. Mr. Walker carries a regular agricultural train while going the rounds to complete the work, including traction engine, threshing machine, baling equipment, large tank to furnish a water supply, etc. Besides this he has a good force of workmen. There is perhaps more growing corn in the Gulf Mills district this year than for some years past, giving evidence that the farmers and others who planted it believe in preparedness. Fields that heretofore were not utilized for anything in particular and which furnished a good crop of weeds, this year have a different aspect, for the fine growing corn has taken the place of the obnoxious weeds. The appearance of the corn at present is indicative of a good yield of the golden ears. The potato crop in this vicinity will be good this year, according to statements of persons who have been digging some of the tubers for family use. Newton Morton and Walter McCord, of Cordova, Md., arrived at Gulf Mills on Sunday morning about 5 o'clock by automobile, having been en route all night from the town in Maryland. The autoists went thirty miles out of their way, and also experienced some trouble with their machine, a Pullman roadster. They spent Sunday with Walter McCord's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. George Shoffner, and left for home in the evening, going via West Chester. Mr. Shoffner accompanied them as far as the latter place. Mr. Morton, who motored to Gulf Mills several years ago, is assistant superintendent at the large canneries at Cordova, a plant where different kinds of vegetables are canned for the market. That the Garden Party held on the lawn of Edward F. Munshower for the benefit of Trinity Mission of Gulf Mills was a success financially can be substantiated by the report of the person at the head of the affair, which showed the net receipts to be the handsome sum of $113. It is understood that this amount will be used to install electrical equipment in the new parish building of the mansion which is nearing completion. Harry Rupp still continues to improve in the Bryn Mawr Hospital, where he is confined suffering from burns. Rupp was most seriously burned about the body. Although somewhat injured about the face, it is not thought that there will be any disfiguration of his countenance. Rupp will be obliged to remain in the hospital for some time.

A concrete mixer belonging to T. V. Smith, of Norristown, will do the concrete work at the rebuilding of the Balmoral d.m. Rev. Herbert McDermott, pastor of the Port Kennedy Presbyterian church and his wife, have gone to the clergyman's former home in North Carolina. The trip is being made by automobile. Mrs. Percy Varian, daughters Marjorie and Dorothy and Helen and Elizabeth Morton left yesterday for Atlantic City for a two weeks' sojourn. The Square Deal Bible Class of the Gulf Christian Church, of which Rev. M. W. Butler is teacher, held a social last week at the residence of Clarence Nippes, Mechanicsville. The evening was spent in a pleasant manner with music a prominent feature. A fine repast was served. About fifty persons from Gulf Mills, Mechanicsville and other places in this vicinity accompanied the excursion to Brandywine Springs on Saturday. They left Gulf station on the P. & W. railway on the 7.40 A. M. train and arrived home late in the evening. The Square Deal Bible Class of the Gulf Christian Church will take an excursion to the Springs some time during August. Henry Harrold, the well known Civil War veteran, the popular and active member of George Smith Post G. A. R. and one of Conshohocken's most respected citizens, celebrated on Saturday, August 4th the seventy-third anniversary of his birth.

Mr. Harrold, or "Uncle Hen," as he is familiarly called—is still robust in health, interested in the town's welfare, and as full of patriotism as when a mere boy he trudged to a Philadelphia recruiting office to enter the ranks for the Civil War service.

Congratulations came from a wide circle of friends during the entire day. In the evening a party of relatives and intimate acquaintances called on Mr. Harrold at his residence, Elm and Harry streets, to extend personally their good wishes.

The genial host made the affair a pleasing one for all. An elaborate luncheon, vocal and instrumental music, interspersed with recitations and reminiscences of "Auld Lang Syne" made up a programme that fittingly closed the day, leaving another pleasure in the memory of those who assisted in doing honor to an esteemed friend and soldier.

RED CROSS BLOCK PARTY WAS SUCCESSFUL

The block party given by the West Conshohocken Branch of the Red Cross on the grounds adjoining the George Clay fire house on Saturday evening was a grand success and the amount realized will be between $150 and $200.

Everything combined to make the affair the grand success previously predicted. Perfect weather conditions, attractive amusements, excellent music and the hearty co-operation of the residents in general were the contributing factors.

The generosity and hospitality extended to the Red Cross by the members of the fire company furnished the best site in the borough on which to hold the party with the conveniences in the building at their disposal.

