House Guttled By Exploding Kerosene Stove

$8,000 Fire Razes Jacobs Family Home Near Marble Hall

Although first reports indicated that the fire might have been brought under control, a Whitmarsh family of three was rendered virtually homeless, Tuesday afternoon, by a blaze attributed to an exploding kerosene cookstove.

The fire completely gutted the four-room bungalow of Albert Jacobs, who operates a farm and plows some distance back from Flourtown Road, between Johnson and Thomas Roads, east of Marble Hall. Damage was estimated at $8,000, of which $3,000 applied to contents.

Jacobs, his wife, and small son were in the fields, in the rear of their home, when the explosion occurred, quickly knitting the one-story structure. Running from the fields, Jacobs made a frantic effort to fight the rapidly-spreading flames with the only water available, from a well, while his wife went in a car to summon firemen. There was no telephone at the house.

WIFE RUSHES FOR AID

When their nearest neighbors, the George Freeman family, on Flourtown Road, at the end of Elm Lane on which the Jacobs live, were not at home, Mrs. Jacobs continued for half a mile to the tenant house on the estate of G. Harrison Franks, Flourtown and Johnson Roads.

"My house is on fire—my house is on fire," the woman screamed hysterically, as she reached the Preston Rothrock home. She drove excitedly away as soon as she knew she had attracted the attention of Mrs. Rothrock. Recognizing the woman when she came to the window, Mrs. Rothrock notified Whitmarsh Township police. They summoned Barren Hill and Harmonville Fire Companies to the scene. Rothrock operates the farm on the Franks estate.

The firemen got booster tanks in operation, but the water was not sufficient to subdue the flames. No fireplug is available near the spot.

CLOTHES BURNED ON LINE
Clothes, hung on a line to dry, were badly scorched by the terrific heat.

Only an article of value reported saved was a gold wrist watch, contained in a jewel box, thrown from the burning bungalow by the Jacobs, who called his neighbors through the flames and dense smoke in an attempt to save some of the couple's belongings. All other jewelry, including a diamond ring, was damaged by the blaze.

Only the four walls remained, firemen said, with the entire furniture, including a television set, destroyed. Firemen said no insurance on the structure or contents was reported.

Enter Sague, Barren Hill fire chief, directed the work of his men, and Howard Foster, the Harmonville Fire Company's activities. The Harmonville Fire Company responded but did not get into service.

ANOTHER BLAZE
Harmonville Fire Company responded to a second call Tuesday afternoon, shortly after returning from the Jacobs fire, but were not required to get into service. An oil truck, belonging to the Sackem Petroleum Company, Germania Pike, near Norristown, developed a blaze in the motor, but the driver extinguished the blaze.

Home From 4-Month Visit With 'Buddies' In Europe

When Alan "Chic" Wood, of 111 East Third Avenue, planned to visit a French buddy who was hospitalized with him in France during the last war, on a four-month tour of Europe last April, little did he expect to find himself in a fabulous setting with French aristocracy.

"Chic" was wounded while serving with the Army Air Corps in France and became acquainted with a French sergeant, who was in the next bed in a hospital in Paris. The Frenchman spoke the English language fluently, while Chic, through his high school French course, was able to converse with the French soldier in his native tongue.

Last April "Chic" decided to retrace some of his footsteps in Europe and wrote the soldier, Philippe Clement, who in turn invited him to be his guest at their home in Toul.

The local boy on his arrival was greeted by Countess Lucienne Clement, Philippe's mother, and learned further that his buddy's father was a major with the French Army in the last war.

Philippe, to add further to the local veteran's amazement, is now assistant chief of staff of Foreign Trade of France.

Guests at the Clement home for three weeks, before traveling to England, Germany and Switzerland, he was invited to return for another visit before sailing for the states.

"Chateau Trouberie" in Dreux, near the Normandy section of France, where the local resident was a guest, where the Clements entertain on special occasions. On his return visit, Philippe was preparing to leave for Egypt on business.

