Lightning Bolt Levels Barn; Cattle Saved

$20,000 Damage; Firemen at Scene Over 14 Hours

A bolt of lightning struck a 100-year-old barn at Runnymede Farm, Germantown Pike and Arch Rd., Plymouth Valley, early last night igniting a fire which leveled the barn and kept local firemen working around the clock to extinguish the blaze. Damage is expected to exceed $20,000.

Volunteer firemen from Harnonville and Plymouth were still at the scene of the fire this morning as were local police, who were faced with the task of detouring traffic from Germantown Pike over Plymouth Rd. through Plymouth Valley.

Winfield Cook, 621 Germantown Pike, owner of the farm, said the fire consumed 6000 bales of hay and quantities of oats and barley. A dozen head of cattle were removed from the barn safely.

Cook had high praise this morning for the more than 40 firemen and the Willow Grove Second Alarmers who answered the call last evening at 8 and the many who stayed throughout the night.

"They were wonderful," he said, "working here as they did—some of them for 14 hours straight. Some had to knock off about 4 or 5 A. M. since they had to report for work this morning, but others are still here."

Help also was forthcoming. Cook explained, from Allan Myers, a general contractor from Worcester, who brought in a heavy crane to pull apart the tightly packed and impervious hay, easing the firemen's task of extinguishing the blaze.

According to an unidentified truck driver passing the scene at the time, the fire was ignited by a bolt of lightning which first hit a television antenna on the tenant house and jumped to the barn.

Leader Hits Scott, Smith, Commissioners

Chief Executive Endorses County Health Proposal

A political hurricane that shaped up during a debate broadcast Monday night in Harrisburg 1947 through Norrisstown and Chestnut Hill yesterday with winds reaching 125 miles an hour.

In the storm center were Gov. George M. Leader and Hugh D. Scott Jr., rival candidates for U. S. Senator; Auditor General Charles C. Smith of Germantown and commissioners of Montgomery County.

There was no indication the hurricane would drift out to sea. Rather, the fury seemed certain to grow in intensity and continue a full-scale storm that only the general election Nov. 4 would dispel.

Gov. Leader on Monday night accused Congressman Scott of getting a $2,000 fee for winning a pardon for a deported alien in 1954.

He said Scott won the case in a single appearance before the Board of Pardons.

Leader hurled the charge at his Republican opponent in an angry debate over a television station in Harrisburg after Scott had accused the governor of harboring more dangerous criminals than any other governor.

Leader, denying this, then shouted at Scott: "Speaking about the pardon board, you're the man who got a fee of $2,000 in 1954 for getting an undesirable alien a pardon."

"I think you made about $1 a second for your appearance in this case."

Leader identified the case as one involving Nicholas Marcello, of South Philadelphia, who was reported in 1952 after pleading guilty to a warehouse robbery.

On the basis of Scott's argument of serious doubt as to Marcello's guilt, his subsequent good character as a Naples ship-broker and his desire to rejoin his father, a South Philadelphia tailor, Governor Fine granted Marcello a pardon on June 25, 1954.

Garden-Type
 Apartments
 Are Opposed

Apartment houses, sidewalks, and old barns kept the action lively last Thursday night at the monthly meeting of the board of supervisors of Whitemarsh township. Some 50 taxpayers attended. A petition to amend ordinance 111, to provide for the erection of multiple dwellings in commercial type "H" zones, subject to the approval of the board of adjustment, drew the most fire. The move was precipitated by a request filed last month by Becker and Lipshutz, asking permission to construct garden-type apartments on the northeast and southwest corners of Germantown Pike and Westway Dr., Lafayette Hill, a tract now zoned commercial. Most of the complainants seemed to feel allowing the petition would be the equivalent of down zoning. President of the board Geoffrey S. Smith Jr., denied all charges of attempts to down-grade the area emphasizing that the area in question already zoned commercial. "Would you rather have stores than apartment houses?" he asked. Emil Nagel, 4015 Kottler Drive, Lafayette Hill, said, "I don't feel such broad allowance should be given anywhere you see fit. I feel such request should be considered individually at an open hearing." In answering Nagel, Smith explained such was the intent of the board, and pointed out that a public hearing on each exception would still be required should the ordinance be amended. "There have been only single dwellings in the township up to now. Does the township stand to gain anything by this move?" John Blind, 4917 Kottler Dr., Lafayette Hill, wanted to know. "Explaining multiple dwellings are permitted in 'C' residential zones, Smith added, "We are not trying to open up the township to apartment dwellers. We are only trying to permit down zone to commercial 'H' to build apartments. There has been no new 'C' zoning since 1941."

