VFW Gives Little League A New Flag

Robins, Cardinals Win Opener on Memorial Day

The Robins, J. Hawks, 1; Cardinals, 6; Blue Jays, 5. That's the story of the double header on Memorial Day at Sutcliffe Park.

The Robins went seven innings before beating the Hawks. Anthony Mancini pitched a no-hitter but had to leave the mound under Little League rules at the end of the regulation six-inning game. Tommy Reustle, relief pitcher for the Hawks, took over in the seventh. Joe Iacovetti reached first on an error. Dick Wisniewski walked and Iacovetti scored on the Robins' lone single by George Gebhardt to end the contest.

Joe Iacovetti held the Hawks to two hits in six innings, while striking out three. (Continued on Page Seven)

THE 'MEL' ON MACHINE — A tag given in ferocious several elections ago by a tabloid throwaway distributed now and then, has a convert—the backers of the same. The tabloid's for Pat Mellon, Democrat, over Francis Ruggiero, Republican nominee for burgess, in the general election in November. The change of heart isn't exactly out in public yet, but those who have eyes to see can really see.

FORMER PRESIDENT EISENHOWER SHUNNED Valley Forge on Sunday, while doing a weekend commercial for his old friend, Lt. Gen. Milton G. Baker, at the Valley Forge Military Academy. He wrote a letter declining an invitation to mingle with Veterans of the 314th Infantry at their annual service held on the grounds in the rear of Washington Memorial chapel on May 28. He acknowledged he would be in the neighborhood but explained his schedule would be "too tight." He and Mamie left Wayne for Gettysburg that afternoon.

RIGHT AROUND HOME has been my news beat since 1925. I wrote my first copy as a correspondent for The Norristown Register, worked there two years, joined the staff of The Conshohocken Recorder, then returned to The Register for more money.

When President Herbert Hoover came to Valley Forge to deliver an address, I was there. (Continued on Page Seven)

"Thanks for a good job." You, too, can rent your apartment by advertising in this newspaper.

Who's That Knocking at My Door?

Search Is On for 9,000 Unlicensed Dogs

Montgomery County dog-owners have been reminded that law enforcement officers employed by the Commonwealth are conducting a crackdown on unlicensed dogs.

County Treasurer Clay C. Hess said county-employed personnel are not involved in checking households and are not hunting down unlicensed dogs.

"Every year when the state dog census begins operating," Hess said, "we receive complaints from state dog-owners and annoyed citizens."

"Not only are county employees not engaged in this drive, but the county acts only as an agent for the state in collecting license fees."

Hess said, "the easiest way to avoid any difficulties is to make sure your dog is properly licensed."

License fees, the treasurer said, are set by the state legislature. Dog-owners may purchase licenses at the Treasurer's office in the Court House or by mail. Fees are 1.10 for males and spayed females, and $2.10 for unspayed females.

Hess said the only return for the county is 10-cents-a-license. He said the remainder and bulk of the revenue is taken by the Commonwealth.

The present drive on unlicensed dogs is headed by Floyd R. Klopp, state dog law investigator from the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture.

Klopp previously warned that owners of unlicensed dogs face fines of from $5 to $100 or 30 days in prison if state enforcement officials catch them. (Continued on Page Three)

Emelen, son-in-law of former Republican National Committeeman Jay Cooke of Blue Bell, is chairman of the committee.

Lost in War, Chewed by Larger Dogs And Smuggled Aboard Ship, Mascot Guards Exhibit in Veterans Log Cabin

"Pat," a stray dog that became friendly with several thousand men of the 314th Infantry Regiment in World War I, will never be forgotten.

The pet, picked up by Reuben S. Kilpatrick, of 400 E. Eleventh Ave., Conshohocken, then a sergeant of the 314th, occupies a glass enclosure built especially by his friends as part of the permanent exhibit in the 314th's Log Cabin at Valley Forge Park.

