Theo. N. Vail service Medals Carrying Cash Awards for "Unusual Acts"

FOR MEN AND WOMEN

"Theodore N. Vail Distinguished Service Medals" are to be awarded each year to employees of the Bell Telephone System for acts of an unusual character, according to an announcement just made by the officials of The Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania and its Associated Companies. The medals are made available through the establishment of a memorial fund in honor of the late president of the American Telephone & Telegraph Company. Mrs. Vail has made a substantial contribution to the fund.

These medals are to be awarded to Bell employees over the entire country. For the year 1920 there will be bronze medals for eighteen of the eighteen thousand employees of The Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania and Associated Companies. Nine are to be awarded to men and nine to women. Those for men will be in the form of a fob or charm and those for women will be in the form of a pendant. According to the announcement, these awards are not to be made because of the length of service with the company but rather "in recognition of unusual acts or services which conspicuously illustrate the high ideals that governed Mr. Vail as a public service." A certificate engraved on parchment giving a statement of the reason for the award will accompany each medal.

In addition to the bronze medals there are eight silver medals each of which will be accompanied by a cash award of $250 and two gold medals each of which will be accompanied by a cash award of $500. Further there is to be one special Distinguished Service Medal of gold to be accompanied by a cash award of $1000 to be presented for "a very exceptional act or service." These gold and silver medals are to be awarded by a committee appointed by H. B. Thayer, President of the American Telephone & Telegraph Company, and will be given without reference to geographical distribution.

Each of the Bell Associated Companies will make its own awards of bronze medals. The Bell of Pennsylvania and its Associated Companies will have a committee of eight, five of whom are to be selected by the employees and the other three to consist of President L. H. Kinnard, Vice President & General Manager J. C. Lynch and Vice President P. C. Staples. This method of allotting the medals will give the employees themselves a majority vote in the selection of the recipients. Any one connected with the Bell organization may recommend to the Committee of Award the name of any other employee who may be thought worthy of a medal.

Awards will be made for the year 1920 and the committee will make its selection so that announcement of the persons to whom the medals are to be given can be made by April 1, 1921.

FIREMEN WELCOME NEW YEAR

The New Year was given a hearty welcome by 200 members of the Washington Fire Company their families and their friends. The company gave its annual banquet and entertainment. The entertainment began at 8 o'clock Friday evening in the hall of the hose house with a minstrel show. Later there was dancing and a vaudeville show by professional talent. At midnight, the guests marched to the main floor of the house where the banquet tables were spread and a delicious turkey dinner with all the "fixens" was served.

MUST HAVE YELLOW TAGS

State Highway Department officials today reiterated their refusal to grant any extension of time for holders of 1920 automobile or truck licenses an declared reports coming to the office of the registrar of the automobile division indicated that from 90 to 95 out of every 100 vehicles were displaying the yellow and black tags of 1921. Reports showed local police in various parts inclined to be lenient with delinquents, but they will not make any differences here. The department inspectors will get to work later in the week and display of last year's tags will be considered a violation of the law. It is expected to send out from 17,500 to 19,000 tags a day this week.

SCHOOL DISTRICT TO OFFER A BIG LOAN

Upper Merion Board Authorizes Loan Issue and Will Offer it for Sale This Month

TO BUILD AT SWEDLAND

The Upper Merion school board at a meeting held last evening authorized the sale of $100,000 bonds for the erection and equipping of a public school at Swedland. The loan was approved by the people at the elections in November.

The board authorized the issuing of $100,000 five per cent. tax free bonds, under the plan of maturities prepared by their solicitor J. Aubrey Anderson, Esq. The bonds will be dated March 1, 1921 and $15,000 will mature at the end of each five years until 1936. $20,000 will mature at the end of each five years until 1950. Interest will be paid semi-annually on March 1 and September 1. The issue will be advertised for sale during this month.

The proceeds of the loan will be used for the erection and equipping an 8-room modern school building to accommodate 300 pupils. The school will be erected on a two acre plot of ground, given the district by the Alan Wood Iron and Steel Company and is located on Flint Hill road adjacent to the village of Swedland.

The plans for the building have been prepared by architect Edwin G. Brumbaugh, of Philadelphia, and will be adopted by the board this month after which bids for the erection of the building will be advertised. It is expected to have the school ready for use at the opening of the fall term, next September.