The Conshohocken Symphony Orchestra, under the leadership of Professor Edward Hammer, of Philadelphia, rendered a delightful musical program, which was highly appreciated by the large audience.

The automobile service was up-to-date and did a thriving business. Much of the proceeds of the party was received through this channel.

The Red Cross booth in which the community nurse gave demonstrations in bandaging and first aid work was the center of attraction for the greater part of the evening.

The committees worked untiringly in preparing for the party and left no stone unturned until the affair had passed into history as a decided success.

The cooperation of the public in general was a source of great gratification to the committees in charge. Many contributions were received for the party, the people turned out in large numbers and spent liberally in order to aid the Red Cross in carrying out their noble and humane work.

Red Men To Hold a Reunion.

The Tribes of Red Men of Bucks and Montgomery counties will hold a reunion and picnic at Menlo Park, Perkasie, Saturday, September 1. Arrangements are now being made for the affair and Washita Tribe, of this borough, is represented on the committee of arrangements by George Giles. It is expected the reunion will result in organizing the two counties into a district and annual convention will be held to further the interests of the Order throughout the two counties.

PLYMOUTH MEETING

Philip Corson is clerking for the Corson firm during the absence of Miss Abbie Webster.

Bolton Corson, son of Walter H. Corson, has received an appointment as First Lieutenant in the aviation section of the Signal Corps.

Post Master H. O. Young, had the Post Office closed a part of Saturday last during the time his mother was laid away.

Miss Abbie Webster, the efficient clerk in the office of G. & W. H. Corson, is taking the week for vacation, and will spend most of the time at Stone Harbor N. J. where her father has property and cottages.

Samuel Fenkenstein started off five double teams on Sunday evening for Camp Dix near Wrightstown N. J. to Army Camp now under construction. He will be employed in excavating for the cantonment being built for the new army.

Yesterday, a carpenter employed on the new house being erected in Plymouth for Miss Ada Fisher, had the misfortune to fall from a scaffold by a board breaking. Dr. Corson was called but could not locate any broken bones, though the man was considerably bruised by the fall.

The annual picnic of the Cold Point Sabbath school will go to Valley Park on Wednesday of this week. The trip will be made by train and trolley. A large number of the school and friends always attend this annual event, and a goodly number is expected to attend this year.

Dr. Tupper, pastor of the Cold Point Baptist church, has accepted an invitation to speak at the open air meeting in Conshohocken next Sunday evening. The service will be held on the lawn of the Presbyterian church where the congregations of the Lutheran, Baptist, and Presbyterian churches will unite for service.

Last Saturday afternoon Mrs. Harry Miller entertained the little folks of the Cold Point Sabbath school at her home north of Cold Point: She has them under her care on Sundays during the sessions of the school and each year gives them an afternoon picnic. They thoroughly enjoy the occasions and the treat of ice cream and cake always goes with the affair.

Friday is Canning Day.

The housekeepers of the borough are again invited to the Parish House of Calvary church, Friday morning at 8.30 o'clock, to can and dry fruits and vegetables. Miss Caroline Niblo will be present to supervise the work and give suggestions. The women are invited to bring their jars, fruits and vegetables. The session will be held on Friday morning of each week during this month.

VISITS 32 DINING PLACES, FINDS 13 REALLY CLEAN

Norristown Health Officer Warns Slovenly Hotel and Restaurant Keepers.

Out of thirty-eight hotels, restaurants and public dining rooms in Norristown inspected by Health Officer White within the last month only thirteen were awarded a certificate of cleanliness. According to the health officer's report to the Norristown Board of Health, thirteen places were found in excellent condition, twelve were good, eight were fair, one not good and four bad. Three out of sixteen dining rooms and restaurants received certificates of cleanliness and ten out of twenty-two hotels.

Five places other than hotels were given a specified time to clean up or be closed by the Board of Health. All such proprietors were warned that the health officer would not be so merciful the next time: that when he found a dirty place he would close it at once. The health officer reported the common roller towel and the common drinking cup had disappeared.

TUESDAY, AUGUST 7, 1917.

The Kaiser has conferred another order on Marshal Von Hindenburg. If the Marshal loses his present job, he may engage in the foundry business as he has a fairly good tonnage of raw material in his decorations.

The Agricultural Department reports Pennsylvania will have a record crop of potatoes of good quality. It will be a good act of preparedness on the part of housewives to purchase the winter's supply of potatoes directly from the producer and beat the speculators.