In England, which was the first stop of the S. S. Voldendam, Holland-American Line on which he sailed, he visited Jeffrey Lawson,

Centennial Organization Seeks Deficit Assistance

A deficit of $657.68 was reported to the Executive Committee of Conshohocken Centennial Committee, Inc., at a meeting held Monday night at the Mary H. Wood Park House.

The written report submitted by Miss Claudia M. Ramey, treasurer, showed a balance on hand of $342.22. The only obligations remaining unpaid are two first prizes in the amount of $500 each—to Susquehanna Fire Company, of Columbia, and to Brandywine Fire Company No. 2, of Cooville.

Means of raising funds to meet these final obligations were discussed at length at Monday's meeting. Confidence was expressed that residents of Conshohocken, informed of the situation, will wish to make their contributions to help wipe out the deficit. This is especially true, it was felt, in the case of those who have not previously made any donation toward the once-in-a-lifetime civic celebration. It was pointed out by members of the executive committee that the remaining debts arise out of the notably successful Saturday afternoon firemen's parade which culminated Centennial Week.

Total revenues in connection with the Conshohocken Centennial Celebration, it was reported, amounted to $20,281.00. That figure includes contributions of $7,053.50; program sales and advertising, $2,225.95; "Echoes of Conshohocken" spectacle tickets, including Queen's Contest ticket sales, $6,656.24; Centennial Banquet tickets, $1,000.00; concessions and novelties, $3,154.97; refunds and miscellaneous, $90.34.

Expenses, including the $1,000 which remains unpaid at the present time, reached a total of $20,938.68. The fee of John B. Rogers Producing Company was $5,000; other expenses in connection with the spectacle, $4,607.05; Conshohocken "2066.17; fireworks display, $1,000.00; firemen's parade prizes, $5,000.00; programs, $852.45; clerical services and office and administrative expenses, including incorporation, $714.80; Queen's Contest expenses, $315.75; promotion publicity and advertising, $607.05; Centennial Banquet, $1,175.75; Centennial Day prizes, $400.00; novelties and special events, $1,698.01; decorations, $558.00; Post tax on tickets, $1,113.70; insurance and policing, $440.00.

F. & J. H. Davis Coal Company, 355 East Elm Street, lost $48 in cash to intruders, who according to J. Holland Davis, one of the proprietors, apparently gained entrance by breaking a rear window. The theft was discovered when the office was opened shortly after 7 yesterday.

Wally's Restaurant, 932 East Hector Street, was apparently entered in the same manner, and twenty-two dollars in currency and a quantity of cash stolen in each case.

No clues were reported in either burglary.

Hospital Notes

Dorothy Cox, 8 Pleasant Road, Plymouth Valley, medical; George Tarr, DeHaven Street, West Conshohocken, medical, were admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital.

Newlyweds In Auto Crash

A recently-married Conshohocken couple figured in an automobile crash on Saturday in Philadelphia on the last lap of their return from a six weeks' motor wedding trip to the Southwest.

They are Mr. and Mrs. Ernest A. Graham, whose marriage took place July 7 in the First Baptist Church. The bride is the former Miss Elizabeth J. Johnston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Johnson, 105 West Sixth Avenue.

The couple motored to Texas, to visit the parents of the bridegroom, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest D. Graham, of Sligo, in this residential district. Eight of the homes are on one side of the avenue, and twelve on the other, S. J. Vagnoni & Sons, Inc., are builders.

The homes, selling at $9,400 each, represent an over-all value of $118,800. All have been sold through the efforts of Samuel W. De Medio, realtor.

The homes are of block stucco, two-story, six rooms and bath, full size swimming pool with laundry tubs and outside door, hot water and oil heat. Garages are not included.

Sewerage Plant Financing Ultimate Goal

Authority Would Have Power To Negotiate Loan To Meet State Water Board's Decree

Conshohocken Town Council took the first official steps last night to create a municipal authority.