The district has been compelled to enlarge its school facilities owing to the sudden and large growth of population in and about Swedland by the erection of the Rainey-Wood coke plant, a new industry employing many men and additions to the Swedland blast furnaces. The Alan Wood Iron and Steel Company have made extensive improvements in the village by building new and modern highways and the erection of many houses.

HAS AN IDEA SON WAS RIGHT

Circumstances Brought Wife of United States Senator to Acquiesce in Youth's Philosophy.

Senator Miles Poindexter, from the state of Washington, used to live on a ranch.

One hot day he was in the garden weeding onions, when Mrs. Poindexter came across her eleven-year-old son Gale comfortably ensconced on the front porch enjoying the cool shade and a good book.

"Why, Gale," she cried, "aren't you ashamed of yourself to sit here and read while your poor father is out there working in all that heat? Go and help him this minute!"

"Aw, mother," protested Gale, "I can't be bothered with weeding onions. Besides, I've got an engagement to go swimming at 11 o'clock."

About an hour later Mrs. Poindexter heard a low whistle from the onion patch, and before she could take in its significance father and son had disappeared down the hill in the direction of the swimming hole.

In telling the story Mrs. Poindexter said: "I don't know but what Gale's philosophy was the best. Today as a young naval officer he is sailing the high seas; while his father—well, his father is still weeding onions!"

WILL PRESENT A GOAT

The couple were attended by Miss Wersler daughter of the groom and Mr. Culp. They will make their home in Phoenixville.

MAN NEARLY LOSES LIFE IN MACHINERY

As a result of being caught in machinery at the Swedland plant of the Alan Wood Iron and Steel Company, James Davis, of Cherry lane Bridgeport is a patient at Montgomery hospital, where his condition is regarded as fairly good considering the ordeal through which the man passed when nearly all his clothes were torn from his body.

It was his sheer strength and determination that saved the man's life, for when he found his clothing had become entangled in a belt controlling a machine and that he would likely be dragged to sure death, Davis, a powerful man, braced himself and fought against fate nearly all the clothes were torn from his body before the machine was brought to a stop.

During his efforts to free himself but he continued to be probably won, although he was severely injured. The man's body are badly bruised and suffering from shock.

Davis has been at the hospital since the time of the accident.

Oaks School Judge Swatlow has said that the indication of independent thinking is to be observed. "We are going to obtain better results by remaining independent."

At the close of the morning service on Sunday, in St. Mark's Lutheran church the pastor, Rev. J. T. Fox, was presented with a purse containing a very substantial sum, by the congregation in recognition of his work during the past year.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH NOTES

The Social Union of the First Baptist church will give a pure food supper on the evening of January fifteenth. To advance their cause, they will hold a special meeting on Thursday afternoon at the parsonage.

The New Year's Eve Social given by the Men of the First Baptist church was a remarkable success in every way. The lunch and the entertainment both came in for unstinted praise. And at eleven o'clock a watch night service was held in the final hour of the old year, with an attendance that fully packed the large Upper Social Room.

VAGUE ABOUT "RED" LEADERS

But Young Bolshevist Soldier Had Heard of Trotsky, and Injunctively of Lenine.

I have just had a talk with a Bolshevist soldier, captured by the Poles when he was participating in a bold scouting enterprise. He is a young man twenty-one years old, coming from one of the interior departments of Russia. He is illiterate and a confirmed Bolshevist.

Discipline, he said, was very good in the Bolshevist army; still they did not obey orders because they were orders, but "as a matter of conscience." The military forms of address had been abolished and even the officers were spoken to as comrades. Naturally the soldiers stand at attention before their officers; but that was because every soldier in the army follows the bidding of his conscience and "it would be foolish" not to stand at attention before one's commander.

He had never seen a general or any of the higher officers, but he knew the commander in chief was called Trotsky, and that there was another head man. He pondered a moment trying to recall who the second one was, and then suddenly remembered, "Lenine." He knew nothing more about him, and did not know the names of any other commander.

He kept saying "Everyone on our side is a Bolshevist," and seemed to be impressed with the great power and authority of the Bolsheviki. When asked who Trotsky was he replied, "A very popular Jew." "The Jews are much liked in the army. They never allow themselves to be captured. They hate the Poles, so, and the Poles hate them so—and invariably murder them—that they prefer suicide to being made prisoners."—From the Vossische Zeitung (Berlin).