Farmers Can Cut Living Cost.

Every investigation made as to the cost of producing food and its selling price to the consumer has shown the producer does not receive a high price and that the consumer is fleeced. The speculators buy direct from the producer and store the products in cold storage, elevators, warehouses and even in railroad cars. They release the products in small quantities to keep control of the markets.

Farmers near cities and towns can give great aid in maintaining a fair price for food stuffs to the consumer and get better prices for themselves by selling direct to the consumer.

The farmer must adopt modern business methods. He is r. pidly doing so in the operation of his farm but neglects the selling end of his business. Farmers must advertise! They must tell the people in the nearby towns what they have to sell and at what price. The farmer who takes the initiative will reap the profits the quickest. He could tell the people when vegetables are ripe and the automobiles would wear out the lane leading to his door in the loads of buyers they would bring.

If the farmer sold direct to the public, he would change the method of living which town people are rapidly adopting, that of buying only sufficient for one day or even one meal. This method has been brought about by the packers and canners. They put up food in small, convenient packages. However, the convenience is more for the packers and canners as they can, at will, reduce the weight of the contents of the package a fraction of an ounce without reducing the selling price. Look at the package goods and see how many of them have been shaved in weight. There are few sixteen-ounce packages on the market today.

The farmer in selling direct to the consumer could readily show the advantages gained in buying in large quantities and would encourage housewives to depend upon their own larders rather than upon the canneries and packers.

The farmers would have another advantage in selling. Their selling season would be in the fine weather when the people are using their automobiles to the fullest. The marketing trips would be a pleasure and a profit.

Has Unionism Failed?

The plant of the John Wood Manufacturing Company is Unionized. The Union was effected with the concurrence and cooperation of the company. Much good resulted for the employees immediately and great things were anticipated for the future. The officers of the company are believers in Unions. They believe the men should be organized so that better working conditions may be secured and a fair wage will always be paid. They believe the employees should be organized and their representatives be always in close touch with the business, that there may be closer contact with the employers and all misunderstandings be thoroughly investigated that injustice may not be done.

The John Wood Manufacturing Company has made many endeavors to maintain an harmonious organization and the great majority of the employees cooperated and were enjoying the first fruits of better conditions and better wages, and had a very bright prospect for the future, when suddenly, all this cooperative work was given a severe set back by a number of members of the Union, repudiating their allegiance to their Union and their words to their employer, went on strike at 2.30 o'clock last Friday morning. The men would not recognize the authority of their Union; they recognized no authority or responsibility except their personal desires. They delivered a mighty blow against unionized labor in Conshohocken.

Unions have put up their greatest fights in their efforts to organize plants. Here, there was no fight. The employers invited the Union here and aided in the organization. Now, a few of the members of the Union by unmanly and unfair and unjust actions, in a few minutes, have performed an injustice against their employers, their fellow employees and their Union. Justice and fairness must be the motive for every act if right is to prevail. The strikers have been unjust. If their cause is just, a way was provided for a hearing and the strength of the Union was behind them. The cause would have been heard fairly and some adjustment would have been made. The honorable and fair way was not pursued.

The life of the Union here is now at stake. It is the duty of the Union to deal with its rebellious members, for if the Union cannot meet its obligations, it is a failure. If the Union fails here, its own members are responsible.

However, the local Union is not dead; it has suffered a severe wound; the affected spots must be cut out and kept out and the wound will heal. It is up to the Union officials to so clean house that the honor and justice of the Union will be worthy of confidence.

IRON ORE DEPOSITS
 Valuable Ore in Whitemarsh and Plymouth Townships.

There are three distinct ridges of iron ore extending east and west, between the Schuylkill river and the Wissahickon creek. The southern ridge commences at a point on the H. Righter property, at Spring Mill, thence extends east through properties now owned by W. W. Harper (Andorra Nurseries), Trullinger and F. Oberle. It there disappears and does not become in evidence again until found on the Charles Williams property, north of Germantown pike, east of Barren Hill. A short spur of exceptionally fine quality of ore was located on the old Lentz property, on south side of Barren Hill road, separated from the main ridge by what is known as the Barren Hill ridge of stone or silica rock.

