Fliers Trained on Milk for 25-Hour Ocean Flight

The first hop from California to Hawaii made by "Ernie" Smith, young San Francisco air-mail pilot was a contest between the United States army and the civilian. To put the "City of Oakland" in shape for the take-off, the mechanics had to work on the planes day and night.

The race against time in the preparation was exhausting work. The Oakland-Hawaii flight promoters wanted Ernest Leroy Smith and Emory Bronco his navigator, to be safe guarded in every possible way, should anything go wrong with the plane.

A list of foods was made up of foods to sustain them for ten days, if necessary. These rations were packed in a water-tight box which was strapped to the plane. This is what the fliers took with them:

Six pounds pilot bread, I pound apricots, I pound hard cheese, thirty raisins, one round prune, one-half pound can butter, two cans milk, two dozen meat and cottage cheese sandwiches, three ounces malted milk tablets, twenty-four ounces canned tomatoes, and one can opener.

Then came the day of the hop-off, and three quarts of fluid milk were tucked away in the cockpit in addition to the two cans of milk included in the emergency rations.

"I like a drink of milk before I go up. I find it sustaining," remarked "Ernie" as he finished a pint bottle. Then he added with a quick smile, "This is going to be a long hop and I shall want several glasses of milk on the way over."

The men had need of every bit of strength and energy they possessed.

Lost for five hours—their radio crippled—their supply of gas running low—their oil pump useless—battering through wind and fog—unseen and unseen—until every bit of gasoline gone, they dropped into the arms of a friendly Kona tree on the lonely isle of Molokai, fifty miles from Honolulu.

But they did it! When "Ernie" was asked by enthusiastic auditors how he had prepared himself for the endurance test he told them of his training days on the University of California Rugby team.

"Ernie" was a football player before he became an aviator at the time the United States entered the World War and even in his college days he realized that it was physical fitness which puts the ball over the line.

When Smith took up flying he demanded mechanical perfection in his plane, and physical fitness in himself, both cooperating for the success of any undertaking.

He refused any stimulant while he worked over his plane, "The City of Oakland" on the flying field, remarking quietly—

"I never drink anything but milk when I am flying," and added that he had been drinking two glasses of milk at every meal, milk between meals, and that his mechanics, while fitting the plane for its long trip, were all kept supplied with it.

Lindbergh, Chamberlain, Byrd, Smith. Who next?

ACCIDENTS DUE TO LACK OF CARE

Aroused by the mounting toll of automobile fatalities and injuries, the Keystone Automobile Club calls upon all drivers to observe the one and only rule that will insure safety to themselves and others—cautious driving under all circumstances.

"It is," says a statement of the club, "appalling to contemplate the death and accident reports, particularly over week-ends. Men, women and children departing for or returning from joyous holidays, are overtaken by death in violent form or crushed and crippled because of lack of care in the operation of motor vehicles."

"Nearly 90 per cent of all motor car accidents are due to this cause, in one form or another. The speeder, the cut-in demon, the road hog, the wavering, uncertain driver, the one-eyed car, all these contribute their quota to the weekly death and injury toll. And every one of them is guilty of that cardinal offense in motoring, lack of care, or incautious driving."

"There will be no decrease in accidents until every man and woman who undertakes to drive an automobile come to realization of the tremendous responsibility assumed by motor drivers and learn well the one rule necessary for safe and sane driving.

"TRIMMINGS"

If you were to go to the milliner for a hat and she were to offer you a plain bare straw or felt, then make no effort to demonstrate how the hat could be trimmed, you would very likely walk out of the store, righteously indignant because of the poor salesmanship of the shop keeper. Hats, without trimmings, are just as good a protection for the head, but hats—whether they are for utility or just adornment, are always trimmed. Some very elaborately and others with just a plain band of ribbon or a tiny pin. Somehow it is never too much trouble to trim a hat and those who insist on trimmings are never accused of being "high brow." This, however, is not true of all forms of decoration.

The real topic of this little talk should be, "Garnishing," because we apply that term to the trimmings for food. The busy housewife is too prone to feel that garnishes for food entail a tremendous amount of extra work, and can only be used on festive occasions. But if the housewife thinks how she may trim the food which she wishes her family to eat, she may consider herself a better saleswoman than the milliner who offers the untrimmed hat.