VALUABLE COUNTERFEIT.

A strange counterfeit turned up at a Washington bank recently—queer because it was a bogus $5 gold coin and worth about eight times as much as the genuine because it is made of platinum.

The spurious coin was made about fifty years ago and bears the date of 1860. Musty archives of the secret service contain a record of the species and the case is marked "closed." The coins were made in Maine and came to the notice of the Treasury department when the son of a wealthy family took a quantity of them from a safety deposit box containing heirlooms and put them in circulation. All known specimens were confiscated by the secret service and it was not known until now that others were still in circulation.

GREAT BABY SHRINKAGE.

Doctor Johnson's dictum that "births at all times bear the same proportion to the same number of people" looks rather like a wide shot in the presence of a row of figures just published by the Cambridge University Press. These figures occur in the report of a paper read by Mr. G. Udney Yule, M. A., at the university, and they show that in England and Wales the annual birth rate per thousand has been halved in the last 40 years. In the light of this comparison the present baby boom in London leaves us still far behind our grandfathers in the art of stretching the population. In the world-competition for posterity Serbia stands first and Australia last, with England last but one.—Montreal Herald.

MISS S. ELLA DAVIS BRIDE OF WESTERNER

Departmental Teacher in Public Schools Married in Washington.

WEDDING A SURPRISE

An impromptu reception was held in the public schools this morning when it became known among the teachers that Miss S. Ella Davis, teacher of penmanship in the departmental work, had become a bride during the Christmas holidays. The news was quickly communicated to the pupils and Miss Davis, or Mrs. Johnson, as all called her, being quick to give her marriage name. She was surrounded by the teachers and pupils who warmly congratulated her.

The wedding was performed in Washington, D. C. on Thursday, December 27. The groom is Mr. Stephen Johnson, of St. Louis, Mo., who has been living retired.

The wedding was a surprise to all except Mrs. Johnson's immediate family and a few intimate friends. They guarded the secret well and no knowledge was had of the wedding until this morning when she gave permission for the release of the secret.

Mrs. Johnson resides in East Hector street with her mother. She will continue her teaching and with her husband, will reside with her mother.

Mrs. Johnson is a graduate of the local high school and immediately after her graduation, was elected a teacher in the primary grade. She has been teaching here continuously for 23 years and is one of the most popular and efficient teachers in the local corps.

The announcement of the engagement of Miss Martha Slinghoff, a teacher of the sixth grade, to Mr. Harry Barnshaw, of this borough, is made.

In the local school six married women are now employed as teachers and the recently elected school clerk and substitute teacher, who was Miss Fanny Brownback, getting the school a surprise by quietly getting married at Elkton, Md., to Mr. John Gallagher, of Harmonville, a few days after she was elected to the position.

ON NEW YEAR'S EVE

The Men's Athletic Association banquet in the G. A. R. H. was one of the largest of the year. The banquet was attended by a number of prominent men of the state and all enjoyed the play, dancing and banquet. The Trimbo quartet of the Keith circuit gave a wonderful demonstration of dancing and singing. Twenty-four new members received their degrees.

The caterers were Wilson, Nixon, of Lancaster.

SUES THE BOROUGHS

Attorney Theodore Lane Bean on behalf of Joseph Corrado, Friday in common pleas court, entered suit against the burgess and Town Council of Conshohocken to recover $5000 Corrado.

Corrado owns a house and lot and five adjoining lots on Maple street near Third avenue in the borough of Conshohocken. He claims that there has been a ditch back of his property for years and this has carried off natural drainage; but he claims that the borough in grading streets and alleys in that vicinity caused the water accumulating from houses, schools, churches, etc., to flow to the drainage ditch, and that the increased flow of water has washed away great portions of his property. He says that water from at least eighty-seven houses finds its way to the ditch and to his property, they being located on Fayette street, Forrest street, Maple street and Third, Fourth, Fifth and Sixth avenues.

In addition to the property damage the accumulated water which gives off foul smell and renders the property unhealthy. He says that the officers have refused to get the ditch cleaned up.

OUR CITY HAS THE BEST OF THEM

GULF MILLS

Mrs. Amelia B. Fletcher, of "Alstead," near Gulf Mills will about the middle of the month go to New York city to spend the balance of the winter with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Earnest Richards.