The stray that became a mascot in December, 1918 and was jokingly named Pat after Pat O'Donnell, one of the group, died in 1932 at the home of John Stroth of Sunbury, Pa.

Sgt. Kilpatrick, who has served as president of Spring Mill Fire Co. for two decades and is in retirement after 45 years' service as an executive with an insurance firm in center city, and a group at his command had been sent to the village of LaSoye in Belgium to do guard duty on the roads leading into Luxembourg.

It appears that the Germans had had the dog, as he obeyed commands in German given him by Leo Schell, a member of the group who was from Bally, Pa. Pat answered commands in German to lay down and sit up.

A pal of all the men, Pat would sleep under the blankets with them. He followed them on hikes, shan batties, and drills. One of his favorite stunts was to go hopping over a gun barrel after gun barrel when (Continued on Page Five)

Libby McCall

COLONEL AND MRS. ARTHUR TEAGUE and their debutante daughter, Jane, were hosts at an unusual party May 4 at Horse Show Acre, their new home on Oak Rd., off Northwestern Ave., Barren Hill.

They called their event a "barnyard minstrel show." There were drinks and snacks and a performance by the Gurnsey Glee Club in a bucolic setting at fresco on the Teagues' lawn and terrace.

The Gurnsey Glee Club is made up of a group of milkmen trained by Russell Montgomery, of Flourtown, who is the Teague girls' music teacher. Jokes and songs were interrupted by the mooring of a Gurnsey heifer, Lady of Silver Lake, which was in a field nearby. In a further field two of the Teagues' champion horses, Duchess and Princess Filtration, were frolicking and as it grew dark the scene was illuminated by electrically lighted Japanese lanterns strung across the terrace.

Mrs. Teague looked most attractive in a red and white silk print dress with a floral corsage. She was assisted in receiving by her five pretty daughters, Jane, 17; Margie, 15; Fannie, 14; Anne, 11; Lucy, eight, and her handsome son Charles, six.

Jane will be graduated from Miss Irwin on June 14 and already has been accepted by the University of New Hampshire where she will take four years of pre-medical training, transferring to the Medical School of the University of Pennsylvania for her M. D. She will make her debut at a tea dance Nov. 26.

There are many remarkable things about the Teagues. Colonel Teague built their new house himself. It took him four winters. In the summers he is in charge of the cog railway up Mount Washington in New Hampshire.

Another is the number of pets the children have. In addition to the heifers and horses there are 19 dogs—Mrs. Teague raises Dalmatians—four cats, white rabbits which the children sell and several yearling horses. Col. Teague delivered a yearling saddle horse he sold to someone in Vermont this week leaving a yearling hackney at home for the children. Their rooms inside are stacked with medals, cups and blue ribbons won by the family at horse shows here and in New England.

You would never think you were only 12 miles from City Hall. In the field next door are game cocks raised by Mr. and Mrs. William P. Molloy who takes them to Maryland to fight. The Molloys are great riders and love living next door to the Wissahickon as do the Teagues.

Among the guests at the barnyard minstrel show were former Chestnut Hiller Hugh McCauley Miller Jr. with his two adorable dachshunds with rhinestone collars. The pets mingled happily with the other animals on the lawn. One cat looked quite askance at them but there were no fights.

Next door neighbor, Mrs. H. P. Glendinning, toyed with the idea of buying a white rabbit for her grandson but wanted to get the permission of her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Bob Glendinning, before making the purchase.

Others among the hundred or more present were Mr. and Mrs. Sam Dieston, Mrs. Hamill Gill and Mr. and Mrs. William Caveny, whose daughter was understudy to the star in the Savoy's recent production of Gilbert and Sullivan's "Patience." She comes by her talent naturally as Mrs. Caveny was a former professional star with Gilbert and Sullivan productions in England.

The Teagues will leave the end of June for their summer home in New Hampshire.

For Men Who Penetrated Deepest Into Germany... 1887 Stars on Tablet

Huddled amid the trees at historic Valley Forge, a spot in American history, is a unique Log Cabin Memorial to the men who fought and died in France with the 314th Infantry, a unit of the 79th Division during World War I.