Plans were made to continue the various projects undertaken by the six circles of the United Lutheran Church Women of St. Marks Lutheran Church, Fifth Ave. and Harry St., at meetings for the year. Several of the circles have adopted names. The circles and their leaders are Circle 1, Mrs. Harry Jordan; Circle 2, Mrs. Richard Bate; Circles 3-4 (Mary-Martha Circle), Mrs. Charles Emery; Circle 5 (Ruth Circle), Mrs. Herbert Kriebel, and Circle 6 (Miriam Circle), Mrs. Raymond Shultz completed Mrs. William Henninger's term as leader. The women are knitting bandages for lepers, sewing items for Lankenau hospital, making holiday favors for various Lutheran institutions and various items for the church kitchen and nursery. This year they will undertake the sewing of "ditty bags" (utility kits) for the seamen's institute of Philadelphia. Upon a motion made by Thomas J. White Sr., the board agreed to put plans for the sidewalk and bridge cross out for bids. Blind, seeking demolition of an old barn existing at Germantown Pike and Crescent Ave. in Wissahickon Village, as a public nuisance, was informed by Elmer Menges, township solicitor, that such action would make the township financially liable for damages. The owner of the barn has been requested to remove the building but refused to accept the expense of demolition, it was said. In answer to a public request from Francis A. Reilly Jr., 2196 Lantern Rd., Lafayette Hill, to abate a nuisance caused when the Phila. Suburban Water Co. cleared an area on his right-of-way adjacent to his home, which he claimed is being used by local traffic causing dust and danger, was referred to the board secretary who was instructed to contact the water company to seek erection of a barricade. The board received and opened bids for the painting of the exterior of the township building and garage and referred the low bid of $895 from Greater Valley Contractors to their solicitor for recommendation. High bid on the job was $1786.

3 Plymouth Schools Average 23 to a Class

A total of 700 Plymouth elementary school children reported for the 1958-59 term Sept. 8 in one of the most orderly and organized school openings experienced in the area. Cardin Brown, supervising principal for Plymouth-Whitemarsh schools, told members of the School Board of Plymouth township Sept. 9.

Brown, in addressing his remarks to the board at Plymouth Consolidated school, Butler Pike, added he believed credit for the smooth school opening due to both good professional organization and excellent parental cooperation.

The supervisor's report showed 372 pupils at Highfield school, 164 at Black Horse school and 135 at Plymouth Consolidated school.

The enrollment at Plymouth Consolidated has purposely been kept at a minimum, Brown explained, an anticipation of an influx of pupils from housing projects now underway in the area.

The largest single class in the district numbers 32 students; the smallest, 14. Average class size for the school district is about 23 pupils.

Each of the three elementary schools, the highest enrollment is at the first and second grade levels. There are three divisions of both first- and second grades at the Highfield school, and two classes each of third, fourth, fifth and sixth grades.

At Black Horse school there is one first grade class, two second grade classes, one third grade, one fourth grade, two fifth grade classes, one sixth grade, and a special education class.

There are presently two first grade classes at Plymouth Consolidated and one each of second, third, fourth, fifth and sixth grades, town.