The first meeting of the Men's Bible Class of the Gulf Christian church in the New Year was held on Sunday with a large attendance. In the absence of the class leader, Jacques Palmer, the meeting was led by the pastor of the church, Rev. Albert Loucks.

The funeral of Nellie Gray a well known resident of Gulf Mills who had resided here for a number of years, took place on Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock from her late residence on the Ballingommo road. Many relatives and friends were in attendance.

Forestry may be defined in several ways. It is the art of raising repeated crops of timber on soil unsuited for agriculture. It is the common sense way to handle woodlands for what they can produce.

Forestry should be practised by all persons who own timber lands. Unless it is practised, these lands can not produce what they should produce, either in returns to the owner or benefit to civilization.

It was on June 13, 1898, that the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania bought its first piece of forest land, and started the practice of forestry.

From then until now the Commonwealth has purchased lands in different parts of the state until its present holdings amount to 1,007,520 acres. In these twenty-two years the Commonwealth has paid to townships for school and road purposes $562,419.77 in taxes on its forest lands.

PENNSYLVANIA FORESTS

Purely as a business investment the state forests show up as follows: Total purchase price $2,456,300.08 Total amount expended for administration, development, and improvement 3,613,211.55

Net gain on investment $4,930,488.07 In other words, the state is about five million dollars better off than it had never bought and paid for an acre of forest land and addition it is growing large amounts of lumber and wood which will be ready for the use of the people just when they will be needing it most.

The town of Zurich in Switzerland has for centuries had what amounts to a woodlot of several thousand acres. It has been under careful management since long before Columbus discovered America.

Not only is it not destroyed, but it becomes steadily more valuable and its products more important every year. It produces annually on every acre a net revenue about ten times as large as the amount Pennsylvania has paid per acre for the lands it owns; and unless the forest is destroyed by violence, will keep on doing it to come.

The city forest of Zurich has gained knowledge by the use of my training in maples and ashes, and because of this it has become a model for other cities.

Using Shells. "But take a look at the children in their green and yellow and blue and pink dresses and at those few who are still in their bathing suits. For the day has been a hot autumn day and so some of them came out, but the days of bathing and beach-playing are over. Still we'll have a moving picture here when summer comes again," said Mr. Sun.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

The fairies and all Mr. Sun's friends had so enjoyed his last moving picture show which he had given by the sea that they asked him if he wouldn't give another.

"I will delightfully," he said. So that very afternoon he commenced to describe the pictures which everyone could see.

"Of course," he said, "I suppose you could all see these yourselves, but sometimes we don't see everything that is beautiful around us. Sometimes we need others to help us see the beauties around us and to show them to us."

"This afternoon," he said, "we will look at the great rocks and at the little islands that are about here. We will see some of the wonderful colors of the weeds which grow on the rocks and of which Mother Ocean is very proud."

"She calls all the weeds which grow on the rocks and in the water where the rocks are her Ocean Garden and she is devoted to it. So look at all the interesting colors, the reds and the greens, and the browns. Look at the seaweed which makes a snapping sound when any one presses the little puffy ends it has."

"There are the spaces between the rocks and the water is going in between and about them, playing hide-and-go-seek and having such fun. "It is nice to watch that game and to see how the Ocean fairies play games with the rocks of Mr. Coast."

"There are some children sitting there with bathing suits on. They are letting the spray from the waves come over their feet and they are hearing the songs which Mother Ocean is singing, now softly and then again with great power and strength."

"There is a great hole which one of Mother Ocean's children made in the sand with the help of Mr. Tide, and the children are making castles. "Soon I will be going to bed and I will go as beautifully as I can and then I will make my bow before the final curtain and the curtain will be made of one of the loveliest sunsets ever any of you saw."

"But before I go, I want you to take a look where there is a great row of rocks along the coast. There you will see green seaweed like grass and reddish seaweed and seaweed of all kinds and of many lovely shades of brown and red and green. "You will see that the families of Limpets are there. They cling to the rocks and don't travel about. If they lose hold on their homes they quickly find other homes and cling to them in the same way."

And he made a great bow behind his curtain which was one of the loveliest sunsets ever seen, a red and glowing sunset with all sorts of beautiful colors in the sky, every lovely color you can think of—for they were all a part of Mr. Sun's curtain before which he bowed his thank-you!