The middle or main ridge commences at a point on the Plymouth creek north of Conshohocken, thence takes its course eastward, keeps close to the marble ridge, passes to the south of the old eight-square school house, crosses the Ridge pike, below Harmonville and the Germantown pike, a short distance north of the old white marble quarry at Marble Hill, thence extends over the northern portion of what is known as "Jewtown," on which property were very large deposits. One feature about this ridge is that the larger deposits were found in the elevated sections.

We now pass on to the third, or northern, ridge, which commences at a point where the Alan Wood Company's steel plant is now situated and takes its course eastward over their property formerly the Willis property, where large deposits were discovered, and continues a short distance on the Seven Stars property, now owned by John Wilmer. As the ground becomes more elevated the veins are fewer and smaller until we arrive at the depression on the A. D. Bartholomew, Sinclair and Phipps property, a short distance north of Harmonville, where the veins are of large proportion. The ground again becomes elevated and the veins fewer and smaller, until a point is reached a short distance north of the Marble Hill school house. From that point eastward the writer knows of no ore having been mined until the Coulston property is reached, south of Joshua road. All the ore mined in this ridge yielded a good percent of iron, and was easily smelted. The reader will notice that the location of large deposits as to elevation, is just the opposite from the middle ridge.

There is another freak of nature, north of the ridge just mentioned similar to that at Spring Mill, which commences at a point in the rear of the George Hagy property, at Plymouth Meeting, and takes its course east to a point on the Flourtown road south of the Keystone Lime Works. There was discovered about one-half a dozen pockets of ore of the finest quality, the quality being attributed to its proximity to the lime stone.

Previous to the year 1875 the ore on the properties of A. D. Bartholomew, Sinclair estate, Phipps and Keystone Lime Co., was mined to the water level, which was from 70 to 80 feet from the surface. To get what extended below water level, it necessitated the erection of pumping machinery, which at that time was expensive, and in the estimation of miners did not then pay. Some time after that date some one in sinking shafts made the discovery that they could get from six to eight feet deeper than the former workings, which would permit the mining of thousands of tons of ore, that could not be mined before without pumping. The outcome was that all old miners were interviewed with regard to the size of veins, formerly worked, where located and what might be expected, and what were considered old workings became scenes of activity for a few years after.

The cause for the sinking of water below the former level has never been satisfactorily explained. There were many conjectures, one of which is that the large pumps in operation pumping water from the L. R. Graver limestone ridge, is one-half mile north of the iron ore ridge and the intervening space is composed of dirt, which is considered a barrier to the drainage. Geology teaches that the seepage of water through stratified rock has a tendency to follow the direction of the ridge of rock takes, and when there is such a great quantity of dirt between two ridges the drainage from one ridge to the other is scarcely possible.

Stirring Stories of the Sea

By Morgan Robertson

From the Darkness and the Depths

A Sea Tale Worthy of Edgar Allan Poe

From the New Story Magazine, New York.

I HAD known him for a painter of renown—a master of his art, whose pictures, which sold for high prices, adorned museums, the parlors of the rich, and when on exhibition were hung low and conspicuous. Also, I knew him for an expert photographer—an "art photographer," as they say, one who dealt with this branch of industry as a fad, an amusement, and who produced pictures that in composition, lights and shades rivaled his productions with the brush.

Yet it never occurred to me that the wonderful and technically correct marines hanging on his walls were due to anything but the artist's conscientious study of his subject and only his casual mispronunciation of the word "leeward," which landsmen pronounce as spelled, but which rolls off the tongue of a sailor as "looward," and his giving the long sounds to the vowels of the words "patent" and "tackle" induced me to ask if he had ever been to sea.

"Why, yes," he answered. "Until I was thirty I had no higher ambition than to become a skipper, but I never achieved it. The best I ever did was to sign first mate for one voyage. It was on that voyage that I learned something of the mysterious properties of light, and it made me a photographer, then an artist. You are wrong when you say that a searchlight cannot penetrate fog."

"But it has been tried."

"With ordinary light. Yes, of course, subject to refraction, reflection and absorption by the millions of minute globules of water it encounters."

"But what other kind of light can be used?" I asked.

"Invisible light," he answered. "I do not mean the Röntgen ray nor the emanation from radium, both of which are invisible, but neither of which is light, in that neither can be reflected nor refracted. Both will penetrate many different kinds of matter, but it needs reflection or refraction to make visible an object on which it impinges. Understand?"

"Hardly," I answered dubiously. "What kind of visible light is there if not radium or the Röntgen ray? You can photograph with either, can't you?"

