5 HOTEL KEEPERS HELD FOR COURT

No Evidence Against Mrs. Daniel Hoey—Witness Could Not Identify Rath, of St. Clair House

SAVED DRINKS AS PROOF

Seven proprietors of local hotels were given a hearing before Magistrate Clark, at Norristown, Wednesday morning, charged with illegal selling of liquor.

Mrs. Daniel Hoey, of the Forrest House was discharged and the case against her dismissed on account of there being no evidence. The case against James Rath, of the St. Clair House, was also dismissed on account of the lack of evidence.

John J. Crimian, Central hotel; John A. Harrold, Hotel Harrold; James Scanlin, East End hotel; John J. Moser, Montgomery House, all of this borough, and James McGuire, Matsonford hotel, West Conshohocken, were each held under $1500 bail for trial at this month's term of criminal court.

When the case of Rath was called, Edward Morrow, of Philadelphia, a witness in the liquor proceedings, was asked to identify Rath as the man who sold liquor to him (Morrow) at a certain time in August.

"Is he in the room?" asked Morrow.

"He is," said Attorney Swartz, who represented the Conshohocken hotel keeper. Morrow wended his way among ministers, churchmen, business men, hotel keepers and others who crowded the hearing room and returned to the witness stand, saying he did not believe the man was in the room. He was again advised that Rath was present. Morrow took another look. First he thought a man named Richard Donovan, looked like Rath, but was not certain. Then fixing his gaze on another man he said the gentleman seated in the rear of the room resembled the build of Rath.

"Can you swear that he is the man who sold you whisky, as you claim?" asked Attorney Swartz.

"No," said Morrow. "I would not swear that he is the man."

As he could not locate anyone in the room whom he would swear as being Rath, and as Rath was there, Attorney Swartz asked that the case against his client be dismissed.

His request was granted by the magistrate.

Rath was the second man picked out by Morrow as a possible identification, but of whom he was not sure.

Mrs. Hoey, who had been charged with illegal sales instead of her husband, was not present at the hearing. Her case was also dismissed because of lack of evidence.

The testimony in the cases were practically the same. The evidence was gathered by John Clemens and his son and Edward Morrow and Fred Wilke.

It was testified by Clemens that whisky was purchased in the Crimian place on July 24 at 50 cents a drink. Morrow corroborated the above witness. Both identified Crimian where he sat in the hearing room.

It was testified that on several occasions—July 1 and 21st, and August 8—whisky was purchased in the McGuire place in West Conshohocken.

July 31st and August 3 are given as the dates for the sales said to have been made at the Scanlin hotel, which had been visited by Clemens and Wilke.

Clemens said he was at the Moser place on July 26, Wilkes said he was there on July 31. On August 3 the saloon was again visited and purchases made.

Clemens testified that on July 26 he was served with whiskey in the back room of the Harrold hotel. He said that Mr. Harrold received the 50 cents a drink charged. Morrow was also in the Harrold hotel, he testified, and secured whiskey.

Samples Not Produced

Several arguments arose during the course of the hearing because the whisky said to have been purchased was not produced in evidence, which complaint caused a continuance of the cases from a week ago. Mr. Corson, assistant district attorney, informed the attorneys that the samples would not be produced until the court trials.

In all the cases the whiskey which was purchased by the glass was transferred from the mouths of the special agents to bottles. This was done in another room to which the men would retire immediately after taking the drink. The bottle was then labeled, they said, and given to Morrow, who was in charge of the men. The bottles of samples are now said to be in the custody of the district attorney.

Schools Will Open With Big Enrollment

Four Additional Rooms Will Be Ready in The High School

All the local schools will open for the fall term next Tuesday. All this week superintendent Hottenstein has had his office open in the Hoffecker school building for the purpose of issuing permits to beginners and enrolling new students for the high school. The enrollment will be the largest in the history of the schools. The enrollment in the high school is now estimated at 275 and it is expected it will reach 300 after the school opens.

The auditorium in the high school has been altered into four large class rooms and the laboratory will be removed to the present gymnasium and the big room will be used as a class room. The additional room will give accommodations for the new pupils but the school will be without an auditorium and gymnasium until the new addition is completed, which will not be until next summer.

The vacancy in the fourth grade will be filled by the election of Miss Leah Aispack, of Spottswood, N. J., a graduate of Kutztown normal school and a teacher with four years' experience. She will assume her duties at the opening of the schools and will be elected at the regular meeting of the School board on Wednesday evening.

Miss Estelle Hyde, teacher of the third grade, has been given three months leave of absence as she is under a physician's care. Miss Ver-gene Coleman, of Norristown, will substitute during Miss Hyde's absence.

The local Council of the O. of L. A. will present for use in the high school twelve bibles. The Council will also present a handsomely bound bible to the school board to be placed in the corner stone of the high school addition.

St. Matthew's parochial school will open on Tuesday morning. Beginners will be admitted and the enrollment will be larger than ever. Two rooms will be opened in the old church building for the use of the high school students.

GIRLS ARRESTED FOR VAGRANCY

Arrested at a camp at Lafayette by Constable Runney yesterday afternoon, two girls, dressed in overalls, were taken before Magistrate Clark at Norristown, and sent to jail for a further hearing on the charge of vagrancy. They gave their names as Marie and Helen Engin. It was later learned they were not related and that their names were fictitious. One is named Marie Rawlins, 17 years old, while the other girl refused to tell her name. She is 18 years old and her home was in Trenton. She is said to be a married woman of Polish nationality. No date has been set for a hearing, but in the meantime the district attorney will make an investigation because it is said the Polish girl has a police record in Trenton.

A FEW OF THE CHILDREN WHO SPENT HAPPY DAYS AT THE PLAYGROUNDS

PLAYGROUNDS END SUCCESSFUL SEASON

Not a Session Lost on Account of Weather.—100 Children in Demonstration

BABIES WON PRIZES

The playground season ended yesterday after an exceptionally happy and profitable summer. The work and play was uninterrupted from 9 to 4 every day. The weather man has favored the activities by sending rain at most any time except during these busy hours. The attendance this year has been much better than previous years in that there has been a greater number of regular daily attendants. There has been a decided benefit from the earlier closing hour as the efforts have been more concentrated and the children are happier at the end of the day before they are too tired. The age limit excluding children over twelve years of age has made the playing conditions more pleasant for the younger children. Even very young children enjoyed the playground this year, as shown by the fact that several times six-weeks-old babies have been brought for the afternoon and two babies not quite a year old have received honorable mention for regular attendance.

Besides apparatus play on the swings, sliding-board, see-saws and may pole there are always organized games for children of the different ages, ring games for the little children and ball games for the older ones. During the summer athletic meets were held every Tuesday and Friday, on Tuesday for children under 9 and on Friday for those between the ages of 9 and 12. A careful record of winners was kept and prizes given for those receiving the highest number of points during the season.

Daily classes in handwork were held for all children. Those of kindergarten age made mats, raffia picture frames, horse lines, doll sweaters and scrap-books. The older children did some splendid work in basketry and chair-caning. Forty chairs have been caned by these small children for different people in the town; in fact the first prize for caning was taken by a little girl ten years years old.

Besides these activities there was a daily story hour at 2 o'clock. Many of the stories told were dramatized by the children at the end of the story hour.

The story-game hour, a feature introduced last summer for children in the vicinity of Elm and Poplar streets, was held again this year, two evenings each week. Every Monday and Thursday evening crowds of children were ready to run to greet the teachers as soon as they came in sight. The crowds of children in attendance and the interested mothers and fathers as audience are evidence that such get-together evenings were enjoyed and appreciated.