SURE WAS WICKED STUFF

Jerry Fischer declared before Magistrate Harry that since Easter he had spent $500 for Italian wine while his friend, Charles Thomas, went him 100 per cent, better asserting that he had spent $1000. They said they made the purchases at the store of Jasper Arena, No. 801 Walnut street, who was charged with dispensing intoxicants in violation of the volstead act. The $1500 expenditure represented that many quarts and according to the men, it had the desired kick.

"Judge, whenever I bought a quart of the stuff," said Fisher, "I always looked about for a convenient place to lie down, for it sure was wicked stuff." Arena was held under $1000 bail for Court.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale
 BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER
 THE FURNACE.

"Ha, ha," said the furnace, as the pieces of coal were being shoved in; "ha, ha," he laughed. "So they're becoming anxious to have me working again."
 "And I believe they never gave me a moment's thought all summer long. I'm sure they didn't. I feel quite certain of it."
 "And then they wonder why at times I act crossly and queerly and why I get upset at times. I try not to, but of course when I get thinking of how no one gives the poor old furnace a thought all summer long, then I can't help but get upset."
 "And when I get upset they all grumble about me, as if I mustn't get upset, no matter how I may feel."
 "Well, it's a bit unfair. But I try to rise above it and give them heat and no smoke; warmth and no trouble."
 "I suppose things aren't appreciated until they are needed. I've heard that window shades or blinds or whatever one wants to call them, have been so good about hiding the light from people's eyes when they were sleepy, and then when they are old and had holes come in them, they were horribly complained about, though never a 'thank you' did they get when they were doing their good work."
 "And no one ever says:
 'Ah, what a good pair of socks you are, my dear,' or, 'What a lovely pair of stockings you are, Nice Pair.'
 'Yet so soon as a hole comes, how they grumble!
 'And there were some buttons in a button bag which had been thrown down here in the cellar by mistake. They hadn't been needed for anything special, and they were just thrown out by accident or carelessness or purposely!
 'They had pretty little tops which looked like jewels with many colors. They were lovely buttons.
 'And then some one-thought of them and found some way in which they could be used, and then everyone went looking for them, and grumbling because they weren't around; and then they found them by chance down here.
 'Now the bumblebees make their own steam heat by eating and by food

American Victims of Battle of Germantown Buried in Mennonite Cemetery During Retreat to Perkiomen

A trip to the grave of General Nash in the Mennonite burial ground on the Sunnyside pike between Kulpsville and Mainland is described by "The man on the Corner" in the Germantown Independent-Gazette. About three-quarters of a century ago at the instance of John Fanning Watson, Germantown's distinguished pioneer in historical research, a monument was set up to mark the graves of General Nash and several other officers who had died from wounds received in the battle at Germantown.

Of the encampment of Washington's army in this region no trace now remains other than the graves of the officers who died there.

After the battle at Germantown, October 4, 1777, the army retreated to the Perkiomen creek at Pennypackers Mills and then on October 8, a new camp was established several miles to the northeast, along the Skippack creek, in Towamencin township. The house where Washington had his headquarters stood until 1881.

With the army were a number of soldiers who had been wounded at the battle of Germantown. General Francis Nash, a North Carolina officer, had been struck by a British cannonball in the thick of the fight. His thigh was shattered and his horse was killed. There was little hope of saving his life, but the men serving with him were so devoted to him that they refused to abandon him and carried him on their retreat upon a litter made of poles. When the movement to Towamencin took place Nash was taken to Haven. There he died the day after his arrival.

The nearest burial ground was the house of a farmer named Deat at the Mennonite meeting house, east of the Campground. This congregation had been founded in the middle of the 18th century. The church building now standing is the third on the site. There the body was taken for burial. By order of General Washington the entire army turned out to witness the obsequies. Edwin C. Jellett has a tradition from the late Abraham Harley Cassel that Washington himself read the burial service for Nash.

North Carolina counts General Nash as one of her most distinguished heroes of the Revolution. When the sons of that state plunged westward they honored him by bestowing his name upon the city of Nashville, now the capital of Tennessee.

John Fanning Watson, in carrying on his extensive historical research became much interested in the story of Nash and the other victims of the battle of Germantown who died at Towamencin. He had marked the graves of Revolutionary soldiers in the Upper and Lower Burial Ground of Germantown and now he set out to raise funds for a monument at Towamencin. He obtained the necessary money in Germantown and Norristown and in 1844 a ten-foot marble monument was erected. It is still in good condition.