First in the borough's history, the Authority's sole purpose will be to find ways and means of financing the secondary sewerage treatment plant, which the State Sanitary Water Board has decreed.

Cost of the secondary system is estimated at somewhere in the neighborhood of a half-million dollars. The borough is not authorized to borrow anywhere near this amount, it has no surplus funds from which to draw it, and the voters at last May's primaries turned down a proposed bond issue to finance the expense.

At an adjourned meeting of Town Council, last night in the borough hall, the new civic body looked as a reality, when the State Sanitary Water Board has decreed.

When the whistle blew for afternoon resumption of work, nearly 300 workers failed to return, joining in a strike, described as a "wildcat" and "unauthorized" by the Merion Independent Employees Union, the company union to which most of the employees belong.

About 125 of the employees in the warping, weaving, mending, burling and finishing rooms failed to show up for work yesterday afternoon. The night shift of weavers also worked as usual last night until the customary hour of 11:30.

Today, however, not a machine is moving in the big white mill along the river bank.

No one is working, but the mill is open for all those who want to return, and will remain open tomorrow also," said R. E. Mayfield, assistant to Harry Gehman, vice president and general manager. Mr. Gehman was reported out of town yesterday and today, but is expected here tomorrow. It was said in the plant office. The mill is inoperative Saturday.

According to a spokesman for the Independent Union, the strike apparently followed a request for (Continued on Page Eight)

Annette Aigner Will Marry North Carolinian Saturday; Will Reside In California

A Summer theme will hold sway at the marriage of pretty, dark-haired Annette Aigner and James Ernest Hardwick, 3d, of Winston-Salem, N. C., Saturday morning, in St. Matthew's Catholic Church.

The ceremony, one of the most interesting of the season here, will take place at a nuptial mass at eleven.

While the choice of attire is kept the usual secret until the wedding party actually winds its way up the church aisle, from what we hear it will be especially effective and carried out in virtually one color.

Tomorrow the mother of the bride, Mrs. John Aigner, of Norristown, will be the guest of honor at the wedding. Mrs. Aigner, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Aigner, of Norristown, will be the guest of honor at the wedding. With someone up there like you. Dear loved and sadly missed by Helen and Brothers.

KUBIE-ALTA—In loving memory of our wonderful Mother, who departed this life one year ago today. We never forget Mother. As the days and months roll by. And we hope that you are happy. In your home up in the sky. In our hearts your memory lingers. Sweet and tender, fond and true. There is not a day. "Dear Mother," That we do not think of you. Not complaining of God Who took you. Who does all things for the best. And took our Darling Mother. To His home of Heavenly rest. Dear loved and sadly missed by children, Joan and Donald.

Babson Discusses

The Oldest Industry

Gloucester, Mass., Aug. 24 I am again enjoying a vacation in the good city of Gloucester where I was born. This rocky island, is America's most famous fishing port. It is also the most beautiful, healthy and prosperous city, famed by industrial, artistic and tourists. I love all of Cape Ann.

THE FISH YOU EAT
Fish is almost the only universally used product of your home which continues to be "handmade". You are no longer wearing clothes from cloth woven by hand; you are no longer wearing shoes made by hand; all the canned goods used in your home are picked, processed and canned by machinery. Even the milk you drink was taken from the udder by machinery. Your bread is even a better illustration. The ground is plowed, planted, cultivated and the grain harvested by automatic machinery. The grain is then dumped into a mill and comes out the same baked and wrapped loaves you buy. One more thought: Think what you would pay for this newspaper if the newsprint was now made by hand as it was 100 years ago!

In the case of most fish you eat it is very different. After being caught in a net, the fish are assorted by hand; the fish are headed and gutted by hand; fish are taken from the boat and weighed by hand forks; filleted by hand, packed by hand, etc. Some automatic machinery is used in connection with canning; but 90 per cent of the fish you eat are handled in a way which is very expensive. In fact, the only "modern invention" is the use of big oil powered trawlers instead of sailing schooners, but these trawlers probably destroy almost as many fish as ever get to market.