On August 25th a demonstration was given on the playground by about 400 children. An artificial clock run by one of the boys, ticked off the hours from 9 to 4, while the children showed in action the playground work and play of the respective hours. A motion picture was taken of the events. It is hoped that this will be shown next week at the local theatre. The handwork of the children was on exhibition at the playground on that

BADLY BURNED BY BLAZING PARAFFINE

Clothing of Harmonville Woman Caught Fire When Pan of Paraffine Bursts Into Flames

WAS PRESERVING FRUIT

Mrs. John Bower, residing on the Ridge pike, short distance above the Conshohocken pike, is a patient in Montgomery hospital, Norristown, suffering from painful burns about the body received on Wednesday afternoon when her clothing caught fire from blazing paraffine which she was heating over the stove.

Mrs. Bowers was engaged in preserving some fruit and was heating the paraffine in a pan to be used in covering the fruit jars. Some of the paraffine was spilled on the stove and it burst into flames and communicated with that in the pan setting it all on fire. In attempting to extinguish the blazing paraffine her dress caught fire.

Realizing her terrible predicament and fearing that the house might catch fire her true motherly instinct prompted her to retain presence of mind to get her two-year-old child to a place of safety. Grabbing the baby from the floor and holding it high above her own blazing clothing she rushed to the back yard where she placed the child on the ground and then screamed for help. Her cries were heard by John Markle, a neighbor, and he hurried to her assistance. With his bare hands he beat out the flames which had consumed much of the clothing and terribly burned the woman about the body and immediately despatched medical aid from this borough.

The physician administered first aid and alleviated the woman's suffering and summoned the ambulance from Montgomery hospital and had her removed to the institution. In addition to painful burns about the body much of the hair was burned from the left side of her head. At the hospital it was found that she had not inhaled any of the flames and that she will recover.

Mr. Markle suffered painful burns on the hands in beating out the blazing dress which required the services of a physician.

The child also suffered slight burns.

Fortunately the flames from the blazing paraffine burned out without setting fire to the house.

K. of C. Changes Plans to Enlarge Their Hall

New Plans Call For Larger Building Than at First Contemplated.

New plans for the proposed addition to the K. of C. building at Third avenue and Forrest street, were submitted to the Council at a meeting held last evening and the building committee, comprised of J. J. Gorman, chairman; Michael Daly, William Wacker, John Derr, William Harper and C. A. Desimone were instructed to have the plans completed and again submit them for adoption by the Council, after which bids will be asked and the work started.

It was at first proposed to change the front of the present building and build an addition to the rear 20 feet deep. The new plans call for an addition to be the full width of the present building and 35 feet deep.

The new plans call for a change in the front of the building and an addition to the rear of 35 feet. This will give a basement of 35 by 95 feet. The first floor, which will be an auditorium, will be 35 by 95 feet and the second floor will contain rooms with floor space of 27 by 58 feet and a roof garden of 35 by 35 feet.

WILL REPAIR BRIDGE

The Pennsylvania Railroad will repair the Fayette street bridge in accordance with the demand of town council that the bridge be made strong enough for all the ordinary traffic. Chairman of the railroad committee, Frank Kelly, yesterday, met officials of the railroad and it was agreed that repairs would be placed on the bridge raising the grade three inches above the present grade.

LITTLE TALKS ON THRIFT

By S. W. STRAUS, President American Society for Thrift.

"THE greatest of faults," says Carlyle, "is to be conscious of none." No man who has made progress in the world has done so without making mistakes. Errors of judgment and faulty decisions are bound to occur. But progress and success come through learning the lessons that our mistakes teach us. Failure, on the other hand, comes through the repetition of one's errors.

To eliminate mistakes, as the result of the close study of one's personal problems, is efficiency. It is this quality that distinguishes the thrifty man from the man who is thrifless. The latter continues the mistakes of wasting money, time, energies and opportunities. The thrifty man learns in the school of experience that these things mean retrogression. While he makes his mistakes he is personally organized along such lines of efficiency that he is not likely to repeat them. His practices of thrift and self-denial have developed will-power and character. Therefore his mistakes become sources of strength. Instead of millstones about his neck he makes them stepping stones to greater accomplishments.

Do not bemoan your mistakes. If you are a young man or young woman standing today on the threshold of life do not imagine that you will go through the journey without displaying shortcomings. The question of your success or failure in life will not depend on whether you make mistakes. It will depend on your ability to take advantage of them, to avoid their repetition and utilize them as necessary lessons in the development of character and judgment.

Many diseases may be described as a catarrhal condition. Coughs, colds, nasal catarrh, stomach and bowel disorders are just a few of the very common ills due to catarrh.

ADDICTS TO HEROIN SENT TO ALMSHOUSE

Gripped in the clutches of dope until they dropped from weakness, Josephus Branson, 43, colored, and his wife, Mary, 38, were yesterday removed from the shack they called home, at Fort Washington, to the county poor house.

The removal was made by Dr. Conover, at the direction of District Attorney Renninger, after the physician had reported the case as one which needed immediate attention of the authorities. A son, 7 years old, was also taken in charge by the authorities.

The Bransons moved to Fort Washington about two weeks ago, from Philadelphia. According to their story, they were seeking to escape the ravages of the habit which had gradually sapped their strength. Branson secured a job as laborer on a road, and established their domicile in a four room house near the Hoopes and Townsend plant.

Dr. Conover said that the poverty of the dwelling was deplorable, there being very little furniture in the rooms.

According to Branson's story, he became addicted to the use of heroin 18 months ago, when a physician administered a drug to relieve pain. Since that time the habit grew and eight months ago his wife started to take heroine. She said she did it because it was always around and she naturally fell into the habit.

When the physician reported the case to the authorities the latter believed that the crusade against dope users and peddlers in Philadelphia had driven the poor unfortunates into Montgomery county. Arrangements were made to admit them to the poor house temporarily until they could be sent back to Philadelphia to be cured.

"Such cases wherever found, will be sent back to the point they started from. We are not going to stand the expense of treatment for people not of the county," said Deputy Irwin.

Miss Fret—"Yes, she's pretty but it's a gift."

Miss Worry—"So I understand. Her brother is a drugist and it doesn't cost her anything."

An Unfailing Service

Gas service is not interrupted by weather or other cause. The holders are strongly built, are not affected by lightning, can be kept unaffected by snow or sleet or other disturbing elements, and have stored in them large quantities of gas ready for distribution, capable of supplying the consumers for many hours, even if the manufacture of gas were temporarily suspended.

What is "Gas-Hot" Water?

It is water heated by means of gas fuel, which is infinitely cleaner and more convenient than other fuels, and costs the consumer much less for the work performed.

See a demonstration of Gas Water Heaters in our Show Rooms. Learn how, at the turn of a faucet, hot water in abundant quantities, always at the right temperature, is available for the needs of your kitchen, laundry or bath.

almost mad like me an' you have, Larry?"

Bishop looked beyond her head into a dark corner. It was in that spot he often imagined he saw the wraith of his woman. His unsteady regard settled; and the ghost woman rose mistily, gazing at him with unearthly eyes. Then the pale, unsmiling phantom extended her arms and within them appeared a frail infant.

"God!" burst from his lips like a shot from a gun.

Polly glanced backward over her shoulder. But the shudder that ran over him brought her haggard face back to his.

"Ain't your heart hurtin' something awful for your Betty woman an' your brat now, this very minute?" she queried abruptly, as if she, too, had seen the ghastly thing in the corner.

"God, yes!" he shivered, taking firm hold of his chin to hide the tremble of it.

She seized his arm viselike, the grip drawing a groan from the squatter.

"An' wouldn't you just love to see Old Marc twist an' squirm like a stepped-on baby snake, huh?" came in one long, sobbing breath.

Again the shifty look of the tortured man came to rest on the gloom beyond. "I'd die for it, so I would, Pollyop," he cried. "Out with what you got in your head, Polly; an' I'll listen, so help me God!"