Maybe Johnny doesn't like oatmeal. Well, did you ever try dressing it with raisins? Surely that is no trouble and it may increase its sale greatly. Maybe the reason why the patrons at your dining table do not eat lettuce is that you never think to pick it a little early and put it on the ice so that it will crisp up nicely. There is as much difference between a flat piece of lettuce and a crisp, curling one as there is between a drooping, rain soaked hat and a perky French model. Even the much abused spinach becomes very desirable when dressed in the center of a platter, topped with a few slices of hard cooked egg and surrounded by some bright colored vegetable such as carrots or beets. When you are serving two such foods why not make one enhance the other by serving them together?

You really save yourself work because you save dishes. Meat and vegetables may often be arranged in one large platter with less trouble than it would take to serve them in separate dishes. Such a platter, placed at the head of the table, maybe an great adornment as the picture hat of a bridesmaid in a wedding procession. Pure ice cream has such a general appeal that it really needs no trimmings, but during the summer when luscious fresh fruits are so handy a few slices of peach or pineapple, or a spoonful of berries lend a refreshing charm to the ice cream.

This new-day refrigerator has set its own standard of perfection

The greatest electrical research organization in the world has now produced a perfect electrical refrigerator.

The master minds of the General Electric laboratories (working over a period of fifteen years) have faced the problems of electric refrigeration and solved them one by one.

They have done away with noise. Stand three feet away from the refrigerator and you probably won't be able to tell whether the motor is on or off.

They have cut down current consumption. This refrigerator actually costs less to run than the average family ice bill.

They have made an all-in-one unit that requires no assembling and no oiling. All the moving parts are enclosed in one hermetically sealed housing that keeps efficiency permanently in—and trouble out.

They have made a refrigerator that you should see, ask about, and compare with all others, before you decide to buy.

Models for every home are now on display. Come in and see them. In the meanwhile, mail the coupon below for an interesting descriptive booklet.

Hurry, Worry and Overwork Bring Heavy Strain.
MODERN life throws a heavy burden on our bodily machinery. The elimination organs, especially the kidneys, are apt to become sluggish. Retention of excess uric acid and other poisonous waste often gives rise to dull, languid feeling and, sometimes, toxic backaches and headaches. In the back recesses of every mind is the secret fear that the day will come when through accident, breakdown, illness or old age the ability to earn a living will be gone. It isn't often any of us bring out this fear for a close inspection and mastery—but it exists nevertheless—and no better time than now will ever be available to escape that fear.

Defeat of that fear is easy. It requires only strength of will. A systematic plan of saving—regularly putting aside a portion of what you earn—is the way.

AMBLER'S TWO ROMERS PUTS C.A.A. OUT OF FLAG RACE

Locals Drop Fourth Straight Game.—Shay Gray Makes Debut With Local Team and is Clouted for Two Home Runs.

Two home runs, one by Vase Sater and the other by Freshour the Ambler pitcher, ruined the day for Conshohocken at the Community Center Athletic Field, on Saturday when they dropped their fourth straight game in the second half of the Montgomery County League game to Ambler by the score of 7 to 3.

This was Conshohocken's fourth straight defeat in the second half and the locals are about out of the running for the second half title.

Shay Gray brother of Sammy Gray of Athletics fame, pitched his game in a Conshohocken uniform. He is a slow worker and depended entirely on a slow ball, and when he held the opposition to seven hits, two of them were for extra drives over the fence. He also issued five passes. Freshour, who was on the mound for the Amblerites, pitched very effectively giving up but five hits. Clyde Moser was the only local player who could solve the delivery of the Ambler hurler and he collected two safe drives out of four times at bat. Freshour also helped his own cause by hitting one of the two homers against Gray.

Ambler scored their first run in the third inning and added three more in the fourth. Up until the fifth inning, Conshohocken's bats were silent, the locals not having collected a hit until this time. When they scored two runs in the fifth and one more in the seventh. That was all the scoring Conshohocken did for the day but the Shingletown boys added two more runs in the ninth to make the game sure. Flanagan, Conshohocken's new outfielder did not do anything in the way of hitting to help the Conshohocken cause along. Sarnal was again in the Conshohocken lineup and he got one of the local's five hits Bill Ford, who has been hitting the ball hard all season, went hitless on Saturday.

"Tommy" Redmond, the local's peppery shortstop, made some wonderful stops at short but made bad throws after picking it up. Conshohocken is now firmly settled in last place and a win over Ambler next week is the only thing which will bring the locals on even terms with Ambler again. They have not won a game in the second half and only the fact that up until Saturday Ambler was in the same boat, the locals would have been sole possessors of the cellar before.