The memorial is in the form of a Log Cabin erected by the men of the regiment at Camp Meade (now Fort Meade) in Maryland during the training period in 1917. Every man had a part in the building of the cabin, some to cut logs, others to haul them to their location, others to trim and erect them, others to do electrical work, painting and so on to completion.

The cabin was used as a recreation building at Camp Meade, and was a meeting place for the men and their families on weekends.

After the war, a few men started to organize the regiment into a peace time fraternal organization. This completed, they set out to secure the Log Cabin as a memorial. After several contacts with Washington, they were informed they could secure the cabin, but the men had no funds and no place to put it. Again the few men got together and after some time they received a letter from Dr. Burke, (then rector of the Washington Memorial Chapel at Valley Forge) to send a committee to set with him. A trucking firm in Baltimore agreed to raise the cabin, marking every log and every stone in the fire place, haul them to Valley Forge and reassemble the cabin, log for log and stone for stone.

In later years, a brick floor was added, brick walks to the entrance and a series of 6" shells as posts and a chain rail at all walks. Some years later a drive was begun to erect a Bronze Memorial tablet in the cabin, which covers the entire rear wall with every man's name cast in bronze, with gold stars at the names of men killed in action, and silver stars at the names of those who have died since. At present there are 1887 stars in place and according to Ray Nicholson, chairman of the Log Cabin committee, more silver stars have been applied in the last 20 years than in the first 20 years.

The interior of the cabin is the location of many pieces of American and German origin from the

All grown up?
Well, Miss Joan Lyle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Lyle, 637 Ford St., West Conshohocken, is beginning to wonder.

A senior at Conshohocken High school, she attended her senior prom Friday night. When she rolled out of bed on Saturday, she was all over bumps—MEASLES!

Well, she is going to miss Class Day tomorrow. But their family physician says for sure she'll be on deck to receive her diploma with the class on June 9. Here's hoping, Joan!

Tea Honors Walker Faculty

A tea honored the faculty of Hervey S. Walker Elementary school last week, sponsored by the Mother's Club.

This was the final session for the season. Mrs. Gilmore's sixth grade class again won the attendance banner. A spokesman said it is hoped that next year there will be better representation from other classes in the school at the Mother's meetings.

Mrs. Helen Walker, vice-president, in the absence of Mrs. Kay Hennessy, president, read notes of appreciation from Mrs. Ruth Leshar and Joseph Hollis for the time given by the mothers in aiding in the cafeteria of the school. "Without their help, the cafeteria would not have been able to function," the notes stated.

Mrs. Sue Kriebel reported a successful field tour by the sixth graders, saying the pupils were complimented several times on the good behaviour, a fine reflection of their training at school and home.

Everyone in attendance participated in a program on "Liquid embroidery," led by Mrs. Lillian Rosenthal.

If your child doesn't eat, don't force him. Maybe he isn't hungry!

New Drug Store Robbed

Burglars on Tuesday pried open the back door of a drug store in the Plymouth Square Shopping Center, Ridge and Butler Pike, and escaped with an estimated $1,200 worth of merchandise, $200 in cash and $38 worth of narcotics.

The theft was discovered at 9:30 A. M. by Ralph J. Tucci, 24, manager of the Thrift Drug Store, when he arrived for work.

Vito Fusco, chief of police in Plymouth township, declined to comment. It was learned that the theft of narcotics from the drug store has touched off a major alert.

According to Tucci, cabinets inside the store were broken open. He said the cash and narcotics were locked inside a cabinet under a prescription counter. Loot included tobacco, electric razors, wrist watches and cameras.

Enforcement of the licensing laws and proper control of dogs are designed to protect livestock owners, dog owners and the general public.

On Monday morning alone, the team reported 27 violations, all within Montgomery county, and all possessing un-licensed dogs.