Pollyop leaned heavily against him, panting. She was making an effort to tell him her plan. With a swift upward motion of her head, she began to talk in broken tones; and as she proceeded, Larry Bishop raised straighter in his chair.

Polly's voice trailed into silence; and Larry sent one hasty look over her head. The wraith smiled sadly at him and was gone. He shook himself and struggled to his feet. Then a broad, wicked grin spread his lips apart, and he laughed aloud. Pollyop, still on the floor, laughed, too, hysterical sobs catching at her throat, and a desire to scream forcing her hands to her mouth. Such awful sounds were unusual in the Silent City, where even honest mirth was no longer heard because the men and women scarcely dared breathe for fear an enemy from Ithaca would suddenly appear.

"Glory be to God!" ejaculated the man, hoarsely, "that's the how of it, but! It'll be a whack for my dead woman, an'—"

"An' a good whack for the Hopkins tribe, too," cried Polly, scrambling up.

She turned to the door but halted with her hand on the latch.

"It'll be a black Thanksgiving for Old Marc, huh, Larry?—I'm goin' back home now."

She turned to the door, but halted with her hand on the latch.

"You promised I could do it, Larry," she reminded him. "You'll tell Lye Braeger that, too, won't you?"

Sinking limply into his chair, Bishop wiped his wet lips.

"Yep, lass," he assented with a groan. "You can turn the trick; I promise you that."

If Jeremiah Hopkins had seen his girl, his Polly of the Sun, when she went home that night, he would not have recognized her. Her face was crafty, pitiless, and as white as the snow under her feet.

Then she waited stolidly day after day, feeding the billy goat but absently, asking no questions of Larry or Lye Braeger how soon her idea could be carried out. She believed that they would leave no stone unturned to even up with Marcus MacKenzie.

Early one evening Larry Bishop burst into the Hopkins hut without the formality of a knock. He looked years older than he had but yesterday; and Pollyop got up, locking and interlocking her fingers.

"Well?" she asked from between clattering teeth.

"It's done, by God!" he hissed, almost strangling behind a shuddering hand. "It was most awful, Polly. If I'd stuck a hog in the gizzard, the squeal-in' couldn't 'a' been worse."

The speaker's tones, his half-bent figure, his shifty glances, brought a grunt from the girl.

"An' you're gettin' sorry by the minute, Larry Bishop, I can see that," she returned, giving him a smart rap. "Stand up, Larry man. Once—"

A sudden rush of emotion thrust into her throat such an ache that for several seconds she was unable to conclude.

"Once," she repeated, after clearing away the huskiness with a hacking cough, "I thought love were the greatest thing in the world. But it ain't, Larry Bishop, it ain't!"

Bishop fidgeted with his cap, turning it around and around by its brim. When he looked up, the burning glow had died from the depths of his eyes.

"It's a sickenin' thing to see a woman suffer that bad," he muttered. "God, brat!—Nope! Don't say nothin' till I tell you what me an' Lye did!"

At the memory of it, the speaker wiped drops of sweat from his face.

"She belied about lovin' her man," droned Bishop, "an' the way she holered in my hut for her man was something scandalous."

"Like your Betty died a-howlin' for you, I s'pose, Larry," came back the girl promptly. "An' I been thinkin' all day how Granny Hope tucked your dead brat alongside his mammy in the coffin. Some awful thinkin', Larry man!"

The squatter's sudden gryness and swallowing hard as if something had stuck in his windpipe was the only evidence he gave that he had heard the cruel words.

"We got 'er just after dark," he continued, woefully. "She's been tied up in my shack ever since."

"Good 'nough for 'er!" gasped Polly, tensely, rolling her hands in her apron. "An' she yelled so hard you could've heard her near to Ithaca, Polk," moaned Larry. "Me an' Lye gagged 'er."

"Holy smut!" fell from Pollyop, as the picture his words had made burned itself across her mind.

"Her man's been gone all day to Cortland," continued the squatter in a monotone. "I found out Old Miss Robertson's been tryin' to reach hold of him."

"Hope she don't!" interjected Polly. "Not till we got done with her woman. Are you goin' to tote her over here?"

The man nodded.

"Don't dare to till later, when the squatters is in bed," he answered, slapping on his cap. "If—if you change your mind, Polk, come along over; an' I'll cut 'er loose an' let 'er go."

A harsh sound, something like a chuckle of malicious satisfaction, slipped through Polly's lips and stopped the man at the door.

"That ain't no ways likely, Larry," she said huskily. "Bring 'er here, an' when I'm done with her, she'll have to be took."

She caught Bishop by the arm, whirling him around.

"An' listen, Larry," she continued with cruel emphasis, "an' all the time keep rememberin' how Betty walloed her life into the grave, an'—an' that Old Marc done it."

Overcome by the words she had thrown at him so deliberately, Bishop hung away, and the girl, quaking at what was about to happen, heard him running along the shore toward his shack.

It seemed to Polly Hopkins that every minute was an hour long, and every second filled with intolerable anxiety. Would the soft-hearted Larry repent and surrender the prize she longed to get her fingers on?

In extreme nervousness she went from one thing to another, never finishing what she began. She paced the hut floor until she was dripping wet with apprehensiveness. She had no means of knowing when Lye and Larry would come; so she dared not stir from the shack.

Many times she shoved aside the window blind and looked out. But the world outside was wrapped in a white silence. She could not even glimpse the peaked roof of a fisherman's hut, for between her and the Silent City was a flowing curtain of snow, the flakes falling like feathers from an open bag.

Larry would keep his word, she told herself over and over. She was glad it was such a night! The better could the squatters carry out their death plan.

Unnoticed by the girl, the wood burned to embers in the stove, and the hut grew colder by degrees. In one of her half hours of measuring the

PAROCHIAL SCHOOL HELP DISTRICT

Upper Merion Will Be Able to House Pupils in Swedesburg Building—Save in Transportation

NO BIDS FOR COAL

The school directors of Upper Merion township may make several changes in the program at the Swedesburg school since it has been announced that a parochial school will be opened by the Sacred Heart parish in Swedesburg.

According to the rector of the church the greater number of pupils who formerly attended the public school will now go to the parochial school.

Sixty pupils from that district were last term taken daily by auto to the school at Swedesburg. It is calculated that of this number at least thirty will enter the new church school. With these changes there will be sufficient room to house all the pupils remaining in Swedesburg in the old building which was only recently repaired and repainted. This may do away with the transfer of pupils and result in a saving to the district.

At the Gulf school a new room will be opened next week. This will accommodate all the pupils in that district, and there will be no need of the transfer of pupils to the Swedesburg school. With these changes the latter school, which was only built last year, will be sufficient to accommodate the pupils of the growing village of Swedesburg for some time.

All the schools of the township have been repainted and repaired and are ready for occupancy at the opening of the term.

No Coal Bids.

Some time ago the directors advertised for bids for the supplying of coal to all the schools of the township. A special meeting was to have been held for the purpose of opening bids and awarding the contract. No bids were received, and there was no meeting. There is a small amount of coal on hand at each building in the township, which will be adequate to furnish heat until some other action is taken by the board. It may be necessary to burn soft coal, but the directors will not resort to this grade of fuel until they learn they cannot secure the anthracite product.

Injured Motorist: O-oh, I'm just learning to drive, I was going along fine until I saw that bridge coming up the road and I turned to the right to let it pass.

A BIG FISH

Francis Moore, Lloyd Sagebeer and Roy Zober, who spent Tuesday fishing at Fortescue, returned to their home late in the evening with probably the largest fish that has ever been brought home by a local fisherman. The fish was a drum fish and weighed just sixty-three pounds. It was caught by Moore who worked for more than an hour before landing it. In addition to the monster fish the party had about seventy smaller ones.