WYNN WINS CLUB SWIM

Finished First in 400-Yard Race at Miquon on Sunday. The 400-yard swim for members of the Philadelphia Swimming Club was held on Sunday afternoon and was won by Bill Wynn. This was a handicap race and Dave Trull who went off next to last finished fourth with Ben Marshall who went off last finishing third. It was a rare between Trull and Marshall for third place but Trull, after holding a lead over Marshall for two-thirds of the way, faltered and Marshall took third place.

The fifty yard breast stroke handicap was the only other race of the day. This was won by Vase Sater with a big handicap. Dave Trull got second in this event, beating out Marshall in the latter's favorite event. Trull held the Pennsylvania State Junior championship in this event but they took it away from him because they claimed he had a queer kick.

"Great news, old man. I'm engaged to a beautiful woman and an intelligent one." "Fine. Which one are you going to marry?"

RAIN PREVENTS LEAGUE GAMES

C. A. A. Went to Ambler and Claims Game for Forfeit. Old Japs Flavin knocked another homer over the fence on Sunday when the game scheduled for the Schuylkill Valley League had to be postponed because he interfered one more. Conshohocken A. C. traveled to Ambler on Sunday to play Ambler C. C. but the Ambler team was not at the grounds. Manager Frederick of C. A. C. claims the game, because the manager of the Ambler team did not notify him of the cancellation of the game and the home team is supposed to notify the visiting manager.

WEST SIDE TEAM TIED FOR FIRST PLACE

Victory Over Hector Street Brings Them in Even Terms With Skippers. Wesley, pitching for Hector Street, and McGuire pitching for West Conshohocken, hooked up in a pitcher's duel Friday afternoon, and McGuire came out the victor due to the fact that his team did not commit as many errors as the Hector street team. Each pitcher was in good form and each allowed the opposition four hits but Wesley's mates committed their errors at the wrong time. McGuire seems to be creating a strike-out record in the Junior League. Last week he fanned seventeen and this week he fanned twenty.

Hector street started a rally in the seventh inning and continued through the eighth, which threatened to overcome the West Siders' lead but McGuire tightened up in time and his team won by the score 10 to 9.

GAME POSTPONED

Hastings Wilcasts, who had decided to drop out of the Community Center senior league, have reconsidered their action and will complete the schedule. They were scheduled to play Mervine on Friday evening but due to a misunderstanding neither team showed up for the game so it was postponed until a later date.

C. A. C. VS. ST. AUGUSTINE'S

The Conshohocken A. C. in order to catch up in the league schedule will play St. Augustine's this Thursday evening at Bridgeport. St. Coven will hurl for Frederick's clan and a win for the C. A. C. will put them in a tie for first place with Eddie Gear's All Stars.

ST. MARY'S DEFEATED

L. A. M. Substituted For League Team Defeats Locals 10 to 4. When Eddie Gear's All Stars failed to put in their appearance for the scheduled Schuylkill Valley League game manager Lesinski, of L. A. M. of Norristown and they came down and defeated St. Mary's by the score 10 to 4. Dave Trull was on the mound for the Saints but while he was hit rather freely the defeat cannot be charged entirely to him because his supporting cast was very woefully and the Norristown team scored five runs in the first inning in two hits. The Saints played ragged ball in that they made more errors than hits.

Stoops allowed the opposition only four hits, he was defeated by Daywalt in a hurler's duel, as Olivet Baptist was nosed out by the Plymouth Evangelical Sunday school nine by a 5-4 count at the annual combined picnic of the two schools at Ziebers Park Saturday.

Fox's followers feel that he will come through and defeat the Camden fighter.

LICENSE DANCE HALL County Treasurer Makes Public an Overlooked Regulation

An annual license of $10 for dance halls located in townships must be paid to the county treasurer according to an Act of Assembly approved May 11, 1927. Under the law the dance halls must first be approved by the state inspector of public buildings and after complying with the law covering the inspection, application must be made for the license. The license is from June 1 to May 30. The county treasurer said that application blanks can be obtained from the treasurer's office in the Court House. A heavy penalty is imposed for failure to comply with this law and for that reason dance hall proprietors are notified.

PHONE NUMBERS. JUDGING DISTANCE. ELEVATOR DOORS. STIMULANTS.

YOU WILL never know how much grief there is in an unremediated old fireplug until you butt one head-on.

FOR QUICK action in emergencies, keep right beside your phone and in full view, the names, phone numbers and addresses, of the three physicians located nearest your home.