HUGE WASTE SELLING FISH
One difficulty is that the fish business is being carried on by a large number of inefficient and poorly financed concerns—no one of which is big or rich enough to operate a modern plant and afford continuous national advertising. If the little fish concerns would combine, using Robert Steel's newly designed vessel hulls, erecting one large new automatic filleting plant and have one sales force, you would get better fish for less money. As a result, the national consumption of fish would greatly increase; more people would be employed at good wages; and every seaport could be very prosperous. The waste of money on selling fish today is very great. For instance, I was recently in a western city where five salesmen sold all the bananas eaten; ten salesmen sold all the steel used; while over one hundred salesmen were selling fish!

No wonder our seaport fish workers strike for more wages and the local merchants suffer therefrom. The employers so insist, in a childish way, upon their own brands and sending out their own salesmen that it costs them more to sell than to catch the fish. They truly cannot afford to pay more wages under present conditions. In fact, very few fish concerns have made money in the long-run; while most have ended in bankruptcy. Yet, potentially the industry has great possibilities.

FISH INDUSTRY ADVANTAGES

(1) The ocean is free to all. A farmer must buy land and pay taxes on it; but not so with the fisherman.

(2) Fish are the only "livestock" which do not need raking and feeding. If you raise cattle, hogs, sheep or chickens they need care and feeding, but not so with fish.

(3) WHOLE salt water fish are the most perfect and complete food procurable. Scrod, or, on Brownfield's Factory Boats, these will be ground instantly after being caught, and delivered to you chocolate sealed and orange flavored for half what you now pay for fillets but containing double the health building qualities.

(4) Fish builds up our brains; and it is BRAINS today that make our families good earners. Hence, eat much more salt water fish.

(5) Due to rains and winds, our soils and their products of grains, vegetables, and livestock are constantly being reduced in food values.

Every day the equivalent of 200 forty acre farms, with their vitamins and minerals, washed down rivers into the sea. Millions of bags of fertilizer and the human waste and garbage from city sewers are likewise washed into the sea. Hence, the ocean products of fish, lobsters and other sea foods are constantly becoming richer, while grain, vegetables, poultry, eggs, etc., may constantly be getting poorer. The time is perhaps coming when your descendants must regularly depend upon fish for proteins and minerals.

The fishing industry is the hope of mankind; it needs only capital and United Nations supervision. Yet, our Government spends only one dollar to protect our fisheries for each one hundred to help agriculture.

HOW TO GET SOMETHING FREE
Cut out this clipping and give it to the clerk from whom you buy your fish and ask him to pass it along to his boss. He can show it to the next fish salesman who calls. Or, mail it with your name and address to the Gloucester (Mass.) Chamber of Commerce and you will get a free booklet of FISH RECIPES which my mother used, to give me brains and energy!

Banana Desserts
A delicious dessert can be prepared with baked sliced bananas, spread with honey and a few chopped nuts. Serve cold or hot. A recommended addition to this is lemon or orange sauce.

Bacon Potatoes
Bacon curls with potato patties! Potatoes cut strips of bacon in half, loosely roll, fasten with toothpick, an slowly pan-broil. When cooked, remove the toothpicks and arrange the curls on the platter with the patties.

What About A Hobby?

This is the time of year when (for most of us) there is the greatest amount of leisure time. It is our best chance to do so many things which we have promised ourselves all through the busy winter season. One of those things promised, and one of the most worthwhile uses of whatever leisure time we have, is to take up or to continue some activity completely outside our daily work.