Henry Ford and the Coal Situation.

Henry Ford has announced that he will close his great manufacturing plants on the 16th inst. on account of the coal situation. Mr. Ford claims there is no shortage of coal and that he or any other manufacturer can buy all the coal wanted if he will only pay the price. He will close his plants as a protest against profiteering.

Should the Ford plants close, thousands of workmen will be thrown out of employment in other industries as, it is stated, 900 plants manufacture supplies for the Ford plants.

According to the commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, all the coal needed in this country can be supplied by twenty-five per cent. of the coal mines of the country working at full time with sixty per cent. of the mine workers. If these figures are correct, the action of Mr. Ford should be a great object lesson to the American people and cause a demand for a full investigation of the coal industry.

The health, comfort and safety of the people are not considered when money profits are at stake as is shown by the uncompromising position taken by both the mine operators and the workers.

It is the business of the Government to protect the people from such situations as the strike has brought about, and this can be done by giving full publicity as to the real cause and those responsible for strikes, and a full investigation of the production, consumption and distribution of coal together with the various costs of each operation in getting the coal from the ground to the consumer, and the actual value of the necessary machinery to mine and prepare coal for the market.

The present strike has caused the belief that both the operators and the labor leaders desired the coal strike, and the tremendous production of bituminous coal during the past month confirm the belief that the price for coal is much higher than is warranted.

The Norristown Bridge.

Norristown businessmen have tired of the foolish propaganda that has been carried on for sometime in an effort to impress the people of the county for the necessity of a new bridge at DeKalb street.

The county commissioners have placed watchmen at the bridge to limit traffic, declaring the bridge is unsafe to bear the traffic offered. This plan is extremely costly to the taxpayers both in the use of the county's funds and in the great inconvenience to business.

The commissioners have followed the foolish plan of paying out money for watchmen's services and impeding the progress of business rather than making temporary repairs to the bridge sufficient to carry the traffic while planning for a new bridge.

Several Norristown and Bridgeport concerns sending out heavy trucks are compelled to use the Conshohocken bridge and the bad roads in West Conshohocken and Upper Merion. This causes a great loss in time and a great increase in the cost for transportation.

Besides the loss to business, the congestion at the bridge and railroad crossings creates an avoidable danger to the public.

The people of the county are familiar with the DeKalb street bridge. They know that it is an antiquated structure unfit for modern traffic and should be replaced with a modern structure. There is little doubt but that the taxpayers would not object to the commissioners building such a structure, but the Norristown bridge proposition has not been put before the people fairly. Much propaganda has been spread placing the cost of a proposed bridge at a ridiculously low price, and the suggestions of Norristown people and newspapers for a viaduct that would bridge the railroads and the county pay the costs.

The foolish means taken to impress the people have not changed the attitude of the taxpayers but has brought forth a storm of objections from a suffering public.

The commissioners should make immediate repairs to the bridge and open it up to all traffic, and the commissioners should also have plans prepared for a new structure to span the river and endeavor to have the railroads join in eliminating the grade crossings upon the same plan as the Conshohocken bridge was built.

The Bonus.

Senators in favor of the Government paying a bonus to every man who was in the military service claim they have met the President's demand that a way must be provided to finance the payments by the most ethereal suggestions.

Senator Capper, of Kansas, would have the Government force the war profiteers to pay the bonus as he claims for each American killed in the late war, the war profits made three American millionaires. The Senator's thought as to who should pay the bonus meets with popular approval but when he seriously states before the Senate that the Government should force the profiteers to pay, he stoops to assinine foolishness. The Senator does not give a plan as to how he would make the profiteers pay because he has none and knows that his suggestion is impossible of execution.

Senator Hitchcock comes along with more buncombe. He would have the interest on the eleven billions of dollars loaned to foreign countries during the war pay the bonus. This amendment was made to the bill to assure the people that the foreign debt would not be cancelled but as for the interest paying the bonus, none but the most glibly would believe it.

It is estimated the bonus would cost the country four billions of dollars which would have to be raised by increasing the taxes upon the people to the extent of $40 upon each man, woman and child in the country. Can the people stand this additional tax? Do the former service men wish to impose such a burden upon the people and upon their own families? Evidently the President believes the country does not wish this tax burden added to the already heavy taxes, and there are enough members of the Senate, who recognize the great danger to the country in imposing such a tax burden, who will support the President.

Congress and the entire country are willing and anxious that every aid and care be given to the men who were injured or lost their health in the service and that the families of those who lost their lives be provided for, but there is strong objection, among the former service men themselves to compensate men who served in the military service abroad and at home and who suffered no bodily ills. These men object to purchasing what should be a patriotic service and object to making the military service of the United States a service for mercenaries.

HE STARTED SOMETHING

From Quakertown Free Press.

Some months ago a preacher in a nearby pulpit announced to his morning audience that on the following Monday and Tuesday the male members of his congregation were cordially invited—even earnestly urged—to meet with the other citizens of the township in the construction of two miles of sample good roads. For a moment, it was said, the congregation was aghast with the innovation of the invitation. Next day they responded with remarkable unanimity. Not only because the preacher had to drive over the road, but because in thinking about the matter overnight they concluded that here was an opportunity to demonstrate practical Christianity, good-citizenship, brotherhood community welfare, and all that sort of thing. They were startled when the "good-roads" invitation followed the announcement of the regular meeting of the ladies' aid, the strawberry festival, a funeral or two, and the young people's meeting. But they will not be startled next time. And it is a very safe wager that those two miles are going to be looked after quite carefully—to be used as a nucleus for many other miles, let us hope. The preacher's salary may not be raised at once, perhaps—but in the interval his members have a higher appreciation of his courage and originality than ever before.

THE SAME, HERE, TOO

From Norristown Herald.

The Reading Railway Express passing through Norristown at 5 p. m. without even as much as hesitating, ordinarily, came to an actual stop the other day when it seemed likely to hit a huckster's wagon trying to beat it to a crossing. It is a wonder that a fatality of this kind has not happened here, as every day, men, women and children can be seen crossing streets in insouciant disregard of the express while it is speeding through the town.

Why is it that Norristown should be made a way station by the Reading railway, anyway, as regards this particular train? It is the only one on both railroads that does not halt here, even making a stop at Phoenixville on the down trip. If Phoenixville, why not Norristown? And if it cannot stop here, why should it not use the other side of the river, the shorter subway route, instead of dashing through the largest town between Philadelphia and Reading? Town Council could have something to say about this, should it come to a show-down.

Perhaps one reason why the train gives us the go-by is that no effort has ever been made by Norristown organizations or individuals to interest the Reading railway into putting Norristown back on the map as far as its whole express schedule is concerned. Why not make the effort now, with the fall schedules soon to be in the making?

WILL WE HEAT BY ELECTRICITY

From Philadelphia Inquirer.

An inventor has always come when necessity called.

The recurring nuisance of coal strikes and scarce fuel is now loudly paging that electric wizard who will heat our home economically by merely pushing a button.

He is due to come quickly. Here we have in Philadelphia some 500,000 individual units for heating buildings. Everyone goes it alone. What a waste!

Not so in other things. Tosen a switch and one plant illuminates 100,000 homes with electricity.

Turn a screw, and one gas company puts fuel into the stoves of 100,000 kitchens.

Turn a spigot and from one supply gushes the water for two million people.

Thousands of persons every morning brown their toast or make their coffee electrically. It is only a step from a toaster big enough to supply your breakfast wants, and one of sufficient power to heat your entire house and do it more economically than you do it now with fifteen-dollar coal, and a strike on hand to boot.

Electric heat from a central plant as we now have light and gas and water and telephone service from one centre will be here some day. The strikers are driving it toward us faster than we or they know.