The directors approved the appointment to the teaching staff of Mrs. Catherine Ziegler, of Pottsville, who will teach second grade at Black Horse school, holds a B.S. in education from Susquehanna College and has done graduate work at Temple University.

She has had 13 years teaching experience, eight of which were spent in the primary grades.

The board also took formal action to remove Charles Yost, former supervisor of the Black Horse school, from the books as an employee. Yost left the school district last spring to accept another position, but never filed a formal resignation.

The board also agreed, upon Brown's recommendation, to accept expenses incurred by the attendance of Jack Lutz, administrative assistant for Plymouth township school district, at the regional meeting of the Association for Supervision in Curriculum Development, Sept. 25 at Upper Darby. The regional meeting will be followed by a state conference in Philadelphia Sept. 26, 27 and 28.

Lutz will serve as a panelist at the party for a discussion on "Grouping Gifted Children in Elementary Schools."

A request from the Plymouth Consolidated Parent Teacher Association for the use of the Highfield school building Oct. 17 for a square dance was granted by the directors.

Dogs-at-Large Still Concern Of Councilman

"I'll get into the doghouse for this, I suppose," said Councilman James Desimore, "but I'd like to know what is being done about loose dogs in Conshohocken."

This poser was made by Desimore at the Borough Council meeting Sept. 10. "I really blame the people," he mused, "and not the dogs."

Desimore, who is known as a "no-nonsense" councilman, said he was interested in protecting the people who own dogs and that some way should be provided to inform them that an ordinance regarding a dog's life is on the books.

He wanted an advertisement in "the newspaper," but the rest of the councilmen said "that's being taken care of now," as they pointed to the reporter seated at the press table.

Warning: Keep your dog locked up or on a leash!

Bridgeport Curfew Law Seems Certain

Children may stay out after the curfew law with their parents' permission.

The curfew law will go into effect Oct. 14, or 30 days after passage.

Gov. Leader Is Welcomed To County

Lawrence W. Roney, chairman of committee in charge of registration drive in Lower Merion township, is first to greet Gov. George M. Leader upon arrival Tuesday afternoon at Bungalow Inn, Jeffersonville. In lower photo, Roy Froucher, of Horsham, shakes hands with Chief Executive.

Hurricane

He said in Norristown that the Republicans were using the board as a smokescreen issue. "They need this to cover up the fact that they cannot answer our record in welfare and government during our administration," the governor added.

"I saw no need up until now to defend the pardon board because I felt its record spoke for itself," Leader said. "Now it is under attack."

Leader said at Jeffersonville that his opponent "called me a liar in 65 different ways" and added: "He (Scott) is the highest priced pardon lawyer in Pennsylvania... the usual fee is $200, not $2000."

In his press conference the governor said he was very sorry "Charlie Smith stooped so low as to reflect on the integrity" of Dr. Arthur P. Noyes, superintendent of Norristown State Hospital and the prison system as the result of "some slight discrepancy he, Smith, may have found."

He said Smith owes Dr. Noyes an apology. As to opposition expressed by the county commissioners to a movement to establish a county health department, Gov. Leader asked: "How callous can politicians be to think of a health program purely in terms of jobs?" He wholeheartedly endorsed the plan which is to go before the voters on Nov. 4.

Gov. Leader said that Congressman Scott does not have a single public bill named for him in 16 years in the House. He told 200 county union members at the Die Casters Club Tuesday night in Pottstown that Scott questioned his integrity but "won't tell us what constructive things he has done to lick the recession."

"My opponent has boasted of the fact that he introduced a bill for industrial development," the governor said. "It would have substituted for the Payne-Douglas bill, which called for spending $75 million. My opponent's bill would have spent $20 million which would not have been enough for Pennsylvania alone," he said.

As to the charge the Democrats have misused the Pardons Board, he said: "Here are the records for the past three administrations. "During the administration of John Fine, one prisoner was freed for every 22 persons in prison. In the Duff administration, it was one out of 33, while in our administration it is one out of every 40."