"Yes, but to see what you have photographed you must develop the film. And there is no time for that aboard a fast steamer, like the ill-fated Titanic, running through the ice and the fog. No, it is mere theory, but I have an idea that the ultra violet light—the actinic rays beyond the violet end of the spectrum, you know—will penetrate fog to a great distance, and in spite of its higher refractive power, which would distort and magnify an object, it is better than nothing."

"But what makes you think that it will penetrate fog?" I queried. "And if it is invisible itself how will it illumine an object?"

"As to your first question," he answered, with a smile, "it is well known to surgeons that ultra violet light will penetrate the human body to the depth of an inch, while the visible rays are reflected at the surface. And it has been known to photographers for fifty years that this light will act on a sensitized plate in an utterly dark room."

"Yes, but how can you see by this light?"

"There you have me," he answered. "It will need a quicker development than any now known to photography—a traveling film, for instance, that will show the picture of an iceberg or a ship before it is too late to avoid it—a traveling film sensitized by a quicker acting chemical than any now used."

"Why not puzzle it out?" I asked.

"I am too old," he answered dreamily. "My life work is about done. But other and younger men will take it up. We have made great strides in optics. We shall ultimately use this light to see through opaque objects. We shall see colors never imagined by the human mind. We may possibly see creatures in the air above never seen before."

"We shall certainly see creatures from the depths of the sea, where visible light cannot reach—creatures whose substance is of such a nature that it will not respond to the light it has never been exposed to—a substance which is absolutely transparent because it will not absorb and appear black; will not reflect and show a color of some kind and will not refract and distort objects seen through it."

"What?" I exclaimed. "Do you think there are invisible creatures?"

He looked gravely at me, then said: "I know—he spoke with vehemence—that there are creatures in the deep sea of color invisible to the human eye, for I have not only felt such a creature, but seen its photograph taken by the ultraviolet light."

"Tell me," I asked breathlessly. "Creatures solid, but invisible?"

"Creatures solid and invisible because absolutely transparent. It is long since I have told the yarn. It was so horrible an experience that I have tried to forget it. However, if you care for it and are willing to lose your sleep tonight I'll give it to you."

He began to smoke, and some of the polish of the artist and clinician left him. He was an old sailor spinning a yarn.

"It was," he began, "twenty-nine years this coming August, at the time of the great Java earthquake. You've heard how it killed 70,000 people, 30,000 of whom were drowned by the tidal wave."

"It was a curious phenomenon. Krakaton Island, a huge conical mountain rising from the bottom of Sunda strait, went out of existence, while in Java a whole mountain chain was leveled. I was 230 miles to the southwest, first mate of one of those old fashioned, soft pine, centerboard barkentines, with the mainmast stepped on the port side of the keel to make room for the centerboard, a craft that would neither send nor heave to, like a decent ship."

"But she had several advantages—she was new and well painted; hence she was not water soaked. She was fastened with 'trunnels,' not spikes and bolts, and hemp rigging."

"Perhaps there was not a hundredweight of iron aboard of her, while her hemp rigging, though heavier than water, was lighter than wire rope, and so when we were hit by the back wash of that tidal wave we did not sink."

"Submarine earthquakes sent fountains of water and mud from sea bottom into the air. The air was hot, sultry and stifling, and I had difficulty in keeping the men at work. The conditions would try anybody's temper, and I had my own troubles. There was a passenger on board, a big, fat, highly educated German—a scientist and explorer—whom we had taken aboard at some little town on the Western Australian coast and who was to leave us at Batavia."

"He had a whole laboratory with him, with scientific instruments, maps he had made, stuffed beasts and birds he had killed and a few live ones, which he kept in cages and attended to himself in the empty hold, for we were flying light, bound to Batavia for a cargo."

"It was after a few eruptions from the bottom of the sea that he got to be a nuisance. He was keenly interested in the strange dead fish and nondescript creatures that had been thrown up. He declared them new, unknown to science, and wore out my patience with entreaties to haul them aboard for examination and classification."

"Tidal wave, you know, is a name we give to any big wave, and it has no necessary connection with the tides. We got it just after a tremendous spouting of water and mud and a thick cloud of steam on the northern horizon."