The board of education of Chicago has caused a classic essay to be immortalized in type. It's about frogs and was written by a young Norwegian: "What a wonderful bird the frog are! We are sorry to hear our friend McSparran sail into Dr. Finegan in almost every speech he makes. In our opinion, personalities in politics do more harm than good. There is enough at Harrisburg, besides Dr. Finegan, to attack. Why single out the head of Education? The argument of Mr. McSparran that it was not Finegan but the Grange that was responsible for the higher salary for teachers is very weak. The Grange, for fifty years, has had the chance to do it but didn't. Is it not strange then that the Grange should become interested in school teachers all at once, the very first year that Dr. Finegan came here? Some 45,000 teachers in Pennsylvania are just the least bit suspicious of McSparran. Sometimes we can't help but believe that perhaps the real reason for attacking Finegan is not Finegan, but the compulsory attendance law, which under Dr. Schaeffer was not enforced, but which under Finegan is being strictly enforced. May it be possible that McSparran is, unconsciously voicing the sentiment of that vast minority of the State Grange who think more of the pippen than the school-house? As a teacher, for a quarter of a century we know how some farmers, at least, think.—Town and Country.

Grandma is going to grow up again. Not much perhaps, but some. Women are the chameleons of the human race. Men have looked like wholesale job-lots since the days when they left off white wigs and baby blue silk breeches. But women are the privileged sex who are entitled to change their mode of dressing as often as they change their minds.

This Fall will mark the finish of the Flapper era. We will pass from a kittenish age where women of maturity pranced out in swaddling clothes into an age of dignity and poise. The apparent age of the average American woman will raise from a batting average of eighteen years to one of twenty-five. Baby stares will no longer hob-nob with galoshes.

Already the girl who displays perfectly good gauze stockings on perfect dimpled knees is being passed up for the girl whose long satin skirts leave something to the imagination. The new girl is rather a vampish looking little thing lacking the boyishness of the campus type of last year, for long skirts are strictly feminine affairs.

Like Halley's comet, the flapper will pass to a beyond that few of us will see again.

The Connecticut tobacco growers propose to fix the price of their product.

Contracts have been received by the Connecticut Valley Tobacco Association totaling more than 22,000 acres. The total stalk cut acreage of association members in Connecticut and Massachusetts is only 27,895, so that the acreage signed up more than assures the formation of a state-wide cooperative tobacco farmers' association by which the farmer will market their crops at a stipulated uniform price after the manner of the California fruit growers.

The move has been a long time arriving, but it is here at last.

The result undoubtedly will prove favorable to the tobacco growers, but it may raise the price of the five cent cigar. Any added expense naturally will be passed along to dear old ultimate consumer, but, weary as he is of exploitation, perhaps he will not mind, provided nothing is added to the freight by the middleman and the tobacco growers benefit by the move.

The nicker smoke, once so popular, today is almost unknown to men in even ordinary circumstances so any upward price will hit the poor alone, which would be regrettable. So far as the growers are concerned, they contend they have not received the worth of their product, the work and investment considered in any part of the country, though the price of the smoke has been steadily mounting.

Punchettes

Perhaps the most important problem before the public today is the marriage problem.

There are more thunderings at the foundation of the home than ever before.

THE MARRIAGE PROBLEM

The world seems determined to destroy the home. It is using the automobile, the motion picture house, the dance hall, the pool room, the summer resorts, the Sabbath picnic, games, and amusements, and every other conceivable method to scatter the family, detract from the sobriety of the home and wreck the domestic foundation.

Many a girl marries for a meal ticket, including a theatre coupon.

When the day of scarcity of food comes and no amusement is furnished, she enters the divorce court, and there commits a crime against society and places a blot upon the name of womankind.

Many a couple agrees before marriage to avoid the domestic responsibilities and live a life of freedom from care and domestic duty. Such an agreement is tantamount to premeditated social murder.

The blackest page of American history is the divorce page. To divorce one couple in every five marriages is a crime against society, home, and God.

Many divorces are sought by women because their husbands are cruel, or they fail to support them, or they have deserted them.

Any man who deliberately practices cruelty against his wife and fails to support his family, and finally deserts his wife and children ought to be arrested, tried and convicted and whipped in the public square for six months.

No couple should be allowed to marry unless each party to the contract could produce a certificate showing a sound, clean body and a sane mind for three preceding generations, and a spotless moral character.

No couple should be allowed to marry unless they could also show that they understand and are willing to assume and discharge the obligations that matrimony and a well-ordered home imposes upon a couple.

Parents are to blame for much of the present-day matrimonial looseness. They are too anxious to marry their daughters.

Awake, parents, and help us solve this all-important problem and thus save society from its present rotten tendency.

poem by UNCLE JOHN

I love the crispy mornin' air, about the hour of five, when the other birds is up to greet the sun. . . . There ain't no safer by-law for to keep a man alive, nor holds more satisfaction, when it's done. It don't take no alarm clock to yank me out of bed, when the honey-dew is whisperin' out of doors,—when the delicate machinery that's inside a feller's head, informs him that it's time to do the chores. . . . O, the meddlerlark, an' sapsuck, and the sassy little wren—and the oriole, a-swingin' in her tree, has never claimed the credit of knowin' more than men, but that's the way the fact appears to be! So, I get up in the mornin' when the dawn begins to peep,—afore the other neighbors is aware. There ain't no insperation in an overplus of sleep, like there is in breathin' early mornin' air. . . . I can taste the spirit in it, that invigorates the soul, lots higher than a "bonded" liquor can. It produces exultation that is allers in control, yet, makes a common plug a superman! . . . When heaven uncorks her demijohn of early-mornin' booze, and passes it around afore it's light, a feller's conscience tells him it's the only sort to use, and his appetite confirms it that he's right!

Everyday ScienceBy RUSSELL C. ERB
of High School FacultyNo. 17. INTERNAL POLICE

Blood contains substances called anti-bodies. We will call these anti-bodies, internal police, watch will include the white blood corpuscles and the antitoxins in the blood. When a bacteria finally gets into our blood through such doorways as the mouth, nose or open cuts, it meets a second line of defense. This second line of defense is the policemen in our blood. When a germ pokes itself into a blood vessel, the burglar alarm sounds and the internal police force rushes to the spot. If the body is healthy, the little germ is soon overpowered and gives up the fight. If the body is not healthy, these internal police are needed all along the blood route for police duty and cannot leave when called, bacteria enters and overpowers the police and sickness results. There are different police used against different disease germs just as we have different police—the traffic squad, the vice squad, etc. Some internal police will kill only smallpox germs. If such police are present in the blood from birth, the person is said to be naturally immune or resistant to smallpox. Other police are used against typhoid, against diphtheria and so on. Man may reinforce these blood police artificially by inoculation and vaccination. By having some diseases certain police are acquired. For instance, by having smallpox, police are acquired that will protect us against future attacks of the same disease. A healthy body encourages your internal police force.

GEIGERS READY FOR REUNION

Saturday, September 2, at Ringing Rocks Park, will be held the annual reunion of the descendants of Valentine Geiger, pioneer of the Geiger family in America. Historian Samuel F. Bair is preparing a fine record to be issued in pamphlet form, this year. Invitations were mailed by Miss Mary C. Geiger, of Philadelphia corresponding secretary. Russell C. Geiger, Gilbertville, is the president; Rev. Linwood Geiger, Kenilworth, Chester county, and Marcy B. Rutter, Stowe, vice presidents; Mrs. Charles V. Seivard, Pottstown, financial secretary; Prof. W. Norman Albright, Pottstown, treasurer. Valentine Geiger came over in 1747 from Southern Germany, presumably Baden. He was born in 1685. In 1761, William Penn issued a letter patent to the Frankfort Land Company for a tract of 22,377 acres where Pottstown now stands and extending back into the country about 12 miles.