"We have the toughest but fairest Pardons Board ever. "They (meaning the Republicans) say I have lacked integrity and charged me with making campaign promises which I failed to fulfill. "They are trying to sell the false illusion that I have been dishonest in this way while it is actually they who have destroyed the state's program."

He charged that the Republican-controlled legislatures had killed the administration's program in both sessions during his tenure. "Now they have the temerity to come back and accuse me of the platform the things they killed for me," he said. He listed aid to education, some highway bills, labor legislation and civil service bills for technical and professional employment. "They dragged their feet on industrial development, too."

Leader said he had stopped the greatest swindle in the history of Pennsylvania in the case of the Manu-Mine Co., which had turned-ripe contracts. "We cleaned up Republican corruption, and when there was corruption among the Democrats, we cleaned that up, too," the governor said.

Container Corp. Sets Record with 100,000th Car

A banner bedecked railroad freight car rolled out of the Container Corporation siding yesterday behind a Reading Co. switcher. The car was the 100,000th handled by Container's eastern division without paying a penalty for delaying a freight car beyond a normal loading time. The American American Railroad officials say that handling 100,000 consecutive cars without paying a penalty is a record for any company. Container's eastern division has not paid a penalty since 1953. Special ceremonies were held at the loading platform as the car pulled out as part of a string of freight cars.

the raft of penalties. They, too, had a TD called back when they were penalized for clipping again.
Conti, who looks like college material, put Allentown back in the ball game on the third play from scrimmage in the second half. Conti cut over his left side from the 40 and went merrily on his way for the 60-yard jaunt to TD-land. Ron Tamasco, an end, kicked the point to tie it up.
Late in the final period, Backs Conti and Frank Pyne rolled over the turf to four first downs to the Saints 16-yard line.
Quarterback Tom Reis fired a pass to End Steve Lisicky, who crossed the goal line. But again the radar eyes of the men in stripes called another clip penalty against Allentown. That man Conti again took off over the right side and wound up back on the 11.
But again the officials stepped in and said 15 yards for a clip. Still the Allentowners fought on, with Conti, Fullback Toth and End John Slatkowsky, 6-4 and 200 pounds, chewing up the Saints defenses, getting another first down in the process and right in the shadow of the uprights near the 20 as the gun sounded the end.

St. Mattis drew only 23 yards in penalties against Allentown's 130. The Saints tried 13 passes, completed five and had one intercepted. Allentown threw nine passes and completed four. Both teams were even in first downs, nine each.

a double team back was George Lochetto (22). Back-ground, End Ed Stanek (84) and Back Bill Haines (42). Allentown players are Tackle Leo Lucci (57) and Back Frank Pyne (54). Game was tie, 7-7.

Bill Brannau Wants Junior Football Loop

St. Matthew's High coach Bill Brannau, speaker at the Conshohocken Youth Baseball banquet held at No. 2 Fire Company Auditorium last Thursday evening, called for a "junior football league" to help build football players in Conshohocken and thereby make his job a little bit easier in years to come.

The telephone company must fulfill its responsibilities

Our responsibilities are threefold—to the public, to our employees, and to the people whose investment dollars have built the telephone system.

Our responsibility to the public is to furnish good, low-cost telephone service to everyone who wants it.

Our responsibility to our employees is to assure them good wages, good working conditions, the chance for advancement according to their abilities.

Our responsibility to the people who have invested their money with us is to provide them with safety and a fair return on their dollars.

It takes a financially sound telephone company . . .

To expand intelligently for the future, to replace inadequate equipment, to adopt new discoveries and developments which lower cost and provide better service.

To attract and hold good employees—and to continually secure qualified people as the demands of the business require.

To provide investors with a fair return on their money and to compete for the additional investment dollars needed for expansion.

Good telephone service is important to our social and business life, and a financially healthy telephone company is essential to good telephone service.