There are also individual markers at the graves of General Nash, Major John White of Philadelphia; Colonel Boyd and Lieutenant Matthew Smith of Virginia, the latter an aid on General Sullivan's staff. Flags are placed at these graves by the Schwenksville Grand Army Post, which now consists of four members. The Mennonites who worship here are of the "old school". They observe to the most rigid degree their ancient customs of plainness and non-intercourse with other faiths. Such a thing as a corn show is an abomination in their sight. Their minister warned his flock not to have anything to do with that held in Skippack, as it was sinful to put the products of God's bounty on exhibition. However some of the youthful members of the Mennonite families refused to remain orthodox in the matter of corn shows. They walked all the way over to Skippack to see the show.

Fifteen years ago these Mennonites regarded motorcars with the same suspicion that corn shows now enkindle. But today at their Sunday services scores of cars of the most expensive makes are seen on the grounds. The old horse shed are no longer needed, for nearly all the members now have cars. Moreover, the Sunday services are well attended.

Locally these Mennonites are known as the Mensch Mennonites because several succeeding generations of the Mensch family have supplied their preachers. Over in Skippack township are the Johnson Mennonites, at the Lower Skippack Meeting House their preachers having for many years been members of the Johnson family. The Johnson Mennonites are of the "new school." Mensch Mennonites never attend a Johnson Mennonite Meeting.

So far the travelers out for a tramp had had little opportunity to tramp. Now they bestrode Shank's mare down the Sunnyside pike, Germantown. But even now the fates seemed set against their tramping, for shortly after having passed through Kulpsville, a motorcar, empty save for the driver slowed up with an invitation to "jump in." So there was another "life" as far as Gwynedd Square. There the tramp was resumed continuing through North Wales and Gwynedd to Spring house, whence the journey was completed on the trolley cars.

GARRICK THEATRE

Some thrilling adventures not in the scenario were encountered by Mae Murray, David Powell and the other players who will appear in "The Right to Love," the photoplay feature of Manager Sablosky's bill at the Garrick for the 1st half of the first week of the New Year.

The film has a Turkish setting and to secure just the right atmosphere George Fitzmaurice, the producer, took the whole company to Florida. He secured permission to make scenes in a large house of Moorish design located on one of the Florida keys and one of the show places of that region.

A six miles boat ride was taken every day by the players from St. Augustine to reach their location. Then one day while the company were hard at work with interiors a severe storm blew up outside.

The vaudeville bill will be headed by "According to Law" a timely musical skit offered by the well known comedian Lew Seymour and his pretty girls. The act is an exceptionally strong one of its kind.

Mayo and Nevins will amuse with a classy comedy song review with some unique features.

Henry Frey, a comedian of exceptional merit and the Onri Duo is comedy cycling stunts will complete the bill.

"We're All Needed."

they keep their bodies warm. And they fan heat over each other, too, when they have more heat than the others have.

"They don't have to appreciate me, for they don't need me, and I never do anything for them. But with people it is different.

"People don't make their own heat like the bumblebees do, and I am their furnace.

"I am not the furnace of the bumblebees but of the people, so I think people should thank me once in a while for giving them warmth."

"Well," said one of the pieces of coal, "if you were just by yourself you couldn't give them warmth. You mustn't be too conceited, Furnace."

"You're very useful," said another piece of coal, "but you aren't the whole thing. We're all needed. Matches are needed. Sticks and paper are needed when you are started. Some one is needed to watch over you.

"You require a great deal of watching. You must have a nurse, or furnace man, or watcher of some sort looking after you.

"So, Furnace, you mustn't become too conceited.

"You must remember that you don't do everything by yourself. The people help you. The coal family helps you.

"We all work together to give warmth; none of us could do it without the other, you see.

"And you mustn't think you are the only thing, for just as soon as a creature or thing thinks that about itself, it no longer is the only thing!

"It soon becomes a very silly, vain, conceited thing.

"You're very useful, Furnace, and I'm not one to deny but what you are far more important than I am, for I'm only one little piece of coal being rapidly burnt up in your great mouth.

"But I'm useful in my little way, as are all my sisters and brothers useful. And, Furnace, don't get uneasy and upset and hurt. Do your part and don't keep thinking of whether you get praise that is due you or not. If you keep on working you'll get it sooner or later, never fear!"

The final score was 54-34. The feature of the game was the wonderful playing of McBride and Irwin.