GULF MILLS

The schools of Radnor township will reopen for the new term on Monday, September 11.

John Christy and family have removed from Norristown to Glenbrook avenue, Bryn Mawr.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Davidson, of Mechanicsville, were visiting Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Lobb at Llanerch, Delaware county, this week.

Frank Snow, formerly of Upper Merion near Gulf Mills, who for some time was employed in one of the American stores in Bridgeport, has been transferred to an American store in Bryn Mawr.

The Sunday evening service at the Gulf Christian church which has been dispensed with during a portion of the summer, will be resumed on Sunday evening, September 3.

One hundred white Wyandotte chickens were stolen Sunday from the premises of Dr. Alfred Stengle in Newtown Square near Bryn Mawr. The thieves used an auto to remove the fowls.

Mrs. Raymond Cole, of West Conshohocken, teacher at the Gulf school in Upper Merion, has returned from the West Chester State Normal school, where she has been taking a summer course in different branches.

The peach orchard on the Morris estate in Lower Merion near the former Green Tree Inn, one of the largest in this section of the country, has been visited by many persons this season in quest of peaches for canning and other winter use. Hundreds of baskets of fruit have been sold from the orchard for a price within the reach of everybody, and the quality is hard to surpass. The Morris estate has been known for its fine production of fruit for many years past and vies with Woodmont, the R. G. Wood property in Lower Merion near West Conshohocken.

President Myers, of the Upper Merion school board is busy among the schools in the district this week getting things in readiness for the reopening of the six places of learning on Tuesday next. Mr. Myers was engaged in the Swedeland district on Tuesday, where there is considerable work to give attention. Mr. Myers, who was engaged in the blacksmithing business for a number of years has relinquished that vocation and is devoting his attention to other pursuits. He has been connected with the Upper Merion school board for some time and is very energetic in his aim to advance the educational interests of the township.

The dangerous road intersections near the Gulf Christian church are again in the limelight. On Sunday afternoon two automobiles collided at the intersection of the Matson Ford or Township Line road and the Gulf road. The force of the impact pushed one of the machines against the bank near the church damaging, it somewhat, and the other was also damaged. The occupants escaped injury. The machines after a time were able to proceed under their own power. A short time ago a high powered car proceeding north on Montgomery avenue crashed into a smaller one at the dangerous intersection of Montgomery avenue and Township Line road. The above named points are among the most dangerous for autoists in this section of the country and persons unacquainted with the territory are warned against their existence. At both of the points the view is obscured by high banks, and at Montgomery avenue the P. & W. bridge and embankment shuts off much of the view. There should be warning signs at both places.

The next annual meeting of the New Jersey Christian Conference will be held in May, 1923, at Locktown, N. J., and in a Christian church for which the Rev. Amos R. Allen is pastor. It may be interesting to know that Rev. D. C. Loucks, brother of Rev. Albert Loucks, of Gulf Mills, was at one time in charge at the Locktown church and served there for quite a period of years prior to entering a pastoral field at Montezano, Washington state. Rev. D. C. Loucks is the father of Mrs. J. B. Fenwick, wife of Rev. J. B. Fenwick, who was pastor of the Gulf Christian church for several years or from about 1900 to 1902. Rev. Mr. Fenwick succeeded Rev. J. B. Clark and Mr. Fenwick in turn was succeeded by Rev. S. L. Baugher. The Fenwick family is now in Seattle, Washington, where Mr. Fenwick has been preaching in Congregationalist churches. From the fact that the next meeting of the New Jersey Christian Conference will be held in that state, it is noted that the last two annual gatherings of the body have also assembled here, in 1921, at Hilton, N. J., and in 1922 at Milford, N. J. This year in a church of which Rev. John Elliott Ely, formerly of Gulf Mills, is pastor. The New Jersey Conference met with the Gulf church twice while Rev. M. W. Butler was pastor, in 1912, shortly after he assumed charge and again in 1918.

Painters are now doing the interior work at the new residence of Clarence Nippes on Matson Ford road near West Conshohocken. Mr. Nippes expects to occupy his new home in the early fall. While it is in course of construction, he and his family are residing with Benjamin Davidson at Mechanicsville.

Policeman Benz, of the Lower Merion force, shot a dog on the Lancaster pike at Bryn Mawr on Tuesday morning which had all of the appearances of being affected with rabies. The dog, a small white colored animal of the hound species, was noticed wandering aimlessly around on the pike near the Bryn Mawr fire house and the firemen were attracted by its movements. The cry of mad dog soon arose and adults and children scurried to places of safety. Officer Benz soon arrived on the scene and the dog was dispatched. It was stated that two small children narrowly escaped being bitten by the dog and that a grown person pulled them out of harm's way. The police declared that the dog was known to have snapped at some of the other dogs in Bryn Mawr, but it was not definitely known whether any had been bitten, but if any doubt existed the dogs would be shot. To whom the strange dog belonged could not be learned. When he made his appearance, many pedestrians were on Lancaster pike.

New school room equipments including desks, seats, blackboard and other things are being installed in the upper room at the Gulf public school in Upper Merion. The equipments are modern in every particular, and their installation will mark the reopening of the grammar department of this school which has not been functioning for several years past. When the grammar grade was discontinued at the Gulf school the equipments were removed to other school buildings in the township where they were needed, thus necessitating the purchase of other ones to replace them. Mrs. Raymond Cole, of West Conshohocken will be in charge of the new department which will be reopened, having been promoted from the primary grade at the same school. There were no graduates from the Gulf school last term, and the pupils who have attended the higher grades there will now complete the course instead of entering West Conshohocken as they did previously.

The Gulf road in Lower Merion township, which prior to the building of Montgomery avenue between Bryn Mawr and Gulf Mills, was one of the main arteries of traffic radiating north from Philadelphia, is in a sadly neglected condition. This road is one of the oldest in the state. It is traditional of yesteryear. It is picturesque in the sequestered hills and valleys through which it passes. But in part the road bed of this ancient thoroughfare is in what may be termed a deplorable condition. Between the Gulf Christian Church and the Spring Mill road the Gulf road has a hard binder surface, while further towards Philadelphia it never has been improved to any great extent and a part of it is still a dirt road, notably that between the Spring Mill and Roberts road. In some places great ruts abound, making the highway dangerous to traffic. Along this road are the ancient William Penn milestones. The reason of its neglect cannot be determined, considering that Lower Merion financially leads all of the other townships in Pennsylvania. Since the building of Montgomery avenue the Gulf road in Lower Merion has ceased to be an extensively travelled thoroughfare. Is that the reason why it is allowed to disintegrate? Washington's army travelled over this highway, and for that reason alone it should be preserved in the best condition possible to perpetuate the memory of the great patriot in this locality.

The next quarterly business meeting of the Gulf Christian church will be held the first Wednesday evening in October.

A festival under the auspices of the Woman's Missionary Society of the Gulf Christian church will be held on the lot on the Walker farm at the foot of Mechanicsville on Saturday afternoon and evening, Sept. 9. The event will be a large one and Mrs. A. I. Supple, president of the society, has appointed a number of committees to attend to all of the details concerning the affair. A number of booths will be erected on the spacious grounds where delicacies and other things will be offered for sale. These will include ice cream, cake, lemonade, confectionery, fruit and fancy articles and novelties. There will be a parcel post booth and the "hot dog" will be much in evidence. In conjunction with this event the Sunday school and church will hold field day sports in the afternoon at the same place. Prominent among the features at this meet will be a base ball game between teams composed of members of the church and Sunday school. Besides this there will be other sports including three-legged races, sack races for small boys, 100 and 50 yard dashes, races for adults as well as the young, and men and women and boys and girls will participate. John Smith, superintendent of the Sunday school, is planning to make the field day event a banner one in the locality.