"We were terrified by the combers on its edge and the terrific speed of its approach. There was no wind, and we headed about west, showing our broadside. Yet I got the men at the downhauls, clewlines and stripping lines of the lighter kites. Then the moving mountain hit us and buried us on our beam ends as I sang out, 'Lash yourselves, every man!'"

"I passed a turn of the mizzen gaff topsail downhaul about me, belaying to a pin as the cataclysm hit us. I did not speak nor breathe nor think, unless my instinctive grip on the turns of the downhaul on the pin may have been an index of thought. I was under water."

"Then there came a lessening of the turmoil, and I roused up to find the craft floating on her side, but apt to turn bottom up at any moment from the weight of the water soaked gear and canvas.

"I was hanging in my bight of rope from a belaying pin, my feet clear of the perpendicular deck and my ears tortured by the sound of men overboard crying for help—men who had not lashed themselves."

SUMMER SANITATION

Health Laws Are Simple and They Should Be Remembered.

It is gradually being impressed upon the public mind that the country is possibly not as healthy as it might be and as it has been.

There are certain sanitary advantages that are not being fully appreciated.

The health methods of the past and present are distinctly different. In our grandfathers' day it seemed to be the idea of the people to wait until a particular ailment had been contracted and then to treat it.

Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof was the Biblical injunction that governed men and women then.

Today our physicians advise not to contract a disease of any kind. Be wise and be warned. Prepare in advance to exercise certain sanitary precautions and in this way escape the danger of sickness.

Of course sickness is inevitable. We must all some time or other suffer. The flesh is frail and it is the unwritten law of nature that there must be suffering in this world. The great point to be considered, at the present time, is the necessity of adequate summer sanitation.

Health laws are simple. They are not too numerous that they cannot be read and remembered.

Summer is the season of sickness. The nervous system is run down. Our energies are more or less atrophied. Our bodies are strongholds for germs, and unless we are careful we will become victims of summer sickness.

It is best to be careful and to exercise precautionary methods to prevent sickness. Do not wait until it is necessary to summon a physician. Make such a call unnecessary. Follow the laws of health in summer. It is a dangerous season. We must live prudently and conduct ourselves accordingly.

GARRICK THEATRE

The greatest and most spectacular photoplay feature of the year will be offered by Manager Sablosky at The Garrick, Norristown, during the first three days of this week.

This feature is "The Fall of a Nation," Thomas Dixon's mighty sequel to "The Birth of a Nation." It is a thrilling moving picture spectacle dealing with love and war and is accompanied by Victor Herbert's martial music exactly as produced at the Loeb Theatre, New York, and the Illinois Theatre, Chicago, at prices several times higher than will obtain here.

In writing and staging this play Mr. Dixon has kept particularly in view the world struggle between democracy and imperialism as it affects the United States. After a prologue exemplifying the foreign emigrant's debt of gratitude to the Union, the play proper opens with scenes of a political conflict preceding the great conspiracy against the life of the Republic. John Vassar's National Defense Bill is defeated in Congress. Virginia Holland, though admiring his pluck, spurns his principles and encourages Charles Waldron, the professed friend of peace.

Practically without warning the storm breaks over New York when 20,000 aliens of European military training rise at Waldron's signal, capture the National Armories over night and train the big guns on New York unarmed citizenry. A wild exodus ensues to Long Island where an American army is hastily raised, but while this is taking place the powerful fleet of the confederation of Northern Europe has met and defeated the Atlantic squadron. The convoyed Imperial army, 15,000 strong, effects a landing and in a three day battle routs the Americans utterly. Waldron puts on a regal uniform and is hailed viceroy of the "Provinces of North America."

Then ensues a series of intensely dramatic scenes illustrating how an oppressed and enslaved people finally rise and rout the usurpers. Conspicuous in the dreadful yet glorious day are the Daughters of Joel an oath-bound band of women patriots.

Want Insurance Money

Two individual statements of claim instituted for the same amount of money, $1250, have been filed in the Prothonotary's office against the Pennsylvania Insurance Company and Maria P. Gerhard. The defendants are the executors of John D. Sheaff, late of Whitmarsh. He died August 1915. George S. Gregg and David Gregg have made the assertion.

JUDGE SWARTZ, WHO IS HE?

A Sketch of Montgomery County's Jurist—Has Been On the Bench For Thirty Years

IS AGAIN A CANDIDATE

Hon. Aaron S. Swartz, one of the best known judges in Philadelphia, has presided over the courts of Montgomery since 1887. He has made a reputation as a jurist, and has been frequently mentioned in connection with the supreme court bench of the state.