IT HAS BEEN my experience to find that many men are exceedingly poor judges of distance. Many a case has been won or lost because a witness honestly did not know the difference between fifty feet and twenty feet.

IN ANOTHER case a plaintiff sought to add impressiveness to his story by insisting that he was picked up by "Two hundred men after the accident." The court was incredulous but the gentleman stuck to his story manfully.

MODERN ELEVATOR construction is constantly adding automatic safety devices. But some of the old-timers are still pretty risky propositions. A shaft door negligently left open is a death-trap, and the same goes for any attempt to enter or leave a car after it has once started to move.

MOST PEOPLE think that it is only the really drunken driver who is dangerous. Physicians, however, have demonstrated by concrete examples that a driver who is even slightly affected by alcohol is not as reliable as one who is not. In making these tests, they have experimented with other stimulants and found that even the excessive use of tea and coffee will affect some drivers to such an extent that their control of the car becomes inaccurate and a menace not only to themselves but to other motorists.

Many times these drivers are lucky and have no accidents even though they may be highly under the influence of their particular drug. This fact gives rise to a false sense of security which makes the situation even more dangerous.

CHANGES IDEAS AS TO ADVERTISING

"A year ago," remarks Railway Age, "Henry Ford decided that advertising is an economic waste, and stopped the spending of money by the Ford Motor Company for this purpose. A few weeks ago a Detroit newspaper announced that the Chevrolet company had displaced Ford as the builder and seller of the largest number of automobiles for the first time in history. A few days ago the Ford Motor Company retained an advertising agency, and it is now about to launch an advertising campaign in which it is expected to spend several million dollars. Is advertising an economic waste? The Ford Motor Company seems to have changed from a position in which its answer was 'No,' to one in which its answer is 'Yes.' The cost of advertising, it apparently has found, is today the price of business success. The fact of the matter is, of course, that the Ford product has always been the most advertised motor car in the world. Without always paying for it, Mr. Ford has cleverly contrived to keep himself and his car in the forefront of the news columns, with the consequence that the country has always been keenly interested in what Ford was doing and planning to do. But now it appears that it isn't sufficient even to make a good product and get it on the front pages of the newspapers. Neither Henry Ford nor the show industry can afford to overlook advertising.

"This tonic is no good." "What's the matter?" "All the directions it gives is for adults and I never had them."

Transportation By Air Means End of Smoke Evil

The rapid advancement of the airplane and air transportation spells the immediate death of the smoke problem that is bothering many of our American cities today, according to Alexander B. MacBeth, President of the American Gas Association. The almost impervious haze that covers large urban centers makes airplane landing difficult, Mr. MacBeth says, and has been a factor in locating airplane fields outside city limits where the air is clear. "The smoke problem must be solved in the near future," says Mr. MacBeth, who is quoted by the Pennsylvania Public Service Information Committee. "Smoke does not have a single grain. It is injurious to health. It is expensive, in that it means fuel waste, high laundry bills, defacement of expensive buildings, and lessened working capacity. The predicted advances to be made in airplane transportation and development makes it imperative to rid cities of the smoke nuisance. Lindbergh's successful New York-Paris flight will not only stimulate a world-wide interest in the science of aviation, but will direct the public's attention to the preventable dangers that are holding back this marvelous means of transportation. One of those preventable dangers is smoke, the basis of our most persistent fog."

WALTER P. CHRYSLER'S TRAFFIC TALKS

CALIFORNIA TRIES NEW PLAN It is proposed in California that whenever a motorist sees another motorist violate a street or highway traffic rule or regulation, the first motorist will sound his horn three times. The purpose is to call the attention of the second motorist to the fact that he has violated a rule of the road and another purpose is to let him know that his violation caught the eye of a fellow motorist. It is hoped that as a result the error will be corrected at that moment if possible and at least that the same error will not be committed again. The Citizens Traffic Commission of Berkeley, California, which organized the Berkeley Courtesy Club, is father of the plan. At first glance it may appear to be a bit idealistic but upon further examination any one will be convinced that it has much merit. A plan which places responsibility of traffic order and traffic safety upon the motorists themselves has much to commend itself. Of course there will be those who will hesitate to call the attention of motorists to their errors. There will be a few who will resent having their mistakes called to their attention. But most people are fair and courteous and have no desire to violate traffic rules and regulations. The Berkeley Courtesy Club at this writing has more than 800 members and each member is pledged to observe carefully all traffic regulations and to give three sounds of their horns when a violation of some rule is noticed. It is hoped that the club may be built up to 3,000 members.