Ground has been broken for a new home for the Swedeland Fire Company in Upper Merion. The building will be erected on A street in the heart of the small town, and will be located on ground which the Alan Wood Iron and Steel Company acquired from the Potts estate. The cellar is being dug by the members of the fire company, and an incentive towards furthering the project is the fact that light beverages, including birch beer, are served to the firemen each evening while they are at work. While it was the intention of the residents of Swedeland to organize a fire company some years ago, the plan did not materialize until the Rainey-Wood Coke industry was started there, which necessitated the building of many new dwellings to accommodate the employees. Persons came from different parts of the United States to work at the new industry, with the result that new blood was infused among the proponents of the fire company project, and it soon became a reality. Swedeland now has twice the number of dwellings that it contained some years ago, and a large portion of them are of the bungalow type. It is doubtful whether any other colony of workmen and their families are as neatly and comfortably housed as those residing at Swedeland.

The public schools of Upper Merion township will re-open for the new term on Tuesday next, September 5. There will be quite a number of changes at the different schools, particularly in the teaching staff. Throughout Upper Merion it is stated that the number of beginners to enter the schools for the first semester will be unusually large. Among the changes at the schools will be at the Gulf school where a new room will be opened, and the grammar grade, which has been discontinued there for several years, will be restored. Mrs. Raymond Cole, of West Conshohocken, will be in charge of this, having been promoted from the primary department. It has been stated that Mrs. Harry Tyson, of Swedeland, and Miss Stahl, of Palm, were elected to positions as teachers at the Gulf school in addition to Mrs. Cole. While this report is not questioned, some persons at Mechanicsville believe that one of these teachers is to be in charge at Bird-in-Hand school, and to fill a vacancy caused by the resignation of Miss Miller, who was elected a teacher in Bridgeport. They base their belief on the fact that the Gulf school building contains only two rooms and in order to open three rooms it will necessitate a division of one of the rooms, thereby making two of the rooms quite small. Pupils in the higher grades at the Gulf school will remain there this term instead of entering West Conshohocken as has been the case for several years past. Besides the addition to the corps of teachers at Bird-in-Hand and the Gulf, there has been a change in the teaching force at some of the other schools and when the pupils of the last term return to their studies they will in some instances be greeted by new teachers.

Business is Picking Up
"Rastus," said the judge sternly, "you are found guilty of having stolen two chickens from Mr. Robinson's coop last week. The fine will be five dollars."

Smiling complacently, Rastus approached the Court and laid a ten-dollar bill on the desk.

"Well," said the lawyer, "what shall we ask for—trial by judge or by jury?"

"Take the judge, Doc," said the plumber client. "I've done plumbing work for nearly everybody in this town."—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

A Dangerous Flirtation

By MARVIN BROWN.

Copyright, 1921, Western Newspaper Union.

Lily Price took down her hair and smiled at her reflection in the mirror of her room. Then she smiled at the remembrance of the evening. Mr. Ferris was evidently in love with her, and while she could not honorably have encouraged him, she could not avoid a certain feeling of elation.

Her father, a hard-working city clerk, had sent her to this expensive mountain hotel in order to accelerate her recovery from an illness brought on by long confinement in a stuffy office. Lily was engaged to John Shaw, the curate of her home town.

She had spent the whole evening with Ferris, and had half promised to go driving with him on the morrow. She went to bed happy, and arose next morning with the same sense of elation. It was said that Ferris was rich.

She frowned when she saw a letter from John beside her plate. She read it with a contraction of her pretty brows. John breathed devotion in every syllable, and he was coming to Lakeview lodge that very day, to spend the week-end with her. In that case there would be no drive with Philip Ferris.

"Bad news, Miss Price?" asked Ferris, a few minutes later, coming up to her as she sat on the veranda. "I say you looking unhappy over a letter and I hoped it was nothing unpleasant."

"Oh, no," said Lily with a sigh, putting away the letter in her bag. "Then how about our drive?" volunteered Ferris. "Have you ever been round Blue Mountain?"

"I'm afraid I can't go, Mr. Ferris," said Lily. "I'm expecting a friend—I mean my—"

She broke off in confusion. Ferris smiled understandingly. He had no desire of marrying her; it was only a week-end flirtation.

"It will be a tragedy to me, if you won't come," he said, pressing her hand ever so gently. "You have made me mortally jealous of your friend—"

"Oh, he's so slow," Lily burst out petulantly. She sprang to her feet. "I'll come," she said, and ran into the house.

John Shaw was due to arrive at four. He would arrive to discover that Lily was away. Well, she did not care. It should be a lesson to him. At three o'clock promptly she entered the carriage. The drive was splendid. As she ascended the mountain road Ferris leaned toward her. "I'm mortally jealous of that sweet heart of yours," he said. "Who is he?"

"He's a clergyman," answered Lily. Ferris burst into a roar of laughter. "A clergyman. Ho, ho!" he roared. "Then there wouldn't be any harm in this!"

He drew her to him and kissed her. It was not the first time that the girl had been kissed, even excepting John, but there was something in the young man's demeanor that scared her. "Please don't," she begged, as he showed every sign of repeating the act. "That isn't honorable."

"Why isn't it honorable?" asked Ferris, letting the horse gallop on with loose reins.

"Why isn't it honorable?" demanded Ferris again, and suddenly caught her in his arms. "A clergyman isn't a man; he's a sort of mongrel."

Lily screamed—she was really afraid of her companion now. Ferris had released the reins entirely, and the horse, startled by the sudden sound, kicked up its heels and darted wildly down the mountain road.

"Hold him!" cried the girl, and then, to her amazement, she saw that Ferris was clinging, panic-stricken, to the side of the carriage. His face was white as chalk and his hands too nervous to grasp the reins.

The animal was pulled back upon its haunches. John Shaw stood in the way. He was clinging with one strong hand to the horse's bridle, while with the other he patted the frightened creature's neck. When at last it stood, quivering with fright, Shaw turned to Lily.

"I didn't know it was you," he said, and his face was as white as Ferris'. "If I had known I might have lost my presence of mind. I was walking up from the station and I heard somebody scream."

He lifted her from her seat and set her down.

Ferris descended from the vehicle and came toward her, wearing a foolish smile.

"That was a near-scare, wasn't it?" he stammered.

"I won't detain you now," said John, rather coldly, lifting his hat. "Perhaps, though, your friend would like me to take the carriage back to the stables."

"No," said Lily, clinging to him. "Take me back, John. I have been a little fool, and I am very much ashamed. I want to tell you, and ask you to forgive me, John."

Not Now.

"Why did you let that man go without selling him a car?"

"Well, he had good reasons. Said he couldn't afford one."

"That's no reason."

Just So.

"They talk about the fifth wheel to a wagon being useless."

"Well?"

"Lots of automobiles carry a fifth wheel."

The law as given out in Harrisburg is Section 45 of the Act of April 15, 1834, which says:

COLLECTION ON CHECKS TO BE DISCUSSED ON C. OF C.

At the meeting of the Directors of the Chamber of Commerce, October 12th, the question as to whether the collection of checks at par should be made universal throughout the country will be discussed.

The local Chamber is only one of the 1,400 business organizations making up the membership of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce that is considering the referendum that has been sent out by the National Chamber. This referendum is based upon a report to the National Chamber by a special committee which has made an exhaustive study of every phase of this question. In the opinion of the committee, the practice of certain banks in making a charge usually 1-8 to 1-10 of one per cent, in remitting to their reserve bank in payment of checks drawn upon them by their depositors should be discontinued and par remittance be made universal. In its investigation, the committee found that not only the 9,726 member banks in the reserve system were remitting at par but also 18,792 non-member banks, whereas the number of non-member banks not remitting at par was 1,932.