That does not mean that the subject need be unrelated to your vocation. Frequently, taking up as a hobby something closely connected with your present occupation can prove of fascinating interest. It may be a field which has always tantalized you by being just beyond the limits of your daily tasks, one in which you have developed a lively curiosity which you never had a chance to satisfy. The so-called "practical utility" of a hobby (or "avocation," if you prefer) is the last thing to consider in making a choice. Nevertheless, it happens with surprising frequency that the extension of your knowledge into that adjoining field does have the indirect (but none the less certain) effect of making you a better craftsman in your present calling as well.

Obviously, the range of choice is as wide as the scope of human knowledge and human activity. Perhaps it would be more accurate to say that it is as wide as each individual's pocketbook and leisure permit. Admittedly, some subjects, whether we pursue them as a full-time occupation or dabble in them as a hobby, make much greater demands upon our finances and time than others. And in the choice of a hobby as in the matter of food "What's one man's poison . . . is another's meat or drink." So by all means consult first your own free (often almost instinctive) preference, without regard to "practical utility" or anything else except your interest in the subject and the fascination which it holds for you.

Among the vast range of available choices, this Summer season suggests with particular emphasis one or more of the many aspects of nature study — all the way from astronomy to paleontology. Like the vast majority of hobbies or avocations, these are not merely means of consuming time; they are valuable and often profitable studies. There is a long and valuable list of additions to our present sum total of scientific knowledge which have been made by amateur students and hobbyists. Perhaps this merely reflects the great number of persons who have seriously followed their chosen hobbies. Perhaps it is a product of the fresh viewpoint shown by those amateurs, unencumbered by traditional habits of thought. Whatever the explanation, scientists and technicians in every line of human endeavor will freely admit the valuable help received from amateurs.

There is another aspect to this matter of a hobby: one which is of even more direct importance to yourself than any possible contribution which you may make to the accumulated body of knowledge in your chosen field. That is the incalculable but none the less real value of having a major interest apart from your present vocation. In the first place, the mental stimulus and relaxing effect of a hobby is a potent factor in warding off damage from the strain of your daily work. Again, an absorbing hobby can provide the necessary mental interest upon retirement or in case of enforced inactivity. Maybe you don't look forward to retiring, and think of retirement as something for the wealthy only. But more and more men and women in the "middle brackets" are retiring nowadays to enjoy their latter years, with the help of savings, insurance, pensions, and old-age benefits.

We are all familiar with the spectacle of a man "going to pieces" shortly after his retirement from work which has occupied most of his adult years — simply because he has never acquired any other interest. But nothing of that sort happens if he has another activity to which he turns, not merely to wile away time, but with eager happiness that he is now able to devote the major share of his attention to it. Again, as was suggested earlier, that hobby or avocation may upon retirement become a full-time occupation, profitable not only psychologically but in dollars and cents. Time after time, a hobby has become an occupation — often an occupation more congenial than the one it replaced.

It will richly repay you, then, in a number of ways, to give serious thought to embarking upon such a spare-time occupation. If you already have a major hobby, by all means keep it, cultivate it, and develop it. Find others which you have the same interests; that will increase your pleasure in the hobby and will stimulate you to advance further in the field. And never forget that your hobby may be more important than the work by which you earn your daily bread. Stranger things have happened.

Blessed Woman

Lesson for August 27, 1933

A PROTESTANT Christian is essentially a Bible Christian. Among other things, this means he will form his ideas about Bible characters, the Bible itself and not from books about the Bible, not from legends long afterwards invented. Some Protestants seem not to realize that even a reverent look like "The Greatest Story Ever Told" is as much fiction as it is fact. Yet Protestant Christians are sometimes inclined to go to the opposite extreme. In reacting against the tall tales, they overlook the facts.

If some Christians overdo reverence for Mary, offering prayers and incense before her statue and even going to the point of saying we cannot come to Jesus except through Mary—an idea totally false to the Christian gospel—other Christians make the mistake of neglecting her memory altogether.

Surely we ought not to forget or under-rate the woman who of all the women in the world was chosen of God to be the mother of our Lord Jesus Christ.