Judge Swartz is the son of Jacob Swartz, of an old Pennsylvania-German family. He was born in Towamencin township, Montgomery County, February 24, 1848. He was reared on a farm, and his early education was obtained in the public schools and in Freeland seminary, the predecessor of Ursinus college, at Collegeville. After completing the course at Freeland seminary he entered Lafayette college at Easton, and was graduated from that institution in 1871 with high honors. He accepted a position as principal of the public schools at Phoenixville, in Chester County, and taught there very successfully.

Having decided to adopt the law as his profession, he entered the office of Gilbert Rogman Fox, as a student, and was admitted to the bar of Montgomery county in 1875, passing the requisite examination in May of the first year. At that time he was deputy clerk of the United States district of Pennsylvania. Soon after his admission to the bar he resigned this position, and at once devoted his entire time and attention to the practice of law in Norristown. In 1877 he was given the nomination for district attorney by the Republican party, of which he has always been a member, and, although the county had been usually Democratic, he was defeated by fewer than 200 votes. He rose rapidly in his profession and soon enjoyed a large and constantly increasing practice, being recognized as a leading member of the bar at an age when most young lawyers are still waiting for clients. He was the nominee of the Republican party for the judgeship in 1881. In 1882 he became speaker for the board of county commissioners, performing the duties of that responsible position with ability, sound judgment and fidelity to the public interests. He continued in that position until his elevation to the bench in 1887.

Among the more important of the earlier cases in his career as a lawyer was that of Moses Sutton, who was tried for the murder of Mrs. Roeder. The case was tried in 1878. He was associated with B. E. Chain, another prominent attorney, as counsel for the defence. The trial resulted in the acquittal of Sutton. In 1887 when the legislature created the office of additional law judge in Montgomery county, Mr. Swartz was by common consent recognized as the person who should be chosen to fill the position. He was appointed to the office by Governor James A. Beaver, and soon became president judge by the death of Judge Boyer, and was elected to the position in November of that year by a large majority. Ten years later he was re-elected without opposition, the Democrats of the county making no nomination. As a judge, Aaron S. Swartz has made a splendid record. He is a close and steady worker, his indefatigable industry and conscientious loyalty to right and justice being his strongest characteristics on the bench. His opinions are models of clear statement and logical reasoning, showing the results of careful research and earnest work. His decisions in a multitude of cases brought before him are the best evidence of his sound judgement and his care in reaching his conclusions.

Judge Swartz is prominent in the First Presbyterian church of Norristown, and has been for many years the earnest and esteemed superintendent of its Sunday school. Firm in his religious convictions, he is a model citizen always manifesting an active interest in the welfare of the community in which he lives, and in the affairs of the county, the state and the nation. In manner he is dignified, but always affable and kind to all. His whole career as a judge proves him to be a man who is not only desirous of enforcing the laws and inflicting the proper punishment for crime, but also solicitous for the reformation of the transgressor. In politics Judge Swartz has always exerted his influence in behalf of good government. In the spring of 1904, when there was a vacancy on the supreme court bench of Pennsylvania, his friends urged his claims to consideration as a candidate. Although he was not named for the position by the Republican state convention, he had the satisfaction of receiving the hearty support of the entire bar of the county, of the newspaper press without regard to party affiliations, and of the people of the county.

Judge Swartz married Miss A. Louisa Keller, daughter of John Keller, a well known citizen of Towamencin township. Their children, Gertrude, widow of R. George Buchanan; Edna, wife of Victor Roberts; Aaron S. Jr. an active member of the bar, and Anna.

Food Supply Boards Aims to Assist Farmer by Caring for Surplus
Pennsylvania has taken the lead in devising methods to solve problems created by the tremendous surpluses of potatoes. The first step is a survey of the potato production of each county, which has been begun by the Food Supply Department of the Pennsylvania Committee of Public Safety.

The immediate aim of the department is to provide storage facilities everywhere which will eliminate the disturbing market factors incidental to oversupply. The survey will furnish an estimate of the size of the crop and storage accommodations can then be provided according to local requirements. Unless provision is made to take care of the surplus it is realized by the department that potato prices will break to a point which will show the producer a heavy loss and discourage production for next year.