"All tags must be worn by the dogs — not placed in a dresser drawer," a representative stressed.

"We are going to remain in the county until all un-licensed dogs are properly handled," the spokesman repeated.

It seems there are at least 9,000 un-licensed canines in Montgomery county, since this is the decrease in the number of licenses issued this year, over last year's total.

A friendship that was sparked by kindness during wartime still bears fruit today.

An avid baseball fan, he witnessed local amateur games over the holidays. Asked how he likes the United States, his reply is, "oh, I just love it."

Pat was smuggled on board the ship Princess Matoika bringing the regiment home and entrusted to the care of John Stroth of Sunbury, one of the original group that found him.

In the second game, the Cardinals cased by the Blue Jays 6-5. Both teams scored identically in the first and fifth innings and it was a pitching battle between Joe Kelly and Charles Jefferies until the final stanza.
Kelly struck out 9 and didn't issue any free passes. Jefferies fanned seven and only allowed two walks.
The Cards out hit the Jays, 10 to 8, but eight costly errors proved to be the deciding factor. Jefferies helped his own cause with two hits including a double. Tommy Harr and Dick Kasek both had two hits for the Cards. Joe Kelly and Felix Salvi had the only extra base hits for the Jays and Salvi and Eddie Ricci both were 2 for 3 for the losers.

THE FIRING LINE

address I covered the story. It ran with an eight-column streamer and my byline on page one.
Two years ago last February Herbert Hoover came to Valley Forge to accept Freedom Foundations' top award. While he was speaking I whispered to my wife, who was sitting alongside me in the press section, that I seemed to remember having heard that talk before. As the former President concluded his address, he smiled warmly and said:
"Now I have a surprise for you—I gave this speech in Valley Forge 31 years ago."
Before we left the barn where the awards were presented, my wife and I talked to Herbert Hoover, and I told him I was the reporter who had been assigned to cover him 31 years ago.

CLOSE INSPECTION — Joe DeMeno, left, and Joe Marinari, right, both of Norristown, have quite a time with young visitors at Musselman Armory, Sandy and Farnance, Plymouth township, during Armed Forces Day, while they examine intricate mechanisms of exact replica of combat tank turret trainer, utilized by men of 6th Medium Tank Battalion, 68th Armor, 79th Infantry Div. — Weekly Review photos by Anthony LOADED — The tank, that is. And youngsters climbing on an Army tank could only happen on Armed Forces Day at "open house." Boys love to see what makes a tank tick and sort of envy the life of a soldier. In charge of tank display at Armory, Sandy and Farnance Sts., Plymouth township, on ground, are, from left, Lt. MacDonald, of Springfield, Delaware county; Ronald A. Neishloss, of Norristown; and up on tank, Andrew Messina, of Warminster. The men are members of Company A, 6th Med. Tank Battalion (Patton), 68th Armor, 79th Infantry Div.

PROGRESS — Ritter Finance Co., formerly of Conshohocken, occupies one of the new offices in Plymouth Square Shopping Center. Largest unit is the A & P Supermarket. Additional stores are under construction, also a bowling alley, and, separated from the main center, the First Pennsylvania Banking and Trust Co. is raising a three-story brick dwelling on the site where it will open a branch in near future.

Frederick Nolde, Wife Fly Back to Geneva; 'Talks at Crucial Stage'

The Rev. O. Frederick Nolde of Chestnut Hill has returned to Geneva after having been home from Geneva for two weeks.

In addition to his routine work he had interviews with the heads of all three countries which for two and a half years have been trying to work out a mutual acceptable treaty to ban nuclear testing. The sticking point is, of course, the nature and function of the inspection body to see no one cheats.

Mr. Nolde's contacts included a talk with the Secretary of State and many informal meetings with members of the British and American teams. He also had a most cordial lunch with Tsarapkin, head of the USSR delegation.