God Knew Her Heart

NAZARETH was a small village with no good reputation. Yet it was in that town that Mary grew to womanhood. Man looks on outward appearances, but God looks on the heart.

You might have not selected Mary for the mother of Jesus, or to put it in another way, you would hardly have expected Mary's child to be the person Jesus became. She was very young, for girls were engaged early in that climate and country—perhaps no more than sixteen. She could have had no great education. She was poor, as the whole story shows.

Yet it was not for her education or her social standing or her experience or any such thing, but because of her heart, her character, herself, that the angel came to her that spring day in Nazareth.

Mary's Song
THERE is no room to tell all that can be known of Mary from the Gospels. We can know or guess much from that one song, the "Magnificat" as it is called from its first word in the Latin translation. (Luke 1:46-55)

We can tell from this that she was a woman who knew her Bible. Moffatt's translation of the New Testament uses italic type to indicate quotations from the Old Testament; and in this Song of Mary, of its sixteen lines all but two are printed in italics. Words and phrases came to her in the familiar cadences of the book she knew and loved. Further, she was of a poetic turn of mind. This "Magnificat" has been set to music and sung in churches all over the world. Since Mary was herself a poet, it is not surprising to find that Jesus often spoke in words which shine with the beauty and rhythm of fine poetry.

Patriotism and the Poor

MARY WAS a woman who loved her country. We are so familiar with the "Magnificat" as a hymn anthem that we overlook its actual and original meaning: a hymn of praise to God for his mercies to his nation, Israel.

Her people, so long enslaved, were to be set free. It is a revolutionary hymn, too. Princes are to be dethroned, the proud cast down, the rich made empty; but God will give his help to the hungry and the poor.

Mary and Jesus

LOVE OF HER Bible, love of beauty, love of her country; and most of all, love of God. You could guess this from the words of the angel, but you can see it plainly in this song. It is an outpouring of joy and thankfulness to a God who is very real and near and loved.

Every mother lives again in her sons; in Jesus we can see the manner of woman Mary must have been. When the boy Jesus called God his Father, who had taught him that word? When the young man Jesus fought off temptation by using the Word of God, who had first guided him to do this? Where had Jesus learned Scripture except under his mother's roof?

Does It Make A Difference?
By NEIL J. McLENEY
St. Paul's Information Service
Washington 17, D. C.

It doesn't matter what you believe as long as you do right? Nonsense! Of course it matters what you believe. Would you give a baby the contents of a bottle which may or may not contain poison? You could if you followed the above slogan! Then you would know whether it was all right or not by the way the baby reacted. If he died, well too bad, it must have made a difference after all. If he did not, then of course you KNEW that it didn't matter what you thought of the bottle's contents as long as everything turned out all right.

Such sloppy thinking shows up clearly when we give the above illustration. But it is accepted every day in the most important business of our lives, our relations with God. Men think that it makes no difference which set of principles they hold in their religious and moral lives as long as they "get along with the neighbors" or "mind my own business and let others mind theirs."

What they fail to realize is that a man acts as he believes. And if he believes in nothing, look out! You cannot expect a man who has no principles of belief to act on principle. A man who does not think it wrong to steal, will steal; there is nothing within to stop him. Nor can our indifferentists condemn him without rejecting their own slogan and admitting that it does matter what you believe.

We are a great Christian nation. Yet today, due to the influence of atheistic and materialistic men, errors are creeping into our way of life. Too often we just ignore these men and their errors, leaving "every man to his own business." We cannot ignore these errors. As true Christians we must condemn lying, stealing, legalized murder, birth control, dishonesty in business and politics. Christ did! Search the Scriptures; nowhere did Christ advocate these things.

Nor are these things the moral means that made America great; they have been and are found in slave states, in the national concentration camps. We must go back to the principles of Christ. Followers of Him, we must be true to His teaching. Our minds must be ever eager to learn of Him from those who can claim to teach us of Him and do so teach. Then, having learned His teachings, we must assert them and practice them. It definitely does make a difference what you believe!