Local storage warehouses will save the situation. The department's plan is to have the warehouses established on a regular warehousing basis so far as is possible. Where this can be done, farmers may haul potatoes as they are harvested, secure warehouse receipts, and many, in some cases, be able to obtain cash advances against the potatoes stored.

WOMAN COULD HARDLY STAND

Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Fulton, N. Y. — "Why will women pay out their money for treatment and receive no benefit, when so many have proved that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will make them well? For over a year I suffered so from female weakness I could hardly stand and was afraid to go on the street alone. Doctors said medicines were useless and only an operation would help me, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has proved it otherwise. I am now perfectly well and can do any kind of work."—Mrs. NELLIE PHELPS, care of R. A. Rider, R. F. D. No. 5, Fulton, N. Y.

Looking Ahead

England has found the war a mighty stimulus to business.

And so will we—

The consumption of supplies at the front is so great that for every man in the Army or Navy there must be at least ten people at work producing in the factories at home.

In addition to this, are the great sums which the Allies are spending here and will continue to spend.

The result will be MORE WORK and HIGHER WAGES for EVERYONE employed.

And with the demand for labor, will come the entry of untold thousands of women into the ranks of the wage earners—all with plenty of money to spend.

Naturally, therefore, every business will go forward to greater prosperity, and money will continue to circulate with greater per capita earning and spending power than ever before in the history of the United States.

"Business as usual"—in fact BETTER than usual.

HARKS TO CHRISTMASTIDE

Most Refreshingly Cool Hot Weather Litigation a Relief.

"This is the most refreshing case I have ever had before me," said Magistrate Howard S. Stillwagon, of Ardmore, Saturday, when John Seasholtz, once Ardmore's "Grand Old Man of Baseball," appeared before him on a charge of failing to pay W. F. North, another resident of Ardmore, for a quantity of Christmas greens and wreaths.

North went to Squire Stillwagon on Wednesday, the hottest of last week's heat wave, and instituted the very cool proceedings against Seasholtz. He claimed that he had furnished a quantity of Christmas greens to Seasholtz, who was to sell them as his agent last winter. He declared Seasholtz had made no return for the goods, and accused him of "larceny by baillee."

ST. GERTRUDE'S TO JOIN MAIN LINE LEAGUE

West Side Team to Take Bon Air's Place... Will Play at Wayne on Saturday

Another shift in the teams of the Main Line League is now in order, due to the withdrawal of Bon Air. The team claims they have been given unfair treatment at the hands of the officials and have decided to pass up the league.

St. Gertrude's of West Conshohocken which has made a previous effort to get into the League, will be given the franchise previously held by Bon Air. A meeting of the league will be held to-morrow evening at the office of the Autocar Company, Ardmore, at which time St. Gertrude's will be admitted.

The West Siders will be represented at the meeting by William Kearney and Michael McDonnell.

St. Gertrude's will assume the standing of the Bon Air team and finish out the schedule. Bon Air was scheduled to play a game with Wayne on Saturday which was to count for the one thrown out by the League and ordered played over.

The West Side team has a strong array of players and are especially strong in the pitching department since securing the services of Hallowell, who hails from Wayne.

The Lee Tire & Rubber Company has been in the league for several weeks and with the addition of St. Gertrude's the interest in this vicinity has been greatly increased.

Court's Order Refused

With the opening of West Third avenue, Conshohocken, still remaining in dispute, the court has been petitioned to grant a rule on the Burgees and Town Council of that borough to show cause as to why the court's decree of ordering the thoroughfare opened, has not been complied with.

DOCTORS TO ASSIST DRAFT

Governor Names Additional Examiners for County.

The state registration office at Harrisburg has announced the appointment of 525 additional physicians to serve on the local exemption boards. The naming of the additional physicians is intended to facilitate the examination if two men called to present themselves as a result of the draft. The appointments will add to the force that will do the examining in practically every county in the state.

While the number of additional examining physicians is naturally more or less proportionate to the number of registrations in a district there is no fixed rule. Each local board was entitled to as many additional physicians as it wished. Should it find needs more, they will be named.

Those named in Montgomery county are as follows: Norristown—H. A. Bostock, E. R. Buyers.

Montgomery—District 1, George T. Faris, H. D. Johnson, Marion Michelson, Joseph M. Gerhart, Jr., John Harave; district 2, Samuel H. Gross; district 3, George Fetters Hartman, district 4, William Corson; district 5, Frederick Bushong, T. E. Willis, C. E. Wylie.