Copies of this referendum have been given to the Directors and they will vote upon this question at the next meeting of the Chamber in October.

FOOT BALL POLICY SHOULD BE UPHELD

Public Should Stand Behind Movement in Policy to Be Pursued in Financing Game. Gate Receipts Must Pay All Expenses and Association Should Not be Responsible.

The announcement that Conshohocken is to have another first-class foot ball team was pleasing news to the ears of many followers of the sport. At the end of last season there was considerable ill feeling and dissatisfaction but since then many things have happened and once again the season of foot ball is practically at hand, and there has been a feeling of anxiety for several weeks over the question as to whether the town is to have a foot ball team, and if such, of what calibre is it to be?

It is well known that the manner in which the team was run last season was purely an experiment. It was run on a committee basis and every man on the committee was well versed in the game and how it should be run, but for some unknown reason the season was not a financial success. The games were well attended but the running expenses were so high that the receipts fell far short of meeting them but even in the face of this disaster, the rain insurance collected on two of the glibest games allowed the team to finish with a respectable showing.

When the fact is considered that the best players in the East were assembled on the local team it should have been expected that it would require a lot of money to finance it. Every fan in the town will agree that the team was a wonderful combination but the management did not get the best from the team collectively. Individually the men played hard but there was a lack of unison in team work which prevented the machine from showing its full strength.

With only one man at the head of the team this year there should be a far better showing. He will have the whole say as to who shall be signed up as players, set the salary and be wholly responsible to the public in regards to the calibre of the team. He will engage the coach and the coach will have full charge of the men, and it will be up to him to instill a system of foot ball that will either bring victory or defeat to the team.

Manager Crawford will be looked to for results during the coming season. He has been interested in foot ball as the head of the Conshohocken team ever since the sport was revived here several years ago and he has given the town some wonderful teams and has placed Conshohocken in the forefront as a foot ball borough. The town demands a championship team but it must be born in mind that it takes money to finance such a team and it is up to the public alone whether or not the team will be maintained as a leader in independent foot ball. No manager can run a good team without finances and the only way finances can be or should be provided is through the attendance at the games. The games should be made pay for the team and this is just exactly what manager Crawford has in mind. He does not intend to plunge the Athletic Association further in debt by producing a high-class team which the public does not appreciate and fails to support. In short if the public is willing to show by their patronage that they want a team that can cope with such teams as Holmesburg, Frankford and the former Quaker teams he will meet the demand and produce the goods.

There is no discounting the fact that the men already lined up for the local team is as good as the game produces. With a coach that understands the game and knows how to handle players, a wonderful machine can be placed on the field with half as many players as were used last season and at a greatly reduced figure, and at a figure that the town can afford.

The standard of the Conshohocken team must be kept high; the management must be encouraged in his work, so let everybody get busy and boost rather than knock and the team is sure to be a success.

Jones and Corson to Play For National Golf Title

Plymouth C. C. Stars Will Play in Brookline Tournament

Spencer C. Jones, of this borough, winner of the Shawnee and the Buck Hill tournaments, left last night for Boston and will play in the Brookline tournament, which begins tomorrow, for the National amateur Golf championship.

Another local aspirant for the title is Phil Corson, the 16 year old champion, of Plymouth Meeting. Both contestants are the star players of the Plymouth Country Club. Young Corson is a graduate of the Norristown high school. He was interested in athletics while at school and was a star at Basketball. He started to take an interest at golf at the Plymouth club, where his father played, and within two years after he first picked up a club, won the amateur title of the Philadelphia district.

Jones has been a dangerous contender in several big tournaments within the past three years but recently he gained fame by winning the Shawnee title.

Those who have watched the careers of both Jones and Corson, see a marked difference in their style of play. Young Phil has always been a hard man to beat in medal play. In qualifying rounds, he is always near the top. On the other hand, Jones' forte is match play. He struggles hard to gain the first sixteen in the qualifying round, but is a tough one to beat when the match play begins. Plymouth golfers expect both young men to show the world something at Brookline, and they can be depended upon to play their best to the very finish. In the parings just announced, Jones will be matched with George F. Aubach, of Scarborough, to start the medal round at 9.55 Saturday morning. Corson makes the first round with Eddie Held, of Forest Park, at 1.30 p. m.

The local stars will be up against some hard opponents, such as Francis Ouimet, former title holder; Bobby Jones, the Atlanta wonder; Norman Maxwell, and J. Wood Platt of Whitmarsh; Max Marston, of Merion; Dwight Meigs, former head of Hiss school, Pottstown; Jesse P. Guilford, present titleholder, who made the Brookline course last week in 69, or three under par, and many other golfers of high calibre.

HARMONVILLE VS. SPRING MILL IN SECOND GAME OF SERIES

On Saturday afternoon at 3 p. m., at Harmonville, the second game of the series will be played with Spring Mill. The first game was played on Saturday, August 19, and resulted in a win for Spring Mill and the Harmonville boys are out to even it up.

The fast Avelon E. C. of Norristown, after winning 14 straight games journeyed down to Harmonville and was defeated 5 to 1, in one of the best games played on the Harmonville diamond. Kauffman, pitching for H. B. C. had 16 strikeouts and only allowed 4 hits. O'Donnell and Bresch starred for Harmonville.

Diamond State Fibre Company will play a double header in the Industrial League at the athletic field tomorrow afternoon and will have for their opponents the Alan Wood I. & S. and Ruth Glass teams. This is the first double header played in the league this season and will mark the closing of the schedule.

Diamond State and Alan Wood Play Tie Game

In one of the best pitchers battle seen on the Athletic Field, Diamond State and Alan Wood played to a tie score of 1 to 1. Vinchinski hurt for Alan Wood seemed to have the edge on Durnell, of Diamond State, allowing only 4 hits and issuing only 1 base on balls, while Durnell was touched for 7 hits and gave two bases on balls.

In the sixth inning with a man on second and third, with none out, Vinchinski retired, the side striking out J. Kelly, Murphy and Durnell in order.

Harmonville and Plymouth Form Athletic Association

The residents of Harmonville, Plymouth Meeting and vicinity want their children in sports of all kinds and it is plain to be seen that they are in earnest. A huge mass meeting was just recently held in the Consolidated school and a large number of people attended. Athletics were discussed freely and all that attended showed a real interest in what was going on. The result of this meeting was the forming of an Athletic Association. Officers were elected and Mr. Harry Davis, of Harmonville, was elected president. Harry P. Markle was elected vice president, I. Sheppard, secretary, and Mr. Slavin, treasurer. A committee was appointed with Ray Donnelly as chairman to make up a set of by-laws and arrange a Constitution.

The credit for starting this new organization goes to the Harmonville B. C., who has been playing ball this season and has made a fine showing. The boys of this club went out and talked the matter up and the first thing that happened was the meeting and then the Association. The plans call for a foot ball team the coming season, basketball and base ball again next year, but these are by no means the limit as track, tennis and all sports will be taken up and judging from all reports, these two little villages will be heard from in the future along all lines of activities. A new club house will be built this winter and when everything gets working right, it is doubtful if any village the size of Harmonville, in this section, will be able to rival it. The association will be a big boost to our nearby villages and although it is a big undertaking it is sure to be carried out and as far as finances goes, there is not any doubt because just recently the Harmonville B. C. held a small lawn fete and the receipts ran well over $100 and this is one reason why they will not have any trouble raising the money. The next meeting will be held on Friday, September 8, in the Consolidated school auditorium at 8 p. m.

BASE BALL

Saturday is an open date in the Montgomery County Base Ball League but all teams will play two games on Monday (Labor Day). The season in the league will wind up with the afternoon game. Conshohocken will play Lansdale at home in the morning and will go to Perkasie for their last game of the season in the afternoon.