Country Flavor

By Helen S. Pearson

Dew

There is rich history and deep meaning associated with this word — one of the most appealing in the English language. It probably comes from the ancient Anglo-Saxon word "dew." For unknown thousands of years men have pondered this night-born phenomenon of Nature. It is mentioned in the Bible; it was described by Virgil, Herodotus and Aristotle; Shakespeare spoke of "The golden dew of sleep." Thomas Jefferson, an unusually keen observer of Nature, wrote that dew was more common in the lowlands than on the surrounding hills without appreciating that air cooling is more pronounced on the low plains than on uplands. Writers, with the literary license generously accorded them, speak of the dew "falling." This is technically incorrect. The tiny drops of liquid that form on grass blades, leaves and spider web threads are actually condensed from water vapor. The process begins shortly after sunset and continues steadily through the night hours unless there is a considerable temperature change. As plants and earth radiate their warmth and become cooler, moisture of the surrounding warm air is condensed on the cooling objects.

If you have never observed dew attentively, purchase an inexpensive hand lens and add another subject to your nature interests. Each drop of dew on a sunlit morning is a brilliant mirror. The image is upside down but if you look closely you may see a white cloud or a nearby tree. A long grass blade is frequently a picture of symmetrical beauty with a large dew drop at the blade point and many smaller drops spaced evenly along the edges. A web on the lawn is often an intricate, jeweled pattern of a multitude of tiny sparkling water drops. Study the leaves of strawberries and the wild clovers; they have beautiful dew arrangements on the knobby points of their serrated foliage. Go out at dawn on a cool morning; get down on your knees and study one of Nature's most interesting phenomena. It is a part of the intricate system of checks and balances that governs plant life on our planet.

Does skidding mercuric afflict your pie? The mercuric sits askew—half on the pie, half on the plate. If so, you must be putting your mercuric on when the pie filling is still hot. Syrup forms between the two and causes the mercuric to slide. Hereafter, wait till the pie cools.

A millionaire told me this...

THERE AREN'T many millionaires left today, I guess.

But my dad went to college with a man who is now a millionaire. Dad took me to lunch with this man a year ago—let's call him Murray Goodwin.

While they were lighting up their cigars, Dad asked Mr. Goodwin if he had any good advice for a youngster like me. The millionaire looked at me thoughtfully for a few moments.

"I've got some good advice for any man who's working on a salary today. In fact, you'll never hear better advice from anybody!

"Always remember," said Mr. Goodwin, tapping the table, "that the only money you'll ever have is the money you're saving right now! Saving part of each pay check is the ONLY way to save!

"And the BEST way to do it is to buy U. S. Savings Bonds through your company's Payroll Savings Plan! These Bonds are one of the safest, wisest investments you can make. They're backed by the full resources of the U. S. Government.

"And," concluded Mr. Goodwin, knocking the ash off his cigar, "U. S. Savings Bonds return $4 for every $3 invested—ten years later! This kind of saving is automatic... painless. You never feel it. Well... there it is!"

I went on my firm's Payroll Savings Plan the very next day. And everything the millionaire said about it is true!

Two Are Fined As Gamblers

Sentence Is Passed
On Club Officials

The president and manager of the Oak Terrace Country Club, Welsh and McKean Roads, near Amherst, were fined $500 each by Judge William F. Dannehower today after they pleaded guilty to gambling charges in Criminal Court.

In addition to the fine, Harry G. Wingel, 54, the president, who lives near the club, also was placed on probation for one year since he was a second offender.

The other defendant was Clarence G. Grieb, 52, manager, a resident of the club. It was his first arrest.

The pair, along with John E. Elker, 47, the bartender, of 157 East Chelton Ave., Philadelphia, were arrested June 13 when County Detectives and State Police raided the place and confiscated four slot machines in the basement.