As a result of the conversations Mr. Nolde feels the talks are at a crucial stage. In a speech before the Lutheran Ministerium of Pennsylvania at Buck Hill Falls, Mr. Nolde emphasized certain points. The United States should not at this time be the guilty party in breaking off negotiations. . . . The Russian demand for three nation control of the inspection group, (their old pitch at the United Nations last fall, three for one in the Secretary-General) should not be accepted.

Ream, planning to participate in the exercises for the last time as principal of the school, said today he doesn't know how he will occupy his time after retirement. Given a rocking chair at exercises in his assembly last Thursday, he com-

SMHS Class Reunion

The 1956 class of St. Matthew's High school will sponsor their first reunion Saturday, June 17, in Jeffersonville. Reservations are being enrolled by Michael Marshall at TAYLOR 8-0665.

But the United States and Britain should have in mind certain concessions they are ready to make if the Russians show any signs of yielding on this point. Should the United States at any time resume testing it should be to develop nuclear power for peaceful purposes and open it to complete and full inspection.

Mr. Nolde feels very strongly that action along these lines is an obligation to humanity, and the importance of the negotiations being continued is a key factor in the whole field of disarmament talks. He flew back to Geneva Friday for consultations. Mrs. Nolde accompanied him.

Pastor is Named To Service Board

The Rev. William E. Nye, pastor of Zion Evangelical Lutheran Church of Bethlehem Pike, White-marsh, has been appointed by Congressman Richard S. Schweiker to the Service Academy Selection Board.

This board will select candidates for the July 1962 appointments: one to the Air Force Academy; two to the Naval Academy and three to the Military Academy. Appointments will be based on the applicant's scores in college entrance examination, scholastic record and leadership ability, as determined by interviews with the board.

All applicants must be residents of the 13th Congressional District, Montgomery County, and are to notify the Congressman at once of their interest.

Principal Ream to Say Farewell at Graduation

After 35 years, Richard C. Ream will say farewell to the Springfield Township School District at commencement at 8 P. M. June 12.

The class may be the largest in the history of the high school. It consists of 228 seniors, two more than the number graduated last June. Ream, planning to participate in the exercises for the last time as principal of the school, said today he doesn't know how he will occupy his time after retirement. Given a rocking chair at exercises in his assembly last Thursday, he commented one thing is certain, the old rocking chair isn't going to get him, except for leisure moments. He will take part in the baccalaureate service at 8 P. M. June 8 in the auditorium of the high school. He is 57.

While his final role on June 12 will be memorable, the principal will be remembering his first days at Springfield after his graduation by Gettysburg College in 1926 and the huge dinner given by former students in the gymnasium of the school on May 17.

$2,000,000 Nursing Home Is Up to Court

Two Commissioners Fight Decision of Zoning Board

Judge Robert Honeyman, of Montgomery County will hear a taxpayers suit brought by Leonard Mower and James Alexander, Springfield township commissioners, from Orland, to over-rule the Springfield Township Zoning Board of Adjustment's granting of an exception to Warren Griffiths to build a $2,000,000 nursing home at Stenton Ave. and Paper Mill Rd.

Court officials said the suit will appear on a "long list" before Judge Honeyman in Norristown beginning June 5 and lasting through June 9 but could not say on what day the suit would be heard.

The suit was filed May 17 by Mower and Alexander to test the board's judgment in permitting the erection of an apartment-type building in an AA residential area. They want to make sure there are adequate setbacks and other items not clearly explained in the petition approved by the zoning board.

Township officials were served with papers notifying them of the suit May 23.

Griffiths asked March 20 for permission to build a four-story 46-bed nursing home with off-street parking for 75 cars on the site. He owns the Fairview Nursing Home at Stenton Ave. and Bethlehem Pike, Chestnut Hill to which he has been seeking to add an addition to the south of the property. This has been opposed by members of the North Chestnut Hill Association and neighbors and the case has been carried to the State Supreme Court.

A group of 18 lovely and talented contestants will vie for the Miss Pennsylvania title now held by Miss Priscilla Mae Hendricks of Shillington.