The "one-arm bandits" now being held by the district attorney's office, were of the 25, 10 and five-cent variety.

Chief County Detective Albert Murphy, the only Commonwealth witness today, testified that when police entered the club there were about 300 members and frequenters present.

Wingel, who has been president of the organization for many years, asserted that he has been aware of the presence of the machines in the club since 1938 when they were replaced following a raid in 1937 when he was arrested for the first time.

Grieb, who has been manager for the past six years, said the machine were on the premises all during that time.

Since he suffered a stroke almost six years ago, Wingel is partially paralyzed and had to be assisted into the court room. Because of his condition, Alexander Knight, Esq., pleaded for leniency, although he admitted the president was in "serious trouble" as a result of the offense 13 years ago.

council member. Three, however, is not the maximum. It may contain more if desired. Town Council names the members of the Authority.

This Authority will have the power to float a loan, or make other financial arrangements to provide the large sum of money necessary to meet the State's demands for the secondary treatment system. At present, the borough maintains only a primary treatment system. The secondary system is demanded in connection with the purification of the Schuylkill River.

The State Sanitary Water Board originally ordered the borough to have the plant under way by August 15.

When the borough had not yet found means of financing as late as August 1, the board sent George A. Elias, its district engineer, to the August meeting two weeks ago at the invitation of Council.

No agreement as to how the borough could meet the State's demands was reached at the session at which the establishment of the proposed Authority was defeated for the second time. The matter has been "hanging fire" since, until last night's move toward fulfillment of the State's mandate.

Workers Strike - -

a 15-cent-per-hour blanket increase for all employees.

This request was made through the usual channel, the semi-yearly negotiations in August. The meeting between management and the union representatives took place Tuesday afternoon. While no decision apparently was reached, the Union issued a call for a special meeting of their membership for tomorrow night, when it was planned to discuss the situation.

"They just couldn't wait," a former union official said. "It seems that during the lunch hour, word got around that we didn't get our raise. The news spread and in a few minutes the strike was on." Departments closed down yesterday included spinning, drawing, winding and twisting.

Asked today if the management had declined the raise, no statement could be procured. The management spokesman said any information on the requested increase must come from Mr. Gehman tomorrow. He also stated that a meeting was held yesterday afternoon between management and the union, in which the proposition was made that when the workers have returned to their machines, management "will be glad to sit down and take up any matters with the grievance committee, but while they are out on an unauthorized strike, management cannot negotiate."

Reached at her home today, where she is recuperating from a serious illness, Mrs. Hazel Ramberg, 233 West Toga Street, Philadelphia, verified that the strike was on.

On his 15th mission over Nazi-occupied Europe, a burst of flame from the side of the ship, knocking out all the co-pilot's controls and damaging one engine. The local airman was wounded in three places in his left leg, but heroically brought the plane back single-handed.

During an attack against Bristol, O'Brady was shot out. He piloted the ship by trim tabs until the controls were spliced by the flight engineer. On another mission, during a low level bombing of a railroad bridge at Rouen, France, he put more than 100 holes in the plane and the turret-gunner was injured. Another mission to Cologne put 84 holes in "Rosie."

"Rosie has more patches than a tramp's pants," Lieut. Brady wrote humorously to his parents while in Europe.

During his entire stay in the European Theatre of Operations, Lieut. Brady flew with the 344th Bombardment Group, known as the "Silver Streak."

The air victim attended St. Matthew's Parochial School, was graduated in 1941 from St. John's High School, Manayunk and attended Drexel Institute. He was discharged from service in August, 1946. For some time he was stationed at a Texas Hospital, where he met and married the Army nurse, who also held the rank of lieutenant. He went to California in 1947 to engage in a commercial branch of aviation.

An ironic note in the tragedy, is that the Conshohocken airman had recently been notified that orders had gone through to elevate him to the rank of captain and make him a flight commander.
